Jack Hall, Free on $5,000 Bail, to Represent Sugar Workers in Wage Conference—Six Others Are Seized in Raid

Honolulu, Aug. 29 (AP)—An accused Communist, free on $5,000 bail, today leads militant sugar workers in wage talks with the management of the territory's $120,000,000-a-year sugar industry.

He is hulking Jack W. Hall, Wisconsin-born leader of Hawaii's sugar and pineapple workers and longshoremen.

Hall, five other men and one woman were arrested yesterday in a dramatic series of FBI raids that carried the national roundup of suspected Communists into Hawaii.

All were charged with conspiring to advocate the violent overthrow of the U. S. government.

Hall, 36, is regional director of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, the outfit headed by Harry Bridges, another accused Communist.

Hall heads 18,500 sugar workers on 26 plantations in the Hawaiian islands.

Others arrested:

Dwight James Freeman, 39, Hawaii party organizer.

Koji Ariyoshi, 37, editor of the Honolulu Record.

Mrs. Eileen Toshiko Fujimoto, 31, his wife.

The FBI listed all but Freeman as members of the Communist executive board for the islands.

The seven were freed on $5,000 bail each.

U. S. Commissioner Harry B. Steiner first set bail at $75,000 each. Acting U. S. District Attorney Howard K. Moddick asked the high amount because, he said, eight Communist suspects elsewhere had jumped bail.

At stake is another year of peace or strife for Hawaii's major industry, which lost millions of dollars in a 1946 strike that lasted 70-odd days.

Some observers say the recent quiet progress of negotiations indicates a settlement.

The sugar industry has offered a nine-cent increase to 89 cents in the minimum hourly wage under a wage-price formula. The ILWU asked a $1 floor wage.

The floor wage begins with $116 a ton, New York raw sugar price. The wage increases 1½ cents for each $2 per ton rise in raw sugar prices. The immediate wage under industry's proposal would be 99½ cents.

WSB to Put Strike Back In HST Lap

Board Asks Workers to Go Back to Jobs While Hearings Are Held in Dispute

May Evoke Act

Taft-Hartley Law Seen as Possible Weapon in Conflict

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Wage Stabilization Board (WSB) took over the copper strike at President Truman's request today amid signs it would toss the dispute right back to the White House if the walkout continues.

The board has asked the striking Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union, along with a dozen AFL and other unions idled by picket lines, to go back to work while it holds hearings in the dispute.

The Independent Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union refused but said it would have a delegation at today's hearings (1 p. m., EST).

Some officials said the board would ask the strikers to show cause why they should not call off the strike, which has cut off 95 per cent of the nation's copper production. Lead and zinc output, along with sulphuric acid, also have been cut by the walkout over wage and other contract demands.

May Advise President

Should the strike continue after the board's show-cause hearing, Mr. Truman may be advised that the board cannot proceed.

The next likely step would be to invoke the emergency provision of the Taft-Hartley Act, which calls for a court injunction against the strike after a board of inquiry looks into the facts.

That would take about 10 days, during which the national copper stockpiles may be reduced to a dangerous level. They already are critically low.

The Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers want the federal government to press the industry into acceptance of an overall increase of 20½ cents an hour, some 10 cents less than the union had originally asked. Wages now run from $1.31 for service laborers to $1.62 for miners. But Kennecott Copper, one of the industry's "big four," rejected the proposed settlement.

Would Attend Hearings

John Clark, president of the union, said in Denver that a delegation of "rank and file" workers would attend today's hearings, along with spokesmen for the union. They include New York Attorney Nathan Witt, Union Vice President Orville Larson of Globe, Ariz., and Charles Wilson.

In El Paso yesterday, Larson told a reporter the union is willing to accept a 20½ cent an hour overall increase.

There was no violence reported yesterday as an estimated 58,000 members of the mine-mill union

Ridgway Puts Future Of Talks Up to Reds

Says Delay In Parley Is Unjustified

General Curtly Refuses to Reinvestigate Site of Alleged Bombing Incident

Reports Were Made

Aide Declares Leaders Were Checked, 'No' Answers Given

Tokyo, Aug. 29 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway put it squarely up to the Communists today to decide the fate of Korean war truce talks.

The United Nations commander curtly refused to reinvestigate the alleged Kaesong bombing incident. But he said the allies would resume armistice negotiations whenever the Reds are ready to end their "unjustifiable delay" of the conference.

The general view here was that Ridgway's message to the top Communist commanders left them almost no alternatives but to back down or break off the disrupted conferences completely.

Ridgway did not even mention the Communist demand that he admit a UN plane bombed the truce site. He has called the whole incident a fraud.

His message to the North Korean premier, Kim Il Sung, and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-huai dealt only with their request that he send his liaison officers back to Kaesong to look at new evidence.

"A reinvestigation after this lapse of time," Ridgway said, "could serve no purpose other than to continue this unjustifiable delay in the armistice negotiations."

Requests Refused

The UN commander observed that during the original investigation a few hours after the asserted bombing the night of Aug. 22, a Red liaison officer "specifically refused the requests of my liaison officer to continue the investigation during daylight and to leave all of the alleged evidence in place."

The UN commander has said this all along. It was a flat contradiction of a statement in the message from Kim and Peng to which Ridgway was replying.

The Red generals said "we did not on the night of the 22nd reject your making of the reinvestigation in daylight."

Ridgway's note told the Reds "when you are prepared" to resume truce talks I will direct my representatives to meet with yours, with a view to seeking a reasonable armistice agreement."

The Reds broke off the deadlocked negotiations last Thursday because of the asserted bombing incident.

Basic Concern

A public information office release from Ridgway's headquarters, issued nine hours after his note was delivered to the Reds, said:

"It has been the basic and continuing concern" of the UN commander "that the military armistice conference at Kaesong should make rapid progress toward a cessation of bloodshed in Korea and an honorable armistice.

"The United Nations command continues to give the most serious consideration to reports of violation of agreements by either side. It is convinced, however, that nothing can be gained through further investigation of the alleged incident * * * other than prolongation of the suspension of the meeting."

The public information office said "the United Nations command already has carried out a detailed investigation of the alleged incident."

It said Ridgway asked all major UN commanders "to investigate and report whether any elements under their respective command, regardless of nationality, could have been involved in the alleged occurrence at Kaesong.

"Their written reports certified that no forces under their command were involved."

Heat and Humidity Hit Most of Country

(By The Associated Press)

Warm and humid weather continued over most of the country today.

Exceptions were the northwest, the northern Rockies, the Dakotas and Minnesota, which had cooler temperatures.

Scattered showers were reported early today in Illinois, northern Wisconsin, upper Michigan, Montana, western North Dakota, and the normally dry regions of southern California and Arizona.

Leonard Refuses To Sign Waiver In Saratoga Probe

Minton Says Man Excused From Testifying at This Time, May Appear Later

Ballston Spa, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—Dr. Arthur J. Leonard, Democratic boss of Saratoga Springs and resigned city public safety commissioner refused today to sign a waiver of immunity upon appearing before the special grand jury probing Saratoga gambling.

Special Prosecutor John M. Minton said that Dr. Leonard had been excused from testifying "at this time," but indicated the 72-year-old physician migh be called later.

Minton said also that Peter Hofsess had resigned as deputy commissioner of public safety.

Hofsess, who had been acting commissioner since Dr. Leonard resigned last Wednesday, also appeared before the grand jury today and refused to sign a waiver of immunity, Minton said.

Hofsess was a witness before the U. S. Senate Crime Investigating Committee early this year during the committee's probe of Spa gambling. He also appeared before the special grand jury here, June 6, but said he had not been asked to sign a waiver at that time.

La Forge Called

Another scheduled witness today was Inspector Charles A. La Forge of the state police, who told the Kefauver committee last March 16 that gambling places had operated openly all through the 1940s in Saratoga Springs and vicinity.

La Forge also told the Senate group that he had conducted a survey of Saratoga gambling establishments in 1947 at the direction of his superior officers. He said he had found six such places operating at that time.

La Forge has announced he will retire from the state police on Oct. 1, to take a "confidential" job with the General Electric Co. He said it was such an offer he could not afford to turn it down.

A'Hearn Included

Persons who turned up at the county court house today, presumably to appear before the grand jury, included retired Detective Walter A'Hearn of Saratoga Springs, Peter Hewitt, county commissioner of jurors, and George (Moon) Smith, who said he was a Saratoga Springs policeman.

A'Hearn testified before the Keafuver committee. Senator Tobey (R.-N.H.) referred to

Public Schools Will Open Tuesday; Rules Are Cited

School 1 Pupils Will Get Service

Bus Routes for Those to Go to No. 8 Are Given by Officials

Beginning Tuesday morning, September 4, the children who would attend School No. 1, will be transported by bus to School No. 8. The bus will cover the route in the morning and will return the children in the afternoon to the place where they boarded the bus in the morning.

A taxi will leave School No. 8 at 11:20 a. m. and return kindergarten children at the noon recess to their homes. Kindergarten pupils from the area will attend the morning session.

A bus of the Adirondack Trailways will start at the corner of Hudson and Abeel streets at 8:10 a. m.

Tentative Schedule

The tentative schedule which will be followed by the school bus, as announced today by the superintendent of schools is: The bus (Adirondack Trailways) will start at the corner of Hudson and Abeel streets at 8:10 a. m. The bus will travel west along Abeel street to Hamilton street picking up any children who live on Abeel, Berrien, Bernard, DeWitt, Davis, Fitch, DuFlon, Burnett, Hamilton, and Purvis streets, arriving at Hamilton street at approximately 8:15 a. m. Bus turns around at Hamilton street and retraces its route to Dunn street. Bus will

Kindergarten Classes Are Conducted in All Elementary Buildings

All public elementary schools in the City of Kingston will open on Tuesday morning, September 4, at 8:45 o'clock. All schools will be in session at that time. Kingston High School will open at 8:35 o'clock, M.J.M. at 8:30 o'clock.

Kindergartens are being conducted in all elementary schools. Before children may enter a first grade they should have a year's kindergarten training.

For admission to kindergarten the child must reach the age of four years, eight months, on or before September 8. 1951. No exception to this Board of Education requirement will be made.

Elementary Schools

Children entering public schools for the first time are required to present a legal record showing the date of birth. This legal record may either be a birth certificate, baptismal certificate, Bible record, a sworn affidavit or immigration papers. These records are returned to the parent.

To Have Conferences

During the first week of school the kindergarten teachers will have a conference with a parent of each child. This is done in order that the teacher may learn as much as possible about the child and thus make it easier for the teacher to understand the child and for the teacher to help the child become adjusted to kindergarten. These conferences will be held both morning and afternoon on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, September 4. 5, 6 and 7. Regular session of kindergartens will start on Monday, September 10.

Parents of first grade children are urged to arrange for a conference with the first grade teacher. These conferences will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons, September 4, 5, 6 and 7.

Cafeterias will be open in all public schools. Parents are urged to have children take advantage of the splendid meals which are served to the children. Meals will start being served on Wednesday, September 5.

MJM School

All seventh and eighth grade children will attend Myron J. Michael School. Students attending MJM school will report to the school auditorium at 8:30 a. m. on Tuesday, September 4. There will be a half day session and buses for non-residents have been requested to schedule their return trip at noon.

It will be unnecessary for students promoted from the Kingston city schools to register at MJM prior to the opening date. It will also be unnecessary for non-resident students who were

Barge Sinks, Man Drowns Off Malden; Five Escape

Oil Craft Attempted to Pull Another From Mud in Hudson

John Robinson, 33, of Dundee, Starkey county, second engineer on the Penn No. 2, oil barge, was drowned last night about 11 o'clock when the oil barge overturned and sank in the Hudson river off Malden while engaged in releasing a sister oil barge, the Morania 110, from the mud flats about 300 yards off the west bank of the river midway between the blinker and the Nun.

Troopers Notified

State Police at the Kingston station were notified and went to the scene to make an investigation. The Coast Guard was notified of the accident and efforts will be made later today to raise the sunken oil ship.

The Morania had been stuck on the mud flats since midnight Monday.

Yesterday the Penn and 4 came down the river to attempt to pull the stranded barge off the flats. Their efforts were successful and the Morania was pulled free but the hawsers pulled taut and the crew members attempted to cut them loose. They were unsuccessful in that effort and the Penn No. 2 overturned and sunk and Robinson went down with the boat.

Convenient Change

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—The cow became a horse, and now it's quite all right to shoot the beast. It's a tale of mystic India, told in testimony at Senate hearings on the new foreign aid bill. A big wild animal of the antelope family and known as the "nehil gae" was causing extensive damage to crops in the field. But the farmers would not harm it because "nehil gae" mean "blue cow," and the cow is sacred to the Indu. So the Indian government has changed the name to "nehil goa"—which means "blue horse." Horses are not sacred, and so now the beast can be killed to protect the crops of food short India.

Denied Burial

Sioux City, Ia., Aug. 29 (AP)—A Winnebago Indian, killed in action in Korea, has been denied burial in Sioux City Memorial Park Cemetery because he was not a member of the Caucasian race. Mrs. Evelyn Rice of Winnebago, Neb., widow of Sgt. 1/C John R. Rice, 37, said cemetery authorities stopped the burial yesterday as the body was about to be lowered into the grave. The widow, a white woman, said she did not know that Indians could not be buried there.

Were Out for Good Time

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 29 (AP)—Four hundred eighty-one persons drowned while out for a good time at Tennessee Valley Authority lakes from the time they were created to June 30 this year, the TVA reported today. Of this, 337 died in boating accidents. The others drowned while swimming, wading or playing in the lakes or in accidents while fishing or diving from the banks.

Replacement Predicted

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) predicted today that Federal Judge Delbert E. Metzger of Hawaii will be replaced for reducing the bail of seven Communist suspects arrested in Hawaii.

391 Polio Cases Reported

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—The State Health Department said today 391 cases of polio had been reported upstate so far this year. This was 261 less than the total in the corresponding 1950 period.

Poisoned Bread Blamed for Deaths

Others Are Driven Mad, Some Try Suicide in French Area

Paris, Aug. 29 (AP)—Poisoned bread was blamed today for a bizarre illness in the south of France which has taken four lives, driven people mad and forced some to attempt suicide. Three other towns reported epidemics of ordinary food poisoning.

Strange tales of "bread that makes men mad" came from the tiny Rhone river port of Pont St. Espirit, where four persons have died since the weird malady struck Aug. 17.

At least 200 persons have called for urgent medical care and some said their brains were wracked by hallucinations of being surrounded by flames or monsters.

Physicians found that all those stricken had eaten bread from the same bakeries. Some bread was thrown into the river and the fish died. Authorities are thinking of banning fishing in the river. The use of flour from a number of mills supplying the town already has been banned.

Ergot Is Blamed

One theory is that the flour was poisoned with ergot, a cereal parasite which flourishes in rainy years. Officials thought the illness might be a recurrence of "fervent fever" known during the middle ages to have been caused by ergot and to have driven men mad.

They've given some of the bread

Six Soldiers Die In Korean Flood

Seven on Truck Escape Death in River; 72 Saved by Helicopter

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 29 (AP)—Six American soldiers drowned when the rapidly rising Imjin river trapped and overturned their truck last night.

Seven companions on the truck escaped.

Seventy-two other Allied soldiers stranded by the erratic river were rescued by helicopters. Fourteen of them were saved after six hours on a broken pontoon bridge, fending off debris that threatened to sweep their pontoon from its precarious perch in the dark.

The men swept off the truck drowned in full view of their buddies on both banks of the Imjin. The army withheld their names.

15 Men Aboard

Lights were turned on after the truck stalled about 30 feet from shore. Aboard were 15 men of the 24th Division returning to the United Nations side of the river from patrol duty on the west bank.

Sgt. Richard Stolzenberg of Brooklyn was swept under a bridge.

Then he lost consciousness. He came to two miles downstream on a small island.

Two of the helicopters went hunting for 58 soldiers on patrol duty who had been stranded on the Communist side of the river.

Lt. Angelo Mecca of Throop, Pa., and Lt. Charles J. DuPont of Amsterdam, N. Y., found the patrols.

They carried them back to the U. N. side, usually two at a time. It took 31 trips and three hours.

With Mecca and DuPont in the rescue was Capt. Daniel J. Mille of Stony Point, N. Y.

Tobin Hits Slander Under Immunity, Asks Proof or Trial

Secretary of Labor Gives Talk Before VFW; Specifies No Persons

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin today said "slanderers" in the "privileged sanctuary" of the U. S. Senate should be made to prove their charges or face a libel court.

The founders of the United States, he said, did not intend the Senate to be "a citadel . . . to hide in from the libel laws."

In a speech before the 52nd national encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Tobin did not mention any names nor specify the charges he referred to.

But it was evident he meant the accusations by some senators, including Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R.-Wis.), that Communists had infiltrated the administration.

Tobin told the veterans that they must "polish up the armor" of democracy to defeat communism, show the world "we practice the Bill of Rights as well as preach it."

Tendency Shown

He said some Americans "have shown a tendency to forget" that the Bill of Rights provides for fair trial. He continued:

"A fair trial is a trial in a courtroom, not in a political speech or in a press conference. . . . And unless a man is to be given a fair trial in a courtroom, unless his accusers are prepared to supply concrete evidence against him, he ought not to be made the butt of irresponsible slander, particularly from the privileged sanctuary of the Senate. . . .

". . . If a man has charges to make against one of his countrymen, he ought to be prepared to

Actor Robert Walker Dies; Respiratory Failure Blamed

Hollywood, Aug. 29 (AP)—Actor Robert Walker, 32, who zoomed to fame during World War 2 in "shy guy" movie roles, died last night at his home while undergoing treatment for an emotional disturbance.

Dr. Frederick J. Hacker, a psychiatrist who said he had been treating Walker for 18 months, was summoned by the actor last evening. The doctor said he talked to Walker for two hours, then called Dr. Sidney Silver, another psychiatrist, to administer a sedative.

Dr. Hacker said the sedative (an injection of sodium amytal, a barbiturate) had been given Walker many times for emotional disturbances and with good results.

However, this time the actor lapsed into a coma, the psychiatrist said, and developed respiratory failure. An inhalator squad was called but failed to revive him.

The physician added that Walker's former wife, Actress Jennifer Jones, and now the wife of Producer David O. Selznick, was notified and said she is flying here from New York. The two young sons of Walker and Miss Jones have been spending the summer with the actor.

Walker had been in films eight years. Recently he made a successful comeback in pictures after a lengthy illness.

He was treated at the Menninger Clinic, Topeka, Kan., for a nervous disorder in 1948.

Walker's films included "See Here, Private Hargrove," "Since You Went Away," "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo," "The Clock," and "Till the Clouds Roll By."

He was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, Oct. 13, 1919. His father, Horace Walker, was editor of the Deseret Evening News.

Bob attended grammar school in Salt Lake City, and the San Diego, Calif., Army and Navy Academy. There, he enrolled in a dramatics course. His aptitude won him two scholarships to the Pasadena Community Playhouse, but he accepted the offer of an aunt, Mrs. Hortense Odlum of New York, to send him through the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in that city.

While attending classes there in 1937, Walker met Miss Jones.

Later, he and Jennifer had roles at 50 cents a performance at the Cherry Lane Theatre in Greenwich Village.

Bob saved his $25-a-week salary for 14 weeks and then he and Jennifer married. They came to Hollywood, had no luck here, returned to New York where they occupied a $16-a-month room at the rear of a tenement. Walker took whatever jobs he could find while awaiting stage employment.

The Walkers' fortunes turned upward when Bob got his first radio job in "Yesterday's Children."

They were in Hollywood a little over a year and were having phenomenal success when they separated.

Walker continued to get good roles and Jennifer skyrocketed to new heights under the David O. Selznick banner, and eventually Selznick married her.

Walker became involved in several brushes with the law on drunk driving cases before he went to Topeka for treatment.

His comeback after his physical recovery was progressing remarkably well. He has done three pictures recently, "Vengeance Valley" with Burt Lancaster; "My Son, John" with Helen Hayes, and "Strangers on the Train," directed by Alfred Hitchock.

Long Island Woman Signs Statement on Missing Jewels

Mineola, N. Y., Aug 29 (AP)—A young Long Island matron who is listed in the social register also had her name on a police blotter today, accused of stealing $10,000 in gems from the home of a friend.

Nassau County Chief of Detectives Stuyvesant Pinnell said yesterday that Mrs. Ethel Carhart Jones Taylor, 25, signed a statement admitting she took the jewels from the Syosset, N. Y., home of Mrs. Margaret Elizabeth Chew Welch last March 29.

Mrs. Taylor's husband, John, is an executive in a New Jersey airplane parts factory, the detective said. Her father, Warner L. Jones, a New York broker, has estates at Glen Head, N. Y., and Aiken, S. C.

The social register also lists Mrs. Welch. Her husband, Earle is a young banker.

Pinnell said Mrs. Taylor was arrested at her New Hyde Park home after three pieces of the jewelry, located in a Manhattan store, were traced to her as the seller. Three other pieces were found at her home, Pinnell said.

Mrs. Taylor said she had "thrown the rest (of the jewels) in the Atlantic ocean," the detective said.

She pleaded innocent to a charge of grand larceny and was released in $5,000 bail.

Police said Mrs. Taylor, the mother of two small children, took the jewelry from the boudoir of Mrs. Welch, who was away at the time. A butler had admitted Mrs. Taylor to wait for her friend police added.

Mrs. Taylor admitted she sold some of the gems Aug. 17 to the Manhattan jeweler for $450, Pinnell said. He added that she still had the uncashed check at her home.

Pinnell said he asked her why she had waited five months to sell the jewels, and she replied:

"I needed the money at the time."

"Then why didn't you cash the check?"

She simply shrugged, he said.

Refused Candy, Kills Self

Wilmington, Calif., Aug. 29 (AP)—Two-year-old George Geiger asked his mother for candy before mealtime. She refused him. Angered, the little boy butted his head into the wall yesterday with such force that he was killed. The mother, Mrs. Marian Geiger, called firemen but resuscitation efforts failed. Police listed the death as accidental.

Jack Hall, Free on $5,000 Bail, to Represent Sugar Workers in Wage Conference—Six Others Are Seized in Raid

Honolulu, Aug. 29 (AP)—An accused Communist, free on $5,000 bail, today leads militant sugar workers in wage talks with the management of the territory's $120,000,000-a-year sugar industry.

He is hulking Jack W. Hall, Wisconsin-born leader of Hawaii's sugar and pineapple workers and longshoremen.

All were charged with conspiring to advocate the violent overthrow of the U. S. government.

Hall, 36, is regional director of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, the outfit headed by Harry Bridges, another accused Communist.

Hall heads 18,500 sugar workers on 26 plantations in the Hawaiian islands.

Others arrested:

Dwight James Freeman, 39, Hawaii party organizer.

Koji Ariyoshi, 37, editor of the Honolulu Record.

Mrs. Eileen Toshiko Fujimoto, 31, his wife.

Jack D. Kimoto, 45, party chairman before World War 2.

The FBI listed all but Freeman as members of the Communist executive board for the islands.

The seven were freed on $5,000 bail each.

U. S. Commissioner Harry B. Steiner first set bail at $75,000 each. Acting U. S. District Attorney Howard K. Moddick asked the high amount because, he said, eight Communist suspects elsewhere had jumped bail.

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Wage Stabilization Board (WSB) took over the copper strike at President Truman's request today amid signs it would toss the dispute right back to the White House if the walkout continues.

The board has asked the striking Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union, along with a dozen AFL and other unions idled by picket lines, to go back to work while it holds hearings in the dispute.

Should the strike continue after the board's show-cause hearing, Mr. Truman may be advised that the board cannot proceed.

The next likely step would be to invoke the emergency provision of the Taft-Hartley Act, which calls for a court injunction against the strike after a board of inquiry looks into the facts.

Says Delay In Parley Is Unjustified

General Curtly Refuses to Reinvestigate Site of Alleged Bombing Incident

Aide Declares Leaders Were Checked, 'No' Answers Given

Tokyo, Aug. 29 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway put it squarely up to the Communists today to decide the fate of Korean war truce talks.

The United Nations commander curtly refused to reinvestigate the alleged Kaesong bombing incident. But he said the allies would resume armistice negotiations whenever the Reds are ready to end their "unjustifiable delay" of the conference.

The general view here was that Ridgway's message to the top Communist commanders left them almost no alternatives but to back down or break off the disrupted conferences completely.

Ridgway did not even mention the Communist demand that he admit a UN plane bombed the truce site. He has called the whole incident a fraud.

His message to the North Korean premier, Kim Il Sung, and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-huai dealt only with their request that he send his liaison officers back to Kaesong to look at new evidence.

"A reinvestigation after this lapse of time," Ridgway said, "could serve no purpose other than to continue this unjustifiable delay in the armistice negotiations."

Requests Refused

The UN commander observed that during the original investigation a few hours after the asserted bombing the night of Aug. 22, a Red liaison officer "specifically refused the requests of my liaison officer to continue the investigation during daylight and to leave all of the alleged evidence in place."

The UN commander has said this all along. It was a flat contradiction of a statement in the message from Kim and Peng to which Ridgway was replying.

The Red generals said "we did not on the night of the 22nd reject your making of the reinvestigation in daylight."

Ridgway's note told the Reds "when you are prepared" to resume truce talks I will direct my representatives to meet with yours, with a view to seeking a reasonable armistice agreement."

The Reds broke off the deadlocked negotiations last Thursday because of the asserted bombing incident.

Basic Concern

A public information office release from Ridgway's headquarters, issued nine hours after his note was delivered to the Reds, said:

"It has been the basic and continuing concern" of the UN commander "that the military armistice conference at Kaesong should make rapid progress toward a cessation of bloodshed in Korea and an honorable armistice.

"The United Nations command continues to give the most serious consideration to reports of violation of agreements by either side. It is convinced, however, that nothing can be gained through further investigation of the alleged incident * * * other than prolongation of the suspension of the meeting."

The public information office said "the United Nations command already has carried out a detailed investigation of the alleged incident."

It said Ridgway asked all major UN commanders "to investigate and report whether any elements under their respective command, regardless of nationality, could have been involved in the alleged occurrence at Kaesong.

Oil Craft Attempted to Pull Another From Mud in Hudson

John Robinson, 33, of Dundee, Starkey county, second engineer on the Penn No. 2, oil barge, was drowned last night about 11 o'clock when the oil barge overturned and sank in the Hudson river off Malden while engaged in releasing a sister oil barge, the Morania 110, from the mud flats about 300 yards off the west bank of the river midway between the blinker and the Nun.

Troopers Notified

State Police at the Kingston station were notified and went to the scene to make an investigation. The Coast Guard was notified of the accident and efforts will be made later today to raise the sunken oil ship.

The Morania had been stuck on the mud flats since midnight Monday.

Yesterday the Penn and 4 came down the river to attempt to pull the stranded barge off the flats. Their efforts were successful and the Morania was pulled free but the hawsers pulled taut and the crew members attempted to cut them loose. They were unsuccessful in that effort and the Penn No. 2 overturned and sunk and Robinson went down with the boat.

Convenient Change

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—The cow became a horse, and now it's quite all right to shoot the beast. It's a tale of mystic India, told in testimony at Senate hearings on the new foreign aid bill. A big wild animal of the antelope family and known as the "nehil gae" was causing extensive damage to crops in the field. But the farmers would not harm it because "nehil gae" mean "blue cow," and the cow is sacred to the Indu. So the Indian government has changed the name to "nehil goa" —which means "blue horse." Horses are not sacred, and so now the beast can be killed to protect the crops of food short India.

Denied Burial

Sioux City, Ia., Aug. 29 (AP)—A Winnebago Indian, killed in action in Korea, has been denied burial in Sioux City Memorial Park Cemetery because he was not a member of the Caucasian race. Mrs. Evelyn Rice of Winnebago, Neb., widow of Sgt. 1/C John R. Rice, 37, said cemetery authorities stopped the burial yesterday as the body was about to be lowered into the grave. The widow, a white woman, said she did not know that Indians could not be buried there.

Were Out for Good Time

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 29 (AP)—Four hundred eighty-one persons drowned while out for a good time at Tennessee Valley Authority lakes from the time they were created to June 30 this year, the TVA reported today. Of this, 337 died in boating accidents. The others drowned while swimming, wading or playing in the lakes or in accidents while fishing or diving from the banks.

Replacement Predicted

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) predicted today that Federal Judge Delbert E. Metzger of Hawaii will be replaced for reducing the bail of seven Communist suspects arrested in Hawaii.

391 Polio Cases Reported

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—The State Health Department said today 391 cases of polio had been reported upstate so far this year. This was 261 less than the total in the corresponding 1950 period.

Poisoned Bread Blamed for Deaths

Others Are Driven Mad, Some Try Suicide in French Area

Paris, Aug. 29 (AP)—Poisoned bread was blamed today for a bizarre illness in the south of France which has taken four lives, driven people mad and forced some to attempt suicide. Three other towns reported epidemics of ordinary food poisoning.

Strange tales of "bread that makes men mad" came from the tiny Rhone river port of Pont St. Espirit, where four persons have died since the weird malady struck Aug. 17.

At least 200 persons have called for urgent medical care and some said their brains were wracked by hallucinations of being surrounded by flames or monsters.

Physicians found that all those stricken had eaten bread from the same bakeries. Some bread was thrown into the river and the fish died. Authorities are thinking of banning fishing in the river. The use of flour from a number of mills supplying the town already has been banned.

Ergot Is Blamed

One theory is that the flour was poisoned with ergot, a cereal parasite which flourishes in rainy years. Officials thought the illness might be a recurrence of "fervent fever" known during the middle ages to have been caused by ergot and to have driven men mad.

They've given some of the bread

Six Soldiers Die In Korean Flood

Seven on Truck Escape Death in River; 72 Saved by Helicopter

Munsan, Korea, Aug. 29 (AP)—Six American soldiers drowned when the rapidly rising Imjin river trapped and overturned their truck last night.

Seven companions on the truck escaped.

Seventy-two other Allied soldiers stranded by the erratic river were rescued by helicopters. Fourteen of them were saved after six hours on a broken pontoon bridge, fending off debris that threatened to sweep their pontoon from its precarious perch in the dark.

The men swept off the truck drowned in full view of their buddies on both banks of the Imjin. The army withheld their names.

The tragedy occurred in the eerie gleam of floodlights trying to pierce the rain.

15 Men Aboard

Lights were turned on after the truck stalled about 30 feet from shore. Aboard were 15 men of the 24th Division returning to the United Nations side of the river from patrol duty on the west bank.

Sgt. Richard Stolzenberg of Brooklyn was swept under a bridge.

Then he lost consciousness. He came to two miles downstream on a small island.

Two of the helicopters went hunting for 58 soldiers on patrol duty who had been stranded on the Communist side of the river.

Lt. Angelo Mecca of Throop, Pa., and Lt. Charles J. DuPont of Amsterdam, N. Y., found the patrols.

They carried them back to the U. N. side, usually two at a time. It took 31 trips and three hours.

With Mecca and DuPont in the rescue was Capt. Daniel J. Mille of Stony Point, N. Y.

Tobin Hits Slander Under Immunity, Asks Proof or Trial

Secretary of Labor Gives Talk Before VFW; Specifies No Persons

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin today said "slanderers" in the "privileged sanctuary" of the U. S. Senate should be made to prove their charges or face a libel court.

The founders of the United States, he said, did not intend the Senate to be "a citadel . . . to hide in from the libel laws."

In a speech before the 52nd national encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Tobin did not mention any names nor specify the charges he referred to.

But it was evident he meant the accusations by some senators, including Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R.-Wis.), that Communists had infiltrated the administration.

Tobin told the veterans that they must "polish up the armor" of democracy to defeat communism, show the world "we practice the Bill of Rights as well as preach it."

Tendency Shown

He said some Americans "have shown a tendency to forget" that the Bill of Rights provides for fair trial. He continued:

"A fair trial is a trial in a courtroom, not in a political speech or in a press conference. . . . And unless a man is to be given a fair trial in a courtroom, unless his accusers are prepared to supply concrete evidence against him, he ought not to be made the butt of irresponsible slander, particularly from the privileged sanctuary of the Senate. . . .

". . . If a man has charges to make against one of his countrymen, he ought to be prepared to

Actor Robert Walker Dies; Respiratory Failure Blamed

Hollywood, Aug. 29 (AP)—Actor Robert Walker, 32, who zoomed to fame during World War 2 in "shy guy" movie roles, died last night at his home while undergoing treatment for an emotional disturbance.

Dr. Frederick J. Hacker, a psychiatrist who said he had been treating Walker for 18 months, was summoned by the actor last evening. The doctor said he talked to Walker for two hours, then called Dr. Sidney Silver, another psychiatrist, to administer a sedative.

Dr. Hacker said the sedative (an injection of sodium amytal, a barbiturate) had been given Walker many times for emotional disturbances and with good results.

However, this time the actor lapsed into a coma, the psychiatrist said, and developed respiratory failure. An inhalator squad was called but failed to revive him.

The physician added that Walker's former wife, Actress Jennifer Jones, and now the wife of Producer David O. Selznick, was notified and said she is flying here from New York. The two young sons of Walker and Miss Jones have been spending the summer with the actor.

Walker had been in films eight years. Recently he made a successful comeback in pictures after a lengthy illness.

He was treated at the Menninger Clinic, Topeka, Kan., for a nervous disorder in 1948.

Walker's films included "See Here, Private Hargrove," "Since You Went Away," "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo," "The Clock," and "Till the Clouds Roll By."

He was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, Oct. 13, 1919. His father, Horace Walker, was editor of the Deseret Evening News.

Bob attended grammar school in Salt Lake City, and the San Diego, Calif., Army and Navy Academy. There, he enrolled in a dramatics course. His aptitude won him two scholarships to the Pasadena Community Playhouse, but he accepted the offer of an aunt, Mrs. Hortense Odlum of New York, to send him through the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in that city.

While attending classes there in 1937, Walker met Miss Jones.

Later, he and Jennifer had roles at 50 cents a performance at the Cherry Lane Theatre in Greenwich Village.

Bob saved his $25-a-week salary for 14 weeks and then he and Jennifer married. They came to Hollywood, had no luck here, returned to New York where they occupied a $16-a-month room at the rear of a tenement. Walker took whatever jobs he could find while awaiting stage employment.

The Walkers' fortunes turned upward when Bob got his first radio job in "Yesterday's Children."

They were in Hollywood a little over a year and were having phenomenal success when they separated.

Walker continued to get good roles and Jennifer skyrocketed to new heights under the David O. Selznick banner, and eventually Selznick married her.

Walker became involved in several brushes with the law on drunk driving cases before he went to Topeka for treatment.

His comeback after his physical recovery was progressing remarkably well. He has done three pictures recently, "Vengeance Valley" with Burt Lancaster; "My Son, John" with Helen Hayes, and "Strangers on the Train," directed by Alfred Hitchock.

Leonard Refuses To Sign Waiver In Saratoga Probe

Minton Says Man Excused From Testifying at This Time, May Appear Later

Ballston Spa, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—Dr. Arthur J. Leonard, Democratic boss of Saratoga Springs and resigned city public safety commissioner refused today to sign a waiver of immunity upon appearing before the special grand jury probing Saratoga gambling.

Special Prosecutor John M. Minton said that Dr. Leonard had been excused from testifying "at this time," but indicated the 72-year-old physician migh be called later.

Minton said also that Peter Hofsess had resigned as deputy commissioner of public safety.

Hofsess, who had been acting commissioner since Dr. Leonard resigned last Wednesday, also appeared before the grand jury today and refused to sign a waiver of immunity, Minton said.

Hofsess was a witness before the U. S. Senate Crime Investigating Committee early this year during the committee's probe of Spa gambling. He also appeared before the special grand jury here, June 6, but said he had not been asked to sign a waiver at that time.

La Forge Called

Another scheduled witness today was Inspector Charles A. La Forge of the state police, who told the Kefauver committee last March 16 that gambling places had operated openly all through the 1940s in Saratoga Springs and vicinity.

La Forge also told the Senate group that he had conducted a survey of Saratoga gambling establishments in 1947 at the direction of his superior officers. He said he had found six such places operating at that time.

La Forge has announced he will retire from the state police on Oct. 1, to take a "confidential" job with the General Electric Co. He said it was such an offer he could not afford to turn it down.

A'Hearn Included

Persons who turned up at the county court house today, presumably to appear before the grand jury, included retired Detective Walter A'Hearn of Saratoga Springs, Peter Hewitt, county commissioner of jurors, and George (Moon) Smith, who said he was a Saratoga Springs policeman.

A'Hearn testified before the Keafuver committee. Senator Tobey (R.-N.H.) referred to

Public Schools Will Open Tuesday; Rules Are Cited

School 1 Pupils Will Get Service

Bus Routes for Those to Go to No. 8 Are Given by Officials

Beginning Tuesday morning, September 4, the children who would attend School No. 1, will be transported by bus to School No. 8. The bus will cover the route in the morning and will return the children in the afternoon to the place where they boarded the bus in the morning.

A taxi will leave School No. 8 at 11:20 a. m. and return kindergarten children at the noon recess to their homes. Kindergarten pupils from the area will attend the morning session.

A bus of the Adirondack Trailways will start at the corner of Hudson and Abeel streets at 8:10 a. m.

Tentative Schedule

The tentative schedule which will be followed by the school bus, as announced today by the superintendent of schools is: The bus (Adirondack Trailways) will start at the corner of Hudson and Abeel streets at 8:10 a. m. The bus will travel west along Abeel street to Hamilton street picking up any children who live on Abeel, Berrien, Bernard, DeWitt, Davis, Fitch, DuFlon, Burnett, Hamilton, and Purvis streets, arriving at Hamilton street at approximately 8:15 a. m. Bus turns around at Hamilton street and retraces its route to Dunn street. Bus will

Kindergarten Classes Are Conducted in All Elementary Buildings

All public elementary schools in the City of Kingston will open on Tuesday morning, September 4, at 8:45 o'clock. All schools will be in session at that time. Kingston High School will open at 8:35 o'clock, M.J.M. at 8:30 o'clock.

Kindergartens are being conducted in all elementary schools. Before children may enter a first grade they should have a year's kindergarten training.

For admission to kindergarten the child must reach the age of four years, eight months, on or before September 8, 1951. No exception to this Board of Education requirement will be made.

Elementary Schools

Children entering public schools for the first time are required to present a legal record showing the date of birth. This legal record may either be a birth certificate, baptismal certificate, Bible record, a sworn affidavit or immigration papers. These records are returned to the parent.

To Have Conferences

During the first week of school the kindergarten teachers will have a conference with a parent of each child. This is done in order that the teacher may learn as much as possible about the child and thus make it easier for the teacher to understand the child and for the teacher to help the child become adjusted to kindergarten. These conferences will be held both morning and afternoon on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, September 4, 5, 6 and 7. Regular session of kindergartens will start on Monday, September 10.

Parents of first grade children are urged to arrange for a conference with the first grade teacher. These conferences will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons, September 4, 5, 6 and 7.

Cafeterias will be open in all public schools. Parents are urged to have children take advantage of the splendid meals which are served to the children. Meals will start being served on Wednesday, September 5.

MJM School

All seventh and eighth grade children will attend Myron J. Michael School. Students attending MJM school will report to the school auditorium at 8:30 a. m. on Tuesday, September 4. There will be a half day session and buses for non-residents have been requested to schedule their return trip at noon.

It will be unnecessary for students promoted from the Kingston city schools to register at MJM prior to the opening date. It will also be unnecessary for non-resident students who were

Long Island Woman Signs Statement on Missing Jewels

Mineola, N. Y., Aug 29 (AP)—A young Long Island matron who is listed in the social register also had her name on a police blotter today, accused of stealing $10,000 in gems from the home of a friend.

Nassau County Chief of Detectives Stuyvesant Pinnell said yesterday that Mrs. Ethel Carhart Jones Taylor, 25, signed a statement admitting she took the jewels from the Syosset, N. Y., home of Mrs. Margaret Elizabeth Chew Welch last March 29.

Mrs. Taylor's husband, John, is an executive in a New Jersey airplane parts factory, the detective said. Her father, Warner L. Jones, a New York broker, has estates at Glen Head, N. Y., and Aiken, S. C.

The social register also lists Mrs. Welch. Her husband, Earle is a young banker.

Pinnell said Mrs. Taylor was arrested at her New Hyde Park home after three pieces of the jewelry, located in a Manhattan store, were traced to her as the seller. Three other pieces were found at her home, Pinnell said.

Mrs. Taylor said she had "thrown the rest (of the jewels) in the Atlantic ocean," the detective said.

She pleaded innocent to a charge of grand larceny and was released in $5,000 bail.

Police said Mrs. Taylor, the mother of two small children, took the jewelry from the boudoir of Mrs. Welch, who was away at the time. A butler had admitted Mrs. Taylor to wait for her friend police added.

Mrs. Taylor admitted she sold some of the gems Aug. 17 to the Manhattan jeweler for $450, Pinnell said. He added that she still had the uncashed check at her home.

Pinnell said he asked her why she had waited five months to sell the jewels, and she replied:

"I needed the money at the time."

"Then why didn't you cash the check?"

She simply shrugged, he said.

Refused Candy, Kills Self

Wilmington, Calif., Aug. 29 (AP)—Two-year-old George Geiger asked his mother for candy before mealtime. She refused him. Angered, the little boy butted his head into the wall yesterday with such force that he was killed. The mother, Mrs. Marian Geiger, called firemen but resuscitation efforts failed. Police listed the death as accidental.

SAUGERTIES NEWS

Saugerties, Aug. 28—Former employes of the Diamond Mills Paper Company shared in the wage claims recently won by Attorneys Francello and Campochiaro of this village and John Egan of Woodstock. The amount to be distributed among about 140 persons amounts to about $12,000.

All traffic on the new Thruway between Saugerties and Catskill are now using the south bound lane while contractors are making a nine-foot calcium treated shoulder.

Twins have been born to Mr. and Mrs. Ledoux at the Kingston Hospital. Mrs. Ledoux is the former Miss Juliana Nau of Main street, this village. The girls names are Juliana and Jacqueline.

Mrs. Adelaide Turtle of New York is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lamouree in Blue Mountain and relatives in Catskill.

Sunset Drive-In Plans Own 'State Fair' Labor Day

Robert Case, manager of the Sunset Drive-In announced today that the outdoor theatre on Onteora Trail will hold its own "state fair" Labor Day beginning at 5 p. m. coupled with a two-night stand of the Jeanne Crain-Dana Andrews technicolor movie of the same name.

The Sunset fair will be a close approximation of county fairs across the nation. Prize-winning mounts from the Ulster County Fair horse show will once again go through their paces, with one addition. Francis Waters' 3,200 pound blue ribbon pair will pull a hay rick to give kids a taste of that old-fashioned tradition, a hay ride. Others to show will be Blair Cornish who won in the county fair's novelty show; Janet Mack, showing for L. Basch Stables, Hurley; Nancy Bogert, Stone Ridge award winner; Robert Davis of Hurley who copped first place in the 15.2 and over saddle class; Bright Acres' prize-winning Shetland; Betty Battenfeld with her first place road hack type.

During the fair 4-H Club members will display their hobbies and their animals, and a plate supper will be served on the grounds from 5 to 7 p. m. In addition there will be pony rides by McCabes Bright Acres, a merry-go-round, swings, slides, and horseshoe pitching.

Trucks, plows and cultivators, regular drawing cards at larger fairs, will be shown by the Albany Avenue Garage, Everett Van Kleeck & Co., Inc., Old Capitol Motors and Martin & Moran, Inc.

The feature presentation will begin at 8:15 p. m. or shortly after. Second technicolor attraction will be Kentucky, with Loretta Young and Richard Greene.

SHOPPERS TODAY know that a dollar buys far less of most things than it did in 1939. But it buys a lot in telephone service. Today the telephone takes a smaller part of the family budget than ten years ago.

More phones, better service make telephone big bargain

Telephone service has made big strides in value in the past ten years.

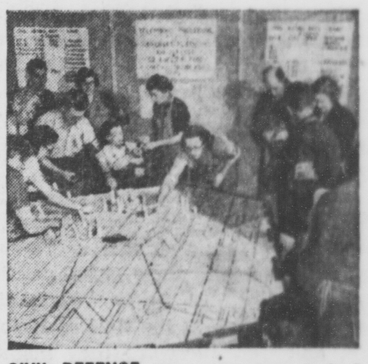

It's faster, more dependable and offers a wider calling range than ever before. On the average, a telephone today goes three years with no trouble at all on the line—nearly six years without an actual interruption of service!

Since 1945, the New York Telephone Company has added some 2,750,000 more telephones—bringing the total in the State to well over 5,000,000. Users in the average community can now reach twice as many phones without a toll charge as they could ten years ago.

These improvements and additions mean that telephones today can give more value than ever in running errands, handling business, keeping friends and relatives in close touch.

Yet service has gone up much less in price than most other things you buy—only 11%, as compared with an 86% rise in the cost of living since 1939! Even the new rates now requested will add less than 2½¢ a day—about the price of two cigarettes—to the average residential bill.

Compared to other items on the family budget, the telephone is certainly one of today's big bargains.

CIVIL DEFENSE filter center is typical of steadily growing need of telephones for defense. These requirements must be met first, but everything possible is being done to provide service for everyone who wants it.

KEEPING UP with demand for telephone service is aided by ingenuity of Western Electric and Bell Laboratories in using substitutes for hard-to-get materials. Girl above is cleaning a clear plastic cover that replaces scarce aluminum in this piece of telephone switchboard equipment.

CLOAK AND DAGGER MURDER

An Italian court has decided definitely to seek extradition of the two American officers whom the Defense Department substantially accuses of murdering a fellow officer in northern Italy seven years ago.

The three men led an Office of Strategic Services mission to contact Italian partisans behind the German lines. The two accused, Lt. Aldo Icardi and Sgt. Carlos LoDolce, are alleged to have killed their leader, Maj. William V. Holohan, in disagreement over his conduct of their operations.

This bizarre case has many preplexing angles. Against LoDolce stands a published "confession," said to have been signed by him and witnessed by two special agents of the Central Intelligence Agency and a Rochester, N. Y., police officer. But LoDolce now says that statement does not tell the full story, though it gave many details of the alleged killing.

Icardi denies any part in the major's death. He says if Holohan was murdered, it must have happened after he was separated from the group. He suggests the major was shot by Germans who attacked the OSS mission.

Two Italian partisans who worked with the mission have "confessed" to assisting Icardi and LoDolce, and they are soon to stand trial for murder.

The Defense Department said the mission took $100,000 with it, but Maj.-Gen. William J. Donovan, former OSS chief, insists the sum was only $14,000.

Though LoDolce's "confession" was taken a year ago, the department withheld any account of the story until now. It is not clear whether its release was forced or speeded by knowledge that a magazine was about to publish it in detail. Last year an Italian newspaper carried a version of it, but it wasn't widely circulated.

In all the confusion and mystery, one thing stands out: Holohan's body was found in Lake Orta exactly where the two partisans said it had been dumped in 1944. It was trussed in a sleeping bag and there was a bullet hole in the head. Again, these facts fit the partisans' story.

They also fit the account allegedly given intelligence officers in this country by LoDolce. They do not fit Icardi's original suggestion, that Holohan was killed by attacking Germans. It's unlikely the Nazis would have troubled to dump the major's body, trussed and weighted, into a nearby lake.

Icardi and LoDolce are in a curious legal position. Out of the Army, they can't be tried by court-martial. Since the alleged crime occurred on foreign soil, this country has no civil jurisdiction. Only an Italian court can try them, but there is some doubt whether under existing U. S.-Italian treaties they can be extradited.

Both men have indicated that in any case they would fight extradition. In this they may be making a serious mistake. If they are innocent, as they say, they should welcome a trial which is the only formal, sure manner of clearing their names. To combat extradition weakens their moral position.

Icardi argues that the two were spies in an enemy country at the time of Holohan's death, and that therefore they might get pretty rough treatment in Italy. That's doubtful reasoning, since Italy today is tightly allied with the West and would be unlikely to incur U. S. wrath by conducting an unfair trial harking back to Mussolini's days.

The alternative to trial for these two men is to live out their lives under a permanent cloud of doubt. It is hard to believe they would want that.

Fleeing civilization for a hidden-away camp or cabin sounds like the ideal answer to the vacationer's dream. He will awake when he finds that all he has to do is to chop wood for the fire, gather water, chop wood, sweep floors, chop wood, stock up groceries and leave the wood box full when he departs.

Too much haste makes waste; too little makes waist.

'These Days'

BUSY PEOPLE

Professor Karl A. Wittfogel of the University of Washington and director of the Chinese history project, now stationed at Columbia University, is recognized as a genuine authority in this field.

He used to be a Communist and must have been of some importance in the party in Germany because in 1929 (the date is important) he attended the Second Congress of the League Against Imperialism, at Frankfort-am-Main. Nehru, now prime minister of India, was present as well as Chi Chao-ting, who represented China. According to Wittfogel, Chi was then employed in the Comintern in Moscow, the central agency of international communism. Dr. Wittfogel testified before the McCarran Committee:

". . . In order to be permitted to work in the Comintern, which is the headquarters of the Communist movement, you have to be not only a rank and file member of the movement, but a very well trained and extremely well selected man."

The McCarran Committee produced a letter written by Edward C. Carter on August 1, 1941, to Mrs. Dudley Stuart Blossom, concerning the achievements of the Institute of Pacific Relations, which contains this data concerning Chi and related subjects:

"You doubtless know that on President Roosevelt's nomination, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek invited Owen Lattimore to go to Chungking as his personal political adviser. Lattimore arrived in Chungking ten days ago. Another member of the international secretariat, Dr. Ch'ao-ting Chi, went with our best wishes on the same plane to become general secretary of the American-British-Chinese currency stabilization fund of U. S. $95,000,000. Here we have a case of outstanding services of the I.P.R.—in that of Lattimore, an American to the Chinese government and in that of Chi, a Chinese to the American-British and Chinese governments. A former member of the secretariat, Irving Friedman, for whom I secured an appointment and an opportunity to study India as an employe of the Indian government trade commissioner in New York, has now been given an important research position in the Treasury in Washington, one for which he is highly qualified.

"Officers in the army, navy, Federal Research Bank (must mean Reserve), Department of Commerce and the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supplies are asking for and getting substantial help from our research staff. . . .

"Another demand of a different kind has been made upon us. Mr. Henry R. Luce, Mr. Wendell L. Willkie and Mr. James G. Blaine have asked me to serve as chairman of the disbursements committee which is making a very thorough-going survey of China's needs and how the $5,000,000 fund, if raised, can best be spent for maximum relief and at the same time to contribute to long-range reconstruction."

It is amazing how these busy people get into all kinds of situations. Actually, they do it by pushing themselves forward and encountering little resistance.

We now have the sworn evidence of Dr. Wittfogel that Chi was a Communist in 1929; yet he managed to move about this country, getting into all sorts of activities, mainly through the Institute of Pacific Relations, and was accepted at face value. To the Chinese, he seemed to be important because of the powerful people he knew in the United States. But what made him important to the Americans?

Here is a character, Michael Greenberg, whom Wittfogel says he met in Cambridge, England, and whom he knew as an English Communist. He then shows up in the United States as connected with Pacific Affairs, which Owen Lattimore edited. This man was employed in the White House as assistant to Lauchlin Currie.

The United States Civil Service Commission wrote Senator McCarran on July 13, 1951:

"Michael Greenberg was appointed to a position with the Board of Economic Warfare on November 9, 1942. On July 7, 1944, he was transferred to the Foreign Economic Administration and on September 27, 1945, he was transferred to the Department of State. His employment was terminated due to reduction in force on June 15, 1946. In connection with his employment with the Foreign Economic Administration, an investigation of Mr. Greenberg was conducted by the Civil Service Commission to determine his general qualifications for federal employment. As a result of this investigation Mr. Greenberg was barred from competing in civil service examinations on March 7, 1947, because of questionable loyalty."

How did these people get into those places? Who opened the door for them?

OPERATION TO RELIEVE DEPRESSION

As mentioned before, I was born opposite a large mental hospital (asylum as it was then called) and for years believed that once a "crazy" person entered the asylum, he was there for life. My first surprise was learning that the man who had charge of the gate through which patients and their family or friends were admitted was himself a patient. My next surprise was learning that some of the patients worked on the farm which was enclosed within the same brick wall surrounding the hospital buildings.

However, aside from the gateman and the patients who worked on the farm, I met many who acted foolishly, were unclean in their habits, and required close guarding or they would hurt themselves or others.

When shock method of treatment came into use, many of these foolish or dangerous patients were helped and a good percentage was able to go home and some back to their regular occupations.

However, despite good mental treatment and shock treatment, many mental patients remain in the institutions for many months and years. It is a great blessing to them and to their families that the operation known as prefrontal lobotomy has come into use as it is these formerly "incurable" cases that are being helped by lobotomy.

I have written several times about this operation which is now performed in practically every mental institution. It not only enables the institution to send some patients home, but those who do not go home are so greatly improved that they need very little care by guards and nurses. I am therefore reporting another group.

In the Journal of Nervous and Mental Diseases, Dr. Lester Drubin, New York, N. Y., issues a preliminary report of 62 prefrontal lobotomies on male veterans at the Veterans Hospital, Northport, Long Island, New York.

Of the 62 patients followed, no patient became completely well mentally and no patient became worse. The patients selected to undergo operation, were the worst cases in the hospital and had not shown any improvement whatever, under other forms of treatment. The results of the operation showed that 66 per cent (2 of every 3) showed appreciable improvement and 35 per cent showed slight or no improvement. Twenty-three patients were much improved, 18 were moderately improved, 17 were slightly improved, and four showed no improvement.

Should lobotomy be recommended for a patient, particularly one who is not improving under other forms of treatment, the family should gladly take advantage of this chance for help.

In the Good Old Summertime

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

(Ed. Note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by several distinguished guest columnists, today's being by Dr. Hugh Bennett, chief of the Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service.)

Washington.—The recent midwestern floods have again shown with stark reality that the day of piecemeal flood control must end. Truly effective flood control must protect the millions of farmers on the land and in the small creek bottoms as well as our great cities and major river valleys.

In those July floods we had graphic proof that no single method of flood control can do the whole, watershed-wide job. We saw how some of our best soils became so saturated with the rains of May and June that even the pastures could absorb little more when the final big rain came. Even so, the water-holding capacity of the soil helped moderate the effects of the run-off. Likewise, we saw how downstream levees, high enough to have withstood the largest previous flood, were overtopped by this superflood of July.

We are confronted with one inescapable conclusion: Our efforts to prevent and control flood damages, wherever they occur, must begin where the rains first hit the earth and must not end until the flood water reaches the ocean.

By observing this principle, we can at the same time provide protection to every part of the watershed, both downstream and upstream. We not only can bring the water under better control but we also can reduce the silt carried by flood waters. In many cases silt is more destructive to property than water itself.

Most of this silt consists of eroded soil, washed out of upstream farms and overgrazed pastures. Great quantities of it are laid down on fertile bottomland. It destroys crops and, in case of frequent sandy deposits, lowers the productivity of the land for generations to come.

There was tremendous destruction in the upper watersheds during the midwestern floods. Along the headwater streams, above those points where major flood control works have been recommended, the flood damage exceeded 100 millions dollars. Above the flooded valleys, the storm caused an estimated 110 million dollars of crop loss.

It has been estimated that about 75 per cent of the over-all flood damage in the country, year in and year out, occurs back along the lesser tributary streams above the bottomlands of the major channels. In the long run, however, the greatest damage from these tremendous storms is the erosion that takes place on upland farms. Seldom do the costly effects of erosion on these upland slopes make the headlines of our newspapers.

Although it is questionable whether dollars and cents can express the true value of the millions of tons of irreplaceable topsoil lost, the decreased productivity of these eroded upland farms is estimated at more than 200 million dollars.

These figures do not take into account other downstream damages, such as deposition in river channels, reservoirs, wells and drainage ditches. What we have read about flood damage has related largely to city property, bridges and highways. And this was terrible indeed. Still, much of this damage can be repaired. But we can do little to remove the layers of infertile sand spread deeply over thousands of acres of productive bottomlands. We can't haul back into eroded fields the topsoil that has been carried into the Gulf of Mexico.

Experience has proved that we can come pretty close to controlling floods on small tributary streams. With good conservation measures and upstream retarding structures, the small streams will not overflow so destructively even when we get rains like those in the midwest. But that part of the water which reaches the larger streams must be controlled by dams, levees and other measures.

At present, the run-off from upland farms in small watersheds has not been properly controlled because farmers cannot get all the technically trained help they want and need to do the soil and water conservation job adequately on their own farms. And funds are not generally available for construction of small upstream dams and channel improvements.

So, in the recent floods in Kansas, Missouri, and neighboring states water went into the small streams much faster than it would if we had a watershed program for flood control.

If we ignore the little creeks of the upper valleys and the fields and pastures that feed these "little waters," we will have only a partial program of flood control. But we are not going to ignore these upper watersheds. The big job is still ahead of us, but we are already working on thousands of farms, and floods have already been controlled or greatly minimized along many creeks.

Conservation measures not only are putting more of the rainfall into the reservoir of the soil but are increasing per-acre yields. The water therefore gets into the streams more slowly. We can further retard this water by small dams and waterway improvements in the upper watersheds. These "upstream engineering" methods together with conservation work in fields and pastures not only will protect thousands of people along smaller creeks but also will support and protect flood control measures installed along our major waterways.

Eisenhower's Return to Civilian Life Not Foreseen for Long Time

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 29 — Anyone who reads carefully the report just released by the subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which held hearings in Paris recently can hardly foresee the return of General Eisenhower to civilian life for a long, long time to come.

So indispensable to the success of the North Atlantic Treaty organization and the development of allied unity as against possible Soviet attack is the allied supreme commander that the mention of politics and the implications of controversy over domestic questions in connection with his name seem remote.

The very qualities, on the other hand, which are so conspicuously effective in untangling complex situations aboard and his inspirational capacity for leadership are the ones that make him seem so attractive as a future president of the United States.

There isn't any doubt about it—the personality and tact of the general is the basic reason for whatever progress is being made toward European unity on the military side. It appears doubtful, indeed, whether a year from now the situation will have changed so materially as to permit General Eisenhower to leave his post to accept the presidential nomination of either party.

One argument advanced is that he need not engage in the campaign at all but can stay at his present job. This would not be in keeping with tradition, and yet unprecedented things have happened in recent years where the presidency is concerned. During World War 2 the third term precedent was broken and FDR was elected even to a fourth term.

If the crisis in Europe appears to be in 1952 what it is now—and if, indeed, it is aggravated by Russia's hostile behavior—the chances are that General Eisenhower would feel inclined to say not only that he could not accept the nomination but that he would not serve if elected. If he wishes to put all political crowns aside, that's the only type of statement which would end the use of his name.

On this side of the Atlantic, there are two groups interested in the future of Eisenhower as a candidate. The Taft group doesn't want the general to run and would be pleased if the turn of fate kept him at his present post. The pro-Eisenhower group is not dismayed by the arguments about the importance of the general's present duties. They say that from the White House he could be even more helpful in developing allied solidarity and that this same versatile personality would be at work on the home front removing friction and furnishing the leadership for domestic unity.

Certainly the Eisenhower achievements abroad to date have been credited to his drive and his enthusiasm. The senators who went to see him raised that very point. One of them—Senator Gillette of Iowa, Democrat—minced no words as he pointed out to the general that too much was dependent on one man's personality and that the situation ought to be such that the leadership of one man wouldn't make such a difference.

General Eisenhower's comment was interesting—he didn't see what else could be done at the moment but to try to bring harmony and maintain a solid front toward communism. His favorite reply to all the doubts expressed as to the efficacy of the cooperation being given us by other nations is that the alternative—despair—is much worse.

On the whole, the frequent use of General Eisenhower's name for political discussion is one of the strangest phenomena of our times. He is obviously presidential calibre—he is popular and he is able and he has a rare faculty for being able to reconcile differences of opinion among those with whom he has to deal. But it may be so important for him to stay in Europe that his return to engage in a political campaign would in itself be hurtful to his possible candidacy. It's a strange paradox.

Health for All

Checkup for School

His wardrobe may be in order, the new schoolbag complete with copybook, ruler, and pencil-case, yet your child may be far from properly prepared for school. A more important question than clothes or equipment is, "has your youngster had a pre-school medical examination?"

For many reasons, the parent-teachers associations, official health agencies, and such organization as the voluntary tuberculosis associations affiliated with the National Tuberculosis Associations are stressing complete physical examinations of children before they enter school.

First, through the pre-school examination, certain correctable defects and conditions which respond best to early treatment can be detected at an early stage, a factor often important in treatment. Typical are: overweight and underweight, decayed and infected teeth, defective vision and hearing, infected tonsils, speech defects, early rheumatic fever, early tuberculosis, and anemia.

Secondly, a child has his best chance of getting the most out of school when he is in good physical condition. High grades and good report cards generally are impossible if the child is out of school frequently with sore throats and toothaches or if he cannot see the blackboard or hear the teacher. Many children suffering from an undetected physical defect are unjustly labeled mentally slow when the pre-school correction of some physical deformity or illness might have made him a scholastic star.

Finally, a pre-school examination is one of the most important a child will ever undergo because it comes at a crucial time of his life, a time when he is entering a whole new world. Things are difficult enough for him—suddenly changing from all-day play and sheltered home life—without an extra handicap of physical imperfection that might easily be corrected. The child who is sent to school with the doctor's O. K. has the best chance of being a good pupil, easy to get along with, and easy to adjust to the strange, new life of getting an education.

Questions — Answers

Q—Why is the outer rail high er than the inner rail on railroad curves?

A—The outer rail is elevated to balance the overturning forces that are set up by a train rounding a curve, for the same scientific reason that a circular track for motorcar racing is tilted upward from the inner circle to the outer rim.

CLOAK AND DAGGER MURDER

An Italian court has decided definitely to seek extradition of the two American officers whom the Defense Department substantially accuses of murdering a fellow officer in northern Italy seven years ago.

The three men led an Office of Strategic Services mission to contact Italian partisans behind the German lines. The two accused, Lt. Aldo Icardi and Sgt. Carlos LoDolce, are alleged to have killed their leader, Maj. William V. Holohan, in disagreement over his conduct of their operations.

This bizarre case has many preplexing angles. Against LoDolce stands a published "confession," said to have been signed by him and witnessed by two special agents of the Central Intelligence Agency and a Rochester, N. Y., police officer. But LoDolce now says that statement does not tell the full story, though it gave many details of the alleged killing.

Icardi denies any part in the major's death. He says if Holohan was murdered, it must have happened after he was separated from the group. He suggests the major was shot by Germans who attacked the OSS mission.

Two Italian partisans who worked with the mission have "confessed" to assisting Icardi and LoDolce, and they are soon to stand trial for murder.

The Defense Department said the mission took $100,000 with it, but Maj.-Gen. William J. Donovan, former OSS chief, insists the sum was only $14,000.

Though LoDolce's "confession" was taken a year ago, the department withheld any account of the story until now. It is not clear whether its release was forced or speeded by knowledge that a magazine was about to publish it in detail. Last year an Italian newspaper carried a version of it, but it wasn't widely circulated.

In all the confusion and mystery, one thing stands out: Holohan's body was found in Lake Orta exactly where the two partisans said it had been dumped in 1944. It was trussed in a sleeping bag and there was a bullet hole in the head. Again, these facts fit the partisans' story.

They also fit the account allegedly given intelligence officers in this country by LoDolce. They do not fit Icardi's original suggestion, that Holohan was killed by attacking Germans. It's unlikely the Nazis would have troubled to dump the major's body, trussed and weighted, into a nearby lake.

Icardi and LoDolce are in a curious legal position. Out of the Army, they can't be tried by court-martial. Since the alleged crime occurred on foreign soil, this country has no civil jurisdiction. Only an Italian court can try them, but there is some doubt whether under existing U. S.-Italian treaties they can be extradited.

Both men have indicated that in any case they would fight extradition. In this they may be making a serious mistake. If they are innocent, as they say, they should welcome a trial which is the only formal, sure manner of clearing their names. To combat extradition weakens their moral position.

Icardi argues that the two were spies in an enemy country at the time of Holohan's death, and that therefore they might get pretty rough treatment in Italy. That's doubtful reasoning, since Italy today is tightly allied with the West and would be unlikely to incur U. S. wrath by conducting an unfair trial harking back to Mussolini's days.

The alternative to trial for these two men is to live out their lives under a permanent cloud of doubt. It is hard to believe they would want that.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

BUSY PEOPLE

Professor Karl A. Wittfogel of the University of Washington and director of the Chinese history project, now stationed at Columbia University, is recognized as a genuine authority in this field.

He used to be a Communist and must have been of some importance in the party in Germany because in 1929 (the date is important) he attended the Second Congress of the League Against Imperialism, at Frankfort-am-Main. Nehru, now prime minister of India, was present as well as Chi Chao-ting, who represented China. According to Wittfogel, Chi was then employed in the Comintern in Moscow, the central agency of international communism. Dr. Wittfogel testified before the McCarran Committee:

". . . In order to be permitted to work in the Comintern, which is the headquarters of the Communist movement, you have to be not only a rank and file member of the movement, but a very well trained and extremely well selected man."

The McCarran Committee produced a letter written by Edward C. Carter on August 1, 1941, to Mrs. Dudley Stuart Blossom, concerning the achievements of the Institute of Pacific Relations, which contains this data concerning Chi and related subjects:

"You doubtless know that on President Roosevelt's nomination, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek invited Owen Lattimore to go to Chungking as his personal political adviser. Lattimore arrived in Chungking ten days ago. Another member of the international secretariat, Dr. Ch'ao-ting Chi, went with our best wishes on the same plane to become general secretary of the American-British-Chinese currency stabilization fund of U. S. $95,000,000. Here we have a case of outstanding services of the I.P.R.—in that of Lattimore, an American to the Chinese government and in that of Chi, a Chinese to the American-British and Chinese governments. A former member of the secretariat, Irving Friedman, for whom I secured an appointment and an opportunity to study India as an employe of the Indian government trade commissioner in New York, has now been given an important research position in the Treasury in Washington, one for which he is highly qualified.

"Officers in the army, navy, Federal Research Bank (must mean Reserve), Department of Commerce and the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supplies are asking for and getting substantial help from our research staff. . . .

"Another demand of a different kind has been made upon us. Mr. Henry R. Luce, Mr. Wendell L. Willkie and Mr. James G. Blaine have asked me to serve as chairman of the disbursements committee which is making a very thorough-going survey of China's needs and how the $5,000,000 fund, if raised, can best be spent for maximum relief and at the same time to contribute to long-range reconstruction."

It is amazing how these busy people get into all kinds of situations. Actually, they do it by pushing themselves forward and encountering little resistance.

We now have the sworn evidence of Dr. Wittfogel that Chi was a Communist in 1929; yet he managed to move about this country, getting into all sorts of activities, mainly through the Institute of Pacific Relations, and was accepted at face value. To the Chinese, he seemed to be important because of the powerful people he knew in the United States. But what made him important to the Americans?

Here is a character, Michael Greenberg, whom Wittfogel says he met in Cambridge, England, and whom he knew as an English Communist. He then shows up in the United States as connected with Pacific Affairs, which Owen Lattimore edited. This man was employed in the White House as assistant to Lauchlin Currie.

The United States Civil Service Commission wrote Senator McCarran on July 13, 1951:

"Michael Greenberg was appointed to a position with the Board of Economic Warfare on November 9, 1942. On July 7, 1944, he was transferred to the Foreign Economic Administration and on September 27, 1945, he was transferred to the Department of State. His employment was terminated due to reduction in force on June 15, 1946. In connection with his employment with the Foreign Economic Administration, an investigation of Mr. Greenberg was conducted by the Civil Service Commission to determine his general qualifications for federal employment. As a result of this investigation Mr. Greenberg was barred from competing in civil service examinations on March 7, 1947, because of questionable loyalty."

How did these people get into those places? Who opened the door for them?

OPERATION TO RELIEVE DEPRESSION

As mentioned before, I was born opposite a large mental hospital (asylum as it was then called) and for years believed that once a "crazy" person entered the asylum, he was there for life. My first surprise was learning that the man who had charge of the gate through which patients and their family or friends were admitted was himself a patient. My next surprise was learning that some of the patients worked on the farm which was enclosed within the same brick wall surrounding the hospital buildings.

However, aside from the gateman and the patients who worked on the farm, I met many who acted foolishly, were unclean in their habits, and required close guarding or they would hurt themselves or others.

When shock method of treatment came into use, many of these foolish or dangerous patients were helped and a good percentage was able to go home and some back to their regular occupations.

However, despite good mental treatment and shock treatment, many mental patients remain in the institutions for many months and years. It is a great blessing to them and to their families that the operation known as prefrontal lobotomy has come into use as it is these formerly "incurable" cases that are being helped by lobotomy.

I have written several times about this operation which is now performed in practically every mental institution. It not only enables the institution to send some patients home, but those who do not go home are so greatly improved that they need very little care by guards and nurses. I am therefore reporting another group.

In the Journal of Nervous and Mental Diseases, Dr. Lester Drubin, New York, N. Y., issues a preliminary report of 62 prefrontal lobotomies on male veterans at the Veterans Hospital, Northport, Long Island, New York.

Of the 62 patients followed, no patient became completely well mentally and no patient became worse. The patients selected to undergo operation, were the worst cases in the hospital and had not shown any improvement whatever, under other forms of treatment. The results of the operation showed that 66 per cent (2 of every 3) showed appreciable improvement and 35 per cent showed slight or no improvement. Twenty-three patients were much improved, 18 were moderately improved, 17 were slightly improved, and four showed no improvement.

Should lobotomy be recommended for a patient, particularly one who is not improving under other forms of treatment, the family should gladly take advantage of this chance for help.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

(Ed. Note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by several distinguished guest columnists, today's being by Dr. Hugh Bennett, chief of the Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service.)

Washington.—The recent midwestern floods have again shown with stark reality that the day of piecemeal flood control must end. Truly effective flood control must protect the millions of farmers on the land and in the small creek bottoms as well as our great cities and major river valleys.

There was tremendous destruction in the upper watersheds during the midwestern floods. Along the headwater streams, above those points where major flood control works have been recommended, the flood damage exceeded 100 millions dollars. Above the flooded valleys, the storm caused an estimated 110 million dollars of crop loss.

It has been estimated that about 75 per cent of the over-all flood damage in the country, year in and year out, occurs back along the lesser tributary streams above the bottomlands of the major channels. In the long run, however, the greatest damage from these tremendous storms is the erosion that takes place on upland farms. Seldom do the costly effects of erosion on these upland slopes make the headlines of our newspapers.

Although it is questionable whether dollars and cents can express the true value of the millions of tons of irreplaceable topsoil lost, the decreased productivity of these eroded upland farms is estimated at more than 200 million dollars.

The big job is still ahead of us, but we are already working on thousands of farms, and floods have already been controlled or greatly minimized along many creeks.

Conservation measures not only are putting more of the rainfall into the reservoir of the soil but are increasing per-acre yields. The water therefore gets into the streams more slowly. We can further retard this water by small dams and waterway improvements in the upper watersheds. These "upstream engineering" methods together with conservation work in fields and pastures not only will protect thousands of people along smaller creeks but also will support and protect flood control measures installed along our major waterways.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 29 — Anyone who reads carefully the report just released by the subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which held hearings in Paris recently can hardly foresee the return of General Eisenhower to civilian life for a long, long time to come.

So indispensable to the success of the North Atlantic Treaty organization and the development of allied unity as against possible Soviet attack is the allied supreme commander that the mention of politics and the implications of controversy over domestic questions in connection with his name seem remote.

The very qualities, on the other hand, which are so conspicuously effective in untangling complex situations aboard and his inspirational capacity for leadership are the ones that make him seem so attractive as a future president of the United States.

There isn't any doubt about it—the personality and tact of the general is the basic reason for whatever progress is being made toward European unity on the military side. It appears doubtful, indeed, whether a year from now the situation will have changed so materially as to permit General Eisenhower to leave his post to accept the presidential nomination of either party.

One argument advanced is that he need not engage in the campaign at all but can stay at his present job. This would not be in keeping with tradition, and yet unprecedented things have happened in recent years where the presidency is concerned. During World War 2 the third term precedent was broken and FDR was elected even to a fourth term.

If the crisis in Europe appears to be in 1952 what it is now—and if, indeed, it is aggravated by Russia's hostile behavior—the chances are that General Eisenhower would feel inclined to say not only that he could not accept the nomination but that he would not serve if elected. If he wishes to put all political crowns aside, that's the only type of statement which would end the use of his name.

On this side of the Atlantic, there are two groups interested in the future of Eisenhower as a candidate. The Taft group doesn't want the general to run and would be pleased if the turn of fate kept him at his present post. The pro-Eisenhower group is not dismayed by the arguments about the importance of the general's present duties. They say that from the White House he could be even more helpful in developing allied solidarity and that this same versatile personality would be at work on the home front removing friction and furnishing the leadership for domestic unity.

Certainly the Eisenhower achievements abroad to date have been credited to his drive and his enthusiasm. The senators who went to see him raised that very point. One of them—Senator Gillette of Iowa, Democrat—minced no words as he pointed out to the general that too much was dependent on one man's personality and that the situation ought to be such that the leadership of one man wouldn't make such a difference.

General Eisenhower's comment was interesting—he didn't see what else could be done at the moment but to try to bring harmony and maintain a solid front toward communism. His favorite reply to all the doubts expressed as to the efficacy of the cooperation being given us by other nations is that the alternative—despair—is much worse.

On the whole, the frequent use of General Eisenhower's name for political discussion is one of the strangest phenomena of our times. He is obviously presidential calibre—he is popular and he is able and he has a rare faculty for being able to reconcile differences of opinion among those with whom he has to deal. But it may be so important for him to stay in Europe that his return to engage in a political campaign would in itself be hurtful to his possible candidacy. It's a strange paradox.

Health for All

Checkup for School

His wardrobe may be in order, the new schoolbag complete with copybook, ruler, and pencil-case, yet your child may be far from properly prepared for school. A more important question than clothes or equipment is, "has your youngster had a pre-school medical examination?"

For many reasons, the parent-teachers associations, official health agencies, and such organization as the voluntary tuberculosis associations affiliated with the National Tuberculosis Associations are stressing complete physical examinations of children before they enter school.

First, through the pre-school examination, certain correctable defects and conditions which respond best to early treatment can be detected at an early stage, a factor often important in treatment. Typical are: overweight and underweight, decayed and infected teeth, defective vision and hearing, infected tonsils, speech defects, early rheumatic fever, early tuberculosis, and anemia.

Secondly, a child has his best chance of getting the most out of school when he is in good physical condition. High grades and good report cards generally are impossible if the child is out of school frequently with sore throats and toothaches or if he cannot see the blackboard or hear the teacher. Many children suffering from an undetected physical defect are unjustly labeled mentally slow when the pre-school correction of some physical deformity or illness might have made him a scholastic star.

Finally, a pre-school examination is one of the most important a child will ever undergo because it comes at a crucial time of his life, a time when he is entering a whole new world. Things are difficult enough for him—suddenly changing from all-day play and sheltered home life—without an extra handicap of physical imperfection that might easily be corrected. The child who is sent to school with the doctor's O. K. has the best chance of being a good pupil, easy to get along with, and easy to adjust to the strange, new life of getting an education.

Questions — Answers

Q—Why is the outer rail higher than the inner rail on railroad curves?

A—The outer rail is elevated to balance the overturning forces that are set up by a train rounding a curve, for the same scientific reason that a circular track for motorcar racing is tilted upward from the inner circle to the outer rim.

• • •

A—Yes.

• • •

Q—Who is the official keeper of the Great Seal of the United States?

A—By the Act of September 15, 1789, Congress made the Secretary of State the official keeper.

Ripley's—Believe It or Not!

The Speaker Who Is Forbidden to Speak

The Speaker of Great Britain's House of Commons is the only one in the House who is forbidden to speak. He may call on others to speak, he may keep them to the point while they speak, reprove them if they are disorderly but he must never take part in the debate.

Farmers Available

Washington (AP)—American farmers with labor problems can find a solution in the skilled European farmers now coming into this country from countries under the Communist yoke. Rigidly tested by U.S. agricultural experts on their practical farming experience, the displaced farmers are mostly of German origin who were thrown off their farms by Communists. They are willing to start at the bottom as American farm workers. The more than 1,000 DP farming families are dairymen, poultrymen, cattlemen, wheat and corn farmers, truck farmers and hog raisers, for the most part. Persons interested in sponsoring a displaced farmer may obtain more information by writing to the Displaced Persons Commission, Washington 25, D.C., or to their state displacd persons commission.

Jacoby on Canasta

Watch for Partner's Signals

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

We're going to put you into an expert game for a minute or so. Don't get nervous. You're going to be asked to make only one play. If you make the wrong play, you can always say that it takes you ten or fifteen minutes to hit your proper stride.

Both sides need 120 points for the first meld. Your partner goes down very early with two jokers and two queens. At his next turn he melds three jacks. This leaves him with four cards in his hand. The opponents have not yet melded.

It is now your turn, and you draw from the stock pile. After the draw you hold A-A K-K 10-9 8-8-8 5-3-2.

What do you do?

Before we can answer this question, and while you are thinking about it, let's see if we can figure out what your partner is doing. He's an expert, so he must have a good reason for the way he has played.

His initial meld tells you very little. However, you can deduce that he did not then have several pairs of 5-point cards. Had he held that type of hand he would not have melded; he'd have played for the pile. But aside from the fact that you know he did not start with a good play for the pack, you did not know much else about his hand.

His second meld tells you a great deal more. He cannot gain by making that second meld unless he is in position for a fast out. But why didn't he put down two more queens; or why didn't he put down four jacks instead of only three? He knows that four natural cards are needed for a canasta.

The logical answer is that he didn't put down a base of four natural cards because he couldn't. He is begging you to add queens and jacks if you can, or to put down a base of your own.

Unfortunately, you cannot oblige him. You have no queens, no jacks, no base of your own. What should you do?

Put down the three eights and make a safe discard. This will tell the story — that you cannot make a base but that you understand his message and that you are doing the best you can. Perhaps he has an odd eight lying around; if not, perhaps one of you will draw an eight fairly soon. Then, presumably, he will be in position to go out.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

HOT IDEA CATCHES ON—Girl production workers at a Burbank, Calif., electronics plant solved the problem of a heat wave by wearing less clothes to work. A few daring ones appeared in shorts, and then the idea caught on quickly. The plant's management, lukewarm on the subject at first, approved the "uniform" when production of the electronic equipment stepped up.

Burned in Collision

Waterloo, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—Two men were burned last night in a train-truck collision which derailed a New York Central passenger train and destroyed a truckload of Christmas liquor. Engineer Harry McMurdy, 54, and fireman Hugh P. Welch, 36, both of Rochester, were taken to Waterloo Memorial Hospital with first, second and third-degree burns. Their condition was listed as not serious. A train passenger, Mrs. George Morphy of Canandaigua, told the conductor she was shaken up by the crash. She was taken to the hospital for observation. The accident happened at a crossing on the NYC's Auburn branch near here.

Negro Elks Convene

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—Thirty thousand Negro Elks strutted and marched for three hours yesterday in the most spectacular parade seen in downtown Buffalo in years. Police estimated more than 100,000 persons watched the parade which featured more than 100 bands marching units and floats from all parts of the country. The Improved Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of the World is meeting here at the 52nd annual convention. The week-long meetings end Saturday.

Refugee Will Be Queen

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—A Polish refugee will be the queen of the 1951 State Fair. She is Mary Suszynska, blonde, blue-eyed and 17. Miss Suszynska, daughter of a Weedsport farmer, was picked yesterday from among 30 contestants to reign over the state's 105th agricultural and industrial exposition, opening here Saturday. Miss Suszynska came to the United States from Poland with her parents five years ago. She is now a junior in Weedsport Central School.

TOPPINGS ON THE ROCKS?—Hollywood reports say that movie queen Lana Turner and husband, Bob Topping, have reached a "misunderstanding" stage in their three-year-old marriage. The couple is seen above during a more blissful period.

North might avoid a free bid of two diamonds if he had not passed originally. Ordinarily, this bid would compel South to bid again. In other words, North's response of two diamonds may push South to three clubs even when South has a near-minimum opening bid.

There is no such problem after North has passed originally. South is at liberty to pass two diamonds if he has a near-minimum opening bid. He will know that there is no game in the cards and that two diamonds is as good a contract as any.

As it happened, of course, South had a very good hand. He was ready to make a jump re-bid in no-trump, and he made it. His re-bid showed that his hand was too strong for an opening bid of one no-trump but not strong enough for an opening bid of two no-trump.

West led the queen of spades, and South won with the king. Declarer then laid down the king of diamonds and led a low diamond to dummy's ace. East discarded a low heart, and South groaned mightily. Now what? How should South continue?

Declarer led the five of clubs from dummy and finessed the eight from his hand. West won with the jack of clubs and was stuck for a return. A spade or a heart would give declarer a free finesse. It was obviously foolish to cash the diamonds while dummy still had an entry in clubs. So West returned a club.

Dummy played the nine, East covered with the queen, and South won with the ace of clubs. Declarer next led a club to dummy's king and returned a diamond.

West was end-played for the second time in the same hand. He could take his two diamond tricks, but then either a spade or a heart return would give declarer a free finesse—and the ninth trick.

Operator Is in Jail

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—The first pinball operator convicted since the grand jury began its investigation six months ago was in prison today. John Cooper, 36, began serving a four-month sentence given him by Justice George H. Rowe of State Supreme Court. He was also fined $500. Cooper had pleaded guilty to a charge of dealing in pinball machines.

Sister Kenny Planning To Attend Polio Parley

Jersey City, N. J., Aug. 29 (AP)—Sister Elizabeth Kenny spent an hour yesterday in what may be her last visit to the Polio Clinic bearing her name at Jersey City Medical Center.

The world-famous fighter against infantile paralysis told reporters in Australia before she left on her present trip that she had an incurable disease and had very little time left. She did not name the disease.

Sister Kenny (the sister is an Australian Army title) chatted with several patients in the clinic, among them 19-year-old Henry Thresher of Syosset, N. Y., a promising young track star who was stricken only a few weeks ago. He was brought to the Sister Kenny Institute Saturday night.

Later this week, Sister Kenny plans to fly to Copenhagen, where an international concention on infantile paralysis is to be held.

1,000 Workers Are Idle

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—A "sick" walkout by crane operators has idled about 1,000 workers at the Bethlehem Steel Corporation strip plant. The walkouts began yesterday. A union spokesman said the dispute was over incentive rates he said the company promised to put into effect a year ago. He said the rates were to be retroactive. The walkout came as Bethlehem was getting back into full production after a week-long strike by South Buffalo Railway Trainmen caused the plant to shut down. The rail strike ended Saturday. Bethlehem employs about 16,000.

Records Are Sent To Storage Vaults In Columbia Area

First shipments of records and valuables to be stored in the Iron Mountain Storage Vaults of Columbia county, which serve as the Gibraltar of the A-bomb era, are now arriving, Herman Knaust, of Saugerties, owner of the project, said today.

Vagious records and micro films are arriving in armored car and helicopter and the unique establishment, virtually in the core of a mountain is open for business.

One shipment arrived Friday by helicopter and others have come by armored car. Most important among early shipments was one from the sixth largest bank in the world, Knaust said.

Guards are now posted at the vault structure, which, its owner said, "is really a symbol of security." Construction work is still under way at the site, which is east of Linlithgo, and the main vault structure to date is 60 by 60 feet, two stories high and built deep in the face of the mountain.

The recent air shipment landed on a newly completed helicopter field, and when it arrived Knaust, several area bankers and news photographers were present. Life Magazine plans a picture story on the project.

The building is equipped with two communications circuits and a dual alarm system.

Patrick J. Dolan

The funeral of Patrick J. Dolan, 63 Clinton avenue, was held from his home Tuesday at 9 a. m. and at St. Joseph's Church at 9:30 where a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Rev. James Keating. Responses to the Mass were by the church choir under the direction of Mrs. Frank Rafferty. The church was filled with relatives and friends. During the time of the reposal in the family home many called to extend condolence to the bereaved. Monday night a large delegation of St. Joseph's Holy Name Society led by their spiritual director, the Rev. John D. Simmons, called and recited the Rosary. Other clergy calling were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Stephen P. Connelly and Father Keating. Numerous and beautiful floral designs completely banked the casket while dozens of spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards were placed nearby. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery where Father Keating pronounced the final absolution at the grave. Bearers, all nephews of the deceased, were Louis and Vincent J. Dolan, Edmund W. and John P. Lamb and Irwin and Walter McCarter.

Ocean Floor Life

La Jolla, Calif. (AP)—Bacteria found in sediments deposited on the floor of the Pacific several millions of years ago still are capable of reproducing themselves, according to Richard V. Morita, of the University of California's Scripps Institution of Oceanography. Whether they are, as has been claimed, "the oldest living things on earth," is as yet impossible to determine, says Morita. One theory is that the bacteria in the lower layers of sediment have existed in a state of suspended animation for some millions of years. A contradictory theory is that they have been able to carry on normal functions, reproducing and dying, throughout the eons they have been locked up in the mud at the bottom of the Pacific. Neither theory can be proved absolutely as yet, Morita states.

Prowler in House

At 7:15 o'clock this morning Mrs. William McCabe of Port Ewen notified the sheriff's office that a prowler had been in her house. She reported that the man had entered the house and was discovered at the head of the stairs. Mr. McCabe ejected the man from the house and notified the sheriff. After leaving the house the man was seen going to a nearby gas station. He then disappeared. Deputy Sheriff Fred Bragg was sent to make an investigation.

Dangerous 'Squatter'

Rangoon (AP)—A "squatter" at the home of Burmese president Sao Shwe Thaike recently was ejected by strategy and at no small risk to the evictors. "He" was a deady krait whose bite is known to kill within a few minutes. The snake established claims to territory beneath the golden throne of Thibaw, last of the Burmese kings, now set up in the main hall of the president's house. A local newspaper reporting the incident said the snake was "well behaved except that it used to scare away with a loud and menacing hiss" anyone approaching the throne.

Lawyers Hear Six Cadets Restored to Duty at Academy

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—A bar association hearing was told today that "at least six" of the approximately 90 West Point cadets accused of cheating had been restored to duty at the military academy.

The statement was made by Robert Daru, general counsel of the Committee on Justice of the New York Civil and Criminal Courts Bar Association.

At West Point, a spokesman at the milftary academy refused to confirm Daru's statement.

He said an investigation into the cheating scandal had not been completed, and that academy authorities said they could not give a breakdown on cases until the screening boards finish their work.

Daru told the committee holding an open hearing on the dismissal of the cadets that he had learned "at least six men in the last day or two have been restored to duty. I cannot figure out the restoration of these men, except as a forerunner for the restoration of all these men."

The West Point spokesman said that 82 of the accused cadets had left the academy. Of these, 73 have received administrative discharges and papers in the cases of the remaining nine have been forwarded to Washington for final action. In case their separation becomes final, their papers will be forwarded to them at their homes.

The spokesman said the academy authorities have taken a position from the first announcement of the cheating scandal that some of the accused cadets might possibly be exonerated.

Daru issued a preliminary report of his investigation early in the week in which he charged that the accused cadets had been subjected to "shockingly shameful treatment."

He told the hearing today that it was problematical whether a congressional hearing would be held. He promised to produce "a very large number of cadets" to testify.

"I know the whole story and the whole story is shocking to me," Daru said.

Six former cadets were present to testify before the committee. They were Charles Norris Shira, 25, Hamlin, Tex., a tackle on the football team; Donald Senich, 21, Cleveland, basketball center; William Flick, 20, Arlington, Tex., defensive fullback; Harrison Travis, 20, Atlantic Highlands, N. J., quarterback, swimmer and lacrosse player; Peter Herman, 20, Rochester, N. Y.; and Gerry Hart, 20, of Brooklyn, defensive guard.

Daru said none of the six at the hearing was reinstated.

Shira, questioned by Daru, told the committee he never had appeared before Federal Judge Learned Hand, nor had he met him or received any communication from him.

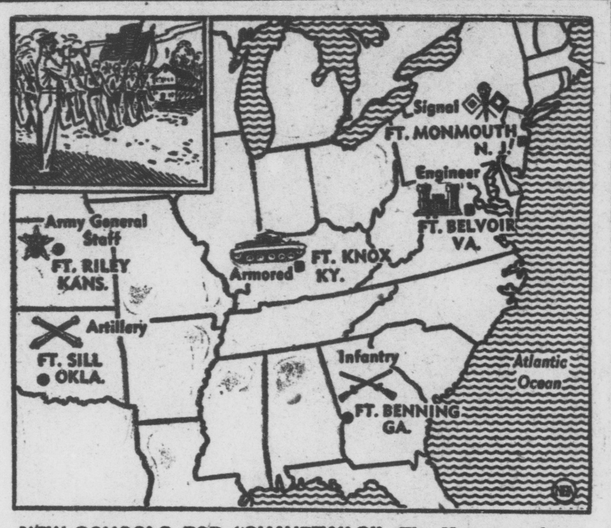

Judge Hand was a member of a special three-man board appointed to investigate the cribbing before any announcement of the scandal was made.

Stone Falls From Truck

This morning at 11 o'clock one of the trucks hauling stone for the rip-rap on the New York reservoir job lost a large stone, estimated to weigh about two tons, on the Woodstock-West Hurley highway near the White Horse Inn. A Bearsville resident reported the incident to the sheriff's office and Deputy Sheriff Earl Conro notified the State Highway Department. The stone fell from the truck in the middle of the road and endangered traffic, it was reported.

Civil Service Exam

A new examination for appointment to the position of economist, price, has been announced by the executive secretary, Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, for the Office of Price Stabilization, 70 East 10th street, New York, to fill vacancies in the OPS located in both New Jersey and New York. The starting salary is $5,400 a year. Further information and application forms may be obtained from first and second-class postoffices.

NEW SCHOOLS FOR "SHAVETAILS"—The Newsmap above locates the Army's Officer Candidate Schools, three of which—engineer, signal and armored—are just re-opening for business. From these six schools, the Army expects to turn out 8000 new second lieutenants a year. Students from both enlisted ranks and civilian life receive five months' intensive training before winning their bars.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—Prices continued their gaining tendencies in a lazy stock market today.

Most of the advances were fractions. Changes of a point or more were rarities.

There was not quite as much vigor behind the forward movement as cropped up midway of yesterday's session. But the advances were spread pretty well through the list.

The market appeared to pay little attention to the strike that has tied up the copper industry. Anaconda, Kennecott and Phelps Dodge moved ahead slightly while American Smelting was up more than a point at one time.

Traders looked on the session as pretty much typical of pre-holiday activity and some believed there would be no sharply marked movement until after the long Labor Day week-end.

Railroad stocks were ahead again with Sante Fe, Southern Railway, Baltimore and Ohio and Union Pacific all up fractions.

Canadian Pacific, which was among the stronger issues yesterday, opened down a little on a block of 3,000 shares and then moved up.

The new freight rates that became effective yesterday were a supporting factor for the rails. But the July earnings of many carriers reflected wage and other cost increases and some of the midwest lines felt the flood damage both in loss of revenues and in replacement costs.

American Woolen, International Paper and American Tobacco advanced. Standard Oil of California was up more than a point at one time while Texas Co. and Gulf Oil were ahead fractions. Sinclair was down a bit.

Republic Steel gained slightly and Bethlehem was down a similarly small figure. DuPont, Eastman Kodak and Union Carbide were ahead fractions.

Among the declines were Montgomery War, U. S., Rubber, Studebaker and American Can.

Prices moved ahead fractions to a point or more on the curb market. Most of the gains were less than a point but Southland Royalty, Molybdenum, Pittsburgh Metalurgical and Consolidated Mining and Smelting all showed better-than-a-point gains at times.

Graham Page Preferred, which had a good earnings report, was up as much as 3⅜ at one time (on the big board the common was up slightly).

Lesser gains included U. S. Radiator, Fansteel Metallurgical, General Alloys, Giant Yellowknife and Ainsworth. Among the declines were Mead Johnson, Glen Alden Coal, Pantepec Oil and Fairchild Engine.

Government liens were steady in quiet over-the-counter trading and in corporate bonds price changes were small and trading was light. The advances were in a slight majority.

Late Bulletins

Chester, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—Two children burned to death early today in a fire that destroyed their two-story home in Oxford Springs, a nearby hamlet, while their parents were away at work.

The victims were Henry Walters, Jr., one and one half years old, and his cousin, Joyce Walters, nine.

Firemen said the fire apparently started from an oil stove explosion in the kitchen.

They said the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Walters and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Walters, occupied the same house and had left earlier to go to work.

Unable to Save Them

The children were being cared for by a grandmother, who was unable to save the children.

The boy's body was found in his crib on the first floor and the girl in an upstairs bedroom.

Fire Chief Smith Barnes of the Washingtonville department estimated loss to the building at from $10,000 to $15,000.

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—President Truman today ordered the burial in Arlington National Cemetery of a Winnebago Indian killed in action in Korea, whose interment was halted at Sioux City, Ia., because of his Indian blood.

travel over Dunn street to Wilbur avenue and will arrive at No. 1 School at approximately 8:20 a. m. Bus will continue along Wilbur avenue to Greenkill avenue, turn right on Greenkill avenue, one block to Clinton avenue, turn left on Clinton avenue to Franklin street, turn right on Franklin street one block to No. 8 School arriving at approximately 8:35 a. m.

Children living on the side streets leading into Abeel street and Wilbur avenue will walk to Abeel street or Wilbur avenue where they will be picked up by the bus. Side streets include: Berrien, Bernard, DeWitt, Davis, Fitch, DuFlon, Burnett, Purvis, Rodney, Chapel, Lebert, Brook, South Wall, West O'Reilly, High and Smith streets.

At the close of school in the afternoon, a bus will leave No. 8 School at 3:30 o'clock and will return the children to the location where they took the bus in the morning. The kindergarten children will attend the morning session. They will be transported on the morning bus with the other children. A taxi will leave No. 8 School at 11:20 and will return these kindergarten children to the place where they took the bus in the morning.

The school bus will transport only those children who would attend No. 1 School or who would enter No. 1 School in September. This includes the kindergarten children. Children who live on Wilbur avenue near the Wallkill railroad bridge and who live on South Wall street and have always attended No. 8 School will continue to walk to No. 8 School. Every effort will be made to arrange just as convenient a schedule and route as possible.

Injured in Mishap

Clifford Schoonmaker, 33, of Highland received lacerations of the face and internal injuries when his car left the road and struck a tree two miles southwest of Highland on the Perkinsville road last night about 10:45 o'clock. He was taken to Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeepsie where today his condition was reported as "fair." Schoonmaker was driving his Plymouth car west on the road and at a curve his car was forced off the road by an unknown car, state police at Highland report.

The schedule for these new students on Tuesday afternoon will be completed by 3:30 p. m. of that day.

Wednesday will be a regular day of school, with school opening at the regular time of 8:35 a. m. The cafeteria will be open on Wednesday.

300-Gun Harry

Houston, Tex. (AP)—Harry C. Knode, an enthusiastic Houston gun collector, estimates he has about 300 firearms, running from flintlocks to highly prized miniature pistols made in ancient times by apprentice gunsmiths. Oldest guns in the Knode collection are matchlocks. He has both Asiatic and European models. Hammers on these weapons were called "sepentines", which released the trigger setting off a match into a pan of powder, which fired the charge in the barrel. Knode is vice-president of the Texas Gun Collectors Association, which has 217 members.

Records Are Sent To Storage Vaults In Columbia Area

First shipments of records and valuables to be stored in the Iron Mountain Storage Vaults of Columbia county, which serve as the Gibraltar of the A-bomb era, are now arriving, Herman Knaust, of Saugerties, owner of the project, said today.

Various records and micro films are arriving in armored car and helicopter and the unique establishment, virtually in the core of a mountain is open for business.

One shipment arrived Friday by helicopter and others have come by armored car. Most important among early shipments was one from the sixth largest bank in the world, Knaust said.

Guards are now posted at the vault structure, which, its owner said, "is really a symbol of security." Construction work is still under way at the site, which is east of Linlithgo, and the main vault structure to date is 60 by 60 feet, two stories high and built deep in the face of the mountain.

The recent air shipment landed on a newly completed helicopter field, and when it arrived Knaust, several area bankers and news photographers were present. Life Magazine plans a picture story on the project.

The building is equipped with two communications circuits and a dual alarm system.

The funeral of Patrick J. Dolan, 63 Clinton avenue, was held from his home Tuesday at 9 a. m. and at St. Joseph's Church at 9:30 where a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Rev. James Keating. Responses to the Mass were by the church choir under the direction of Mrs. Frank Rafferty. The church was filled with relatives and friends. During the time of the reposal in the family home many called to extend condolence to the bereaved. Monday night a large delegation of St. Joseph's Holy Name Society led by their spiritual director, the Rev. John D. Simmons, called and recited the Rosary. Other clergy calling were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Stephen P. Connelly and Father Keating. Numerous and beautiful floral designs completely banked the casket while dozens of spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards were placed nearby. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery where Father Keating pronounced the final absolution at the grave. Bearers, all nephews of the deceased, were Louis and Vincent J. Dolan, Edmund W. and John P. Lamb and Irwin and Walter McCarter.

Ocean Floor Life

La Jolla, Calif. (AP)—Bacteria found in sediments deposited on the floor of the Pacific several millions of years ago still are capable of reproducing themselves, according to Richard V. Morita, of the University of California's Scripps Institution of Oceanography. Whether they are, as has been claimed, "the oldest living things on earth," is as yet impossible to determine, says Morita. One theory is that the bacteria in the lower layers of sediment have existed in a state of suspended animation for some millions of years. A contradictory theory is that they have been able to carry on normal functions, reproducing and dying, throughout the eons they have been locked up in the mud at the bottom of the Pacific. Neither theory can be proved absolutely as yet, Morita states.

Lawyers Hear Six Cadets Restored to Duty at Academy

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—A bar association hearing was told today that "at least six" of the approximately 90 West Point cadets accused of cheating had been restored to duty at the military academy.

The statement was made by Robert Daru, general counsel of the Committee on Justice of the New York Civil and Criminal Courts Bar Association.

At West Point, a spokesman at the milftary academy refused to confirm Daru's statement.

He said an investigation into the cheating scandal had not been completed, and that academy authorities said they could not give a breakdown on cases until the screening boards finish their work.

Daru told the committee holding an open hearing on the dismissal of the cadets that he had learned "at least six men in the last day or two have been restored to duty. I cannot figure out the restoration of these men, except as a forerunner for the restoration of all these men."

The West Point spokesman said that 82 of the accused cadets had left the academy. Of these, 73 have received administrative discharges and papers in the cases of the remaining nine have been forwarded to Washington for final action. In case their separation becomes final, their papers will be forwarded to them at their homes.

The spokesman said the academy authorities have taken a position from the first announcement of the cheating scandal that some of the accused cadets might possibly be exonerated.

Daru issued a preliminary report of his investigation early in the week in which he charged that the accused cadets had been subjected to "shockingly shameful treatment."

He told the hearing today that it was problematical whether a congressional hearing would be held. He promised to produce "a very large number of cadets" to testify.

"I know the whole story and the whole story is shocking to me," Daru said.

Six former cadets were present to testify before the committee. They were Charles Norris Shira, 25, Hamlin, Tex., a tackle on the football team; Donald Senich, 21, Cleveland, basketball center; William Flick, 20, Arlington, Tex., defensive fullback; Harrison Travis, 20, Atlantic Highlands, N. J., quarterback, swimmer and lacrosse player; Peter Herman, 20, Rochester, N. Y.; and Gerry Hart, 20, of Brooklyn, defensive guard.

Daru said none of the six at the hearing was reinstated.

Shira, questioned by Daru, told the committee he never had appeared before Federal Judge Learned Hand, nor had he met him or received any communication from him.

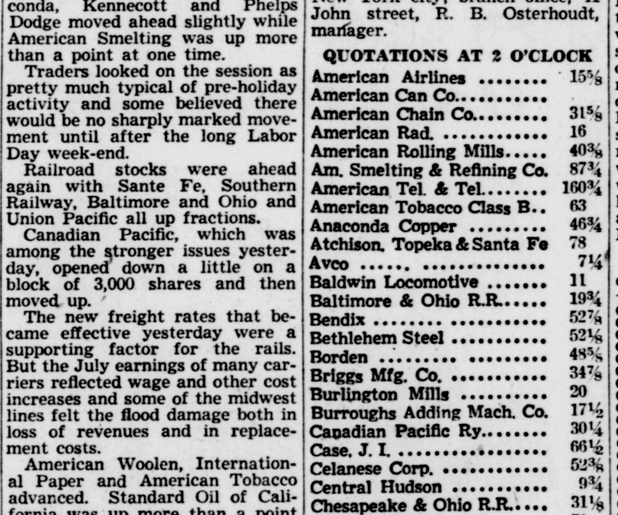

Judge Hand was a member of a special three-man board appointed to investigate the cribbing before any announcement of the scandal was made.

Stone Falls From Truck

This morning at 11 o'clock one of the trucks hauling stone for the rip-rap on the New York reservoir job lost a large stone, estimated to weigh about two tons, on the Woodstock-West Hurley highway near the White Horse Inn. A Bearsville resident reported the incident to the sheriff's office and Deputy Sheriff Earl Conro notified the State Highway Department. The stone fell from the truck in the middle of the road and endangered traffic, it was reported.

Civil Service Exam

A new examination for appointment to the position of economist, price, has been announced by the executive secretary, Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, for the Office of Price Stabilization, 70 East 10th street, New York, to fill vacancies in the OPS located in both New Jersey and New York. The starting salary is $5,400 a year. Further information and application forms may be obtained from first and second-class postoffices.

NEW SCHOOLS FOR "SHAVETAILS"—The Newsmap above locates the Army's Officer Candidate Schools, three of which—engineer, signal and armored—are just re-opening for business. From these six schools, the Army expects to turn out 8000 new second lieutenants a year. Students from both enlisted ranks and civilian life receive five months' intensive training before winning their bars.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—Prices continued their gaining tendencies in a lazy stock market today.

Most of the advances were fractions. Changes of a point or more were rarities.

There was not quite as much vigor behind the forward movement as cropped up midway of yesterday's session. But the advances were spread pretty well through the list.

The market appeared to pay little attention to the strike that has tied up the copper industry. Anaconda, Kennecott and Phelps Dodge moved ahead slightly while American Smelting was up more than a point at one time.

Traders looked on the session as pretty much typical of pre-holiday activity and some believed there would be no sharply marked movement until after the long Labor Day week-end.

Railroad stocks were ahead again with Sante Fe, Southern Railway, Baltimore and Ohio and Union Pacific all up fractions.

Canadian Pacific, which was among the stronger issues yesterday, opened down a little on a block of 3,000 shares and then moved up.

The new freight rates that became effective yesterday were a supporting factor for the rails. But the July earnings of many carriers reflected wage and other cost increases and some of the midwest lines felt the flood damage both in loss of revenues and in replacement costs.

American Woolen, International Paper and American Tobacco advanced. Standard Oil of California was up more than a point at one time while Texas Co. and Gulf Oil were ahead fractions. Sinclair was down a bit.

Republic Steel gained slightly and Bethlehem was down a similarly small figure. DuPont, Eastman Kodak and Union Carbide were ahead fractions.

Among the declines were Montgomery War, U. S. Rubber, Studebaker and American Can.

Prices moved ahead fractions to a point or more on the curb market. Most of the gains were less than a point but Southland Royalty, Molybdenum, Pittsburgh Metalurgical and Consolidated Mining and Smelting all showed better-than-a-point gains at times.

Graham Page Preferred, which had a good earnings report, was up as much as 3⅜ at one time (on the big board the common was up slightly).

Lesser gains included U. S. Radiator, Fansteel Metallurgical, General Alloys, Giant Yellowknife and Ainsworth. Among the declines were Mead Johnson, Glen Alden Coal, Pantepec Oil and Fairchild Engine.

Government liens were steady in quiet over-the-counter trading and in corporate bonds price changes were small and trading was light. The advances were in a slight majority.

Late Bulletins

Chester, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—Two children burned to death early today in a fire that destroyed their two-story home in Oxford Springs, a nearby hamlet, while their parents were away at work.

The victims were Henry Walters, Jr., one and one half years old, and his cousin, Joyce Walters, nine.

Firemen said the fire apparently started from an oil stove explosion in the kitchen.

They said the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Walters and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Walters, occupied the same house and had left earlier to go to work.

Unable to Save Them

The children were being cared for by a grandmother, who was unable to save the children.

The boy's body was found in his crib on the first floor and the girl in an upstairs bedroom.

Fire Chief Smith Barnes of the Washingtonville department estimated loss to the building at from $10,000 to $15,000.

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—President Truman today ordered the burial in Arlington National Cemetery of a Winnebago Indian killed in action in Korea, whose interment was halted at Sioux City, Ia., because of his Indian blood.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—The position of the treasury Aug. 27: Net budget receipts $102,115,401.00. Budget expenditures $130,666,754.28. Cash balance $5,565,412,119.47. Customs receipts for month $40,931,933.05. Budget receipts fiscal year July 1 $5,750,011,734.62. Budget expenditures fiscal year $8,623,144,600.40. Budget deficit $2,873,132,865.78. Total debt $256,570,604,518.50. Decrease under previous day $22,071,118.03. Gold assets $21,800,114,381.29.

NOW, IT'S A "JUMPIE TALKIE"—Here is an artist's conception of proposed voice bomb to be used in psychological warfare. The bomb, as depicted in Mechanix Illustrated magazine, would carry a compact tape recorder, a powerful amplifier and batteries. Dropped from a plane, the balloon bomb would drift to earth while the recorder blared out surrender demands or other morale-breaking messages to the enemy.

School 1 Pupils

travel over Dunn street to Wilbur avenue and will arrive at No. 1 School at approximately 8:20 a. m. Bus will continue along Wilbur avenue to Greenkill avenue, turn right on Greenkill avenue, one block to Clinton avenue, turn left on Clinton avenue to Franklin street, turn right on Franklin street one block to No. 8 School arriving at approximately 8:35 a. m.

Children living on the side streets leading into Abeel street and Wilbur avenue will walk to Abeel street or Wilbur avenue where they will be picked up by the bus. Side streets include: Berrien, Bernard, DeWitt, Davis, Fitch, DuFlon, Burnett, Purvis, Rodney, Chapel, Lebert, Brook, South Wall, West O'Reilly, High and Smith streets.

At the close of school in the afternoon, a bus will leave No. 8 School at 3:30 o'clock and will return the children to the location where they took the bus in the morning. The kindergarten children will attend the morning session. They will be transported on the morning bus with the other children. A taxi will leave No. 8 School at 11:20 and will return these kindergarten children to the place where they took the bus in the morning.

The school bus will transport only those children who would attend No. 1 School or who would enter No. 1 School in September. This includes the kindergarten children. Children who live on Wilbur avenue near the Wallkill railroad bridge and who live on South Wall street and have always attended No. 8 School will continue to walk to No. 8 School. Every effort will be made to arrange just as convenient a schedule and route as possible.

Injured in Mishap

Clifford Schoonmaker, 33, of Highland received lacerations of the face and internal injuries when his car left the road and struck a tree two miles southwest of Highland on the Perkinsville road last night about 10:45 o'clock. He was taken to Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeepsie where today his condition was reported as "fair." Schoonmaker was driving his Plymouth car west on the road and at a curve his car was forced off the road by an unknown car, state police at Highland report.

interviewed last spring at their rural schools by a member of the Kingston Guidance Department to register prior to the opening day of school. These registrations have all been completed.

However the MJM office will be open from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. on Thursday and Friday, August 30 and 31 for the registration of any new seventh and eighth grade pupils in the city and for new seventh and eighth grade non-residents who have not previously registered.

Kingston High School

The Kingston high school will open at 8:35 a. m., Tuesday, September 4.

All former students are to report to their home rooms of last year. The schedule for these students will be completed by noon.

All students new at Kingston high school will report to the high school auditorium, Tuesday, September 4, at 12:30 p. m. The new students include all those coming to high school from the eighth grade either in the city or country, and those transferring to Kingston high school from other schools. The schedule for these new students on Tuesday afternoon will be completed by 3:30 p. m. of that day.

Wednesday will be a regular day of school, with school opening at the regular time of 8:35 a. m. The cafeteria will be open on Wednesday.

300-Gun Harry

Houston, Tex. (AP)—Harry C. Knode, an enthusiastic Houston gun collector, estimates he has about 300 firearms, running from flintlocks to highly prized miniature pistols made in ancient times by apprentice gunsmiths. Oldest guns in the Knode collection are matchlocks. He has both Asiatic and European models. Hammers on these weapons were called "sepentines", which released the trigger setting off a match into a pan of powder, which fired the charge in the barrel. Knode is vice-president of the Texas Gun Collectors Association, which has 217 members.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Can you guess how many years ago W. B. Scott ran the American Laundry down at 38 Broadway in Rondout. His adv. read in part: "Call up the American Laundry when you want our wagon to stop at your house. We'll attend to your request speedily and finish your work satisfactorily. Our deliveries are prompt. No cracked collars."

At the time the New York Cloak and Suit Co. had two big stores, one at 15-17 Broadway in Rondout and one at 33 N. Front St., uptown. Their illustrated adv. shows a lady in one of those very long and very wide skirts and jacket suits. The hat has plumes and birds and the lady is veiled and carries a large muff.

Those were the days when the Kingston Opera House was having legitimate shows. "Paid in Full" was playing. Also the Bennett-Mouton Co. was expected. They had such high class plays as "A Jealous Woman," "A Cowboy's Romance," "The Devil," "A Man Without a Country," "The Governor's Wife." They also had advanced vaudeville between the acts. For these magnificent performances they charged for matinees, 10 and 20 cents. For evenings, 10, 20 and 30 cents. All the above items were taken from the Kingston Daily Express, of Thursday, February 4, 1909, given me by the late Col. Gordon Reel of Rondout.

Robert Matthews brought me a wonderful collection of postal cards. I think they should interest the committee arranging for the 300th Anniversary of Kingston. One of the cards printed in high color reads "250th Anniversary of Kingston, N. Y., 1658-1908." It shows the American flag, an eagle with outspread wings and a beautiful lady, a sort of Columbia, against a sky blue. Would this card mean that our celebration is just a little too early, or perhaps their celebration was a little too late. He also has a photograph of a celebration of the event at the West Shore, with the Depot hung with flags. Another photo postal card is of the "Rob" tug boat I think. Explanation at the bottom reads "Gov. Clinton's body landing at the dock foot of Broadway. Another photo postal card reads: "Some of the war vessels at anchor off Kingston Point, 250th Anniversary." Another actual photo-card with lots of people around a fire and a train in the background is titled, "Burning the Stockade—250th Celebration Kingston." Perhaps these cards will give some ideas to the present celebration committee.

One of the finest and colorful collection of picture postal cards I have ever seen of the Hudson Fulton celebration is also owned by Robert Matthews. I see these cards were printed by Redfield Brothers Inc. authorized publishers of 311 West 43rd St., New York City. They certainly did a splendid job. Each card shows a different float, given by No. and name in full color. On the back is the legend of the float. Also the emblem of the celebration is given on the back of each card. It was called "Official Souvenir Post Card." One card for instance is called "Dutch Doorway" with legend reading, "This float represents a Dutch doorway in New Amsterdam, a prominent resting place for family and social purposes in those days."

"HOWITZER" THAT AGAIN?—One man under a gun is Sgt. Fred Deavers of Joplin, Mo., engaged in the Army's "Exercise Southern Pine" near Fort Bragg, N. C. The pneumatic gun, masquerading as a 105-mm howitzer, is of the type used to give "Aggressor" forces greater "firepower" and more maneuverability.

Overlooks Favorite Scene

Papeete, Tahiti (AP)—Fittingly, the last resting place of author James Norman Hall, who died here recently, overlooks the bay where the ship "Bounty" anchored more than a century and a half ago. Hall and Charles Bernard Nordhoff wrote a trilogy of South Sea stories about the Bounty—"Mutiny on the Bounty", "Men Against the Sea", and "Pitcairn's Island." Fulfilling his long expressed wish, Hall's body was carried on the shoulders of six strong Tahitian men to the grave atop a hill near Arue. The grave site overlooks Mahina point, forming the northern barrier of Matavai bay, where the "Bounty" anchored.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Aug. 29—Mrs. Michael Reardon and daughter Peggy were recent callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Buley, Jr., of the Tonche Mountain neighborhood. The Reardon family in past years were regular summer visitors to Shokan and at one time they rented a house at Brown's Station.

Harold Corwin of Astoria is spending a vacation with his wife and two daughters at their place opposite the Shokan schoolhouse.

Mrs. Bernard Casablanca and son Vincent are spending this week at their New York home.

Shokan at last has begun to grow in the first real building spurt since waterworks days. There are also quite a lot of new people here as a result of changes in property ownership this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hastings of St. Albans, L. I., were in Shokan Tuesday in the course of a trip to their one time summer home at Acorn Hill. They owned the present Ariah house which more recently has been enlarged and converted to summer boarding-house purposes.

Charles and Marvin Greene have a good crop of peaches in their commercial orchard this season.

Edwin D. Secor, one of the oldest farmer residents of the reservoir country, is having a birthday today, Aug. 29. Ed, a son of Robert and Anna (Stewart) Secor in earlier life was in the ice business in the metropolitan area and also served as a clerk in the state legislature at Albany. He has been Republican committeeman and was postmaster at Ashokan for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. John Farrell and children have been spending a few days at the Michael Farrell home. John is a pressman on the Journal American.

Mr. and Mrs. Burt Tandy and daughter, Patricia left Shokan Monday for Boston where Patricia a K.H.S. graduate, will enter the Massachusetts General Hospital nurses' training class. The elder Tandys planned to continue on to Maine for a vacation sojourn of two weeks in the Pine Tree State.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wright and two boys of Inwood, L. I., have been guests for the past several days of their relatives, Mrs. William J. Loos and daughters.

Genuine 'Old Cow Hand'

Milan, Tenn. (AP)—How old must a cowboy be before he is too old to ride and rope? It must be more than 71, because John K. Skinner is still riding "the range" out here in West Tennessee. Skinner's a real cow-pncher, mind you, with bowed legs and boots and spurs. And he says he keeps all six of his horses "rode down" and could use six more. The old cowhand punches cattle on land leased by the Dogle Cattle Co. of Dexter, N.M., from the Milan Arsenal Reservation near here. He has 1,050 head of cattle and 650 calves to look after. Old John says he's been a cowboy since he ran away from school back in Oklahoma when he was 14. That's 57 years of riding horses and chasing doggies, and he still likes it.

Two Officials Sail To Bring Woman, Boy Back to U. S.

New York, Aug. 29—Two assistant district attorneys embarked today on the liner Queen Elizabeth for France to bring back a woman accused of attempting to spirit her son behind the Iron Curtain.

The officials said they expected no difficulty in returning Mrs. Philomine Kreisler Kirkwood and the eight-year-old boy she is accused of kidnaping.

The assistant district attorneys, Thomas P. Cullen and J. Irwin Shapiro, both of Queens, were accompanied by Policewoman Gladys Eckert.

Mrs. Kirkwood, 27, is held in Caen on a kidnaping charge. The boy, Thomas, a son by a former marriage, is being cared for in a hospital at Cherbourg.

The mother, now married to Charles Kirkwood, was arrested when she arrived by ship at Cherbourg Aug. 5. Her former husband, George Kreisler, a night club entertainer, had obtained a warrant here on the ground she and their son were headed for Communist East Germany.

Kreisler contended his former wife violated a divorce order by taking the boy out of the United States.

Kirkwood and a friend, Sydney Fuller, were with the woman on the trip to Europe.

Mrs. Kirkwood said in France that she merely wanted to take her son to see his grandmother in Germany. French courts upheld her detention for American authorities.

Kreisler charged in court here that the mother had been teaching Communist doctrine to the boy in New York.

Cullen, the assistant DA, said he went down the harbor yesterday morning expecting to meet Kirkwood on the incoming liner Homeland and question him, but did not find him aboard.

"It seems," Cullen told newsmen while embarking, "that Kirkwood and Fuller had been on the ship. The Cherbourg police put them on. But the line put them off because they did not have passage money."

Cullen explained that the kidnaping charge under which Mrs. Kirkwood is wanted here is an "extraditable felony."

Church services, conducted by the Rev. B. C. Schmidt, will be held Sunday, Sept. 2, at 8:15 p. m.

Says Popularity Is Low

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—America's popularity in Europe is at a low ebb, says the senior American Episcopal bishop in Europe. The bishop, the Rt. Rev. J. I. Blair, adds that "one reason they don't like us is that you never like anyone who loans the money. They feel, too, that we're pushing them too hard into defending themselves. They're tired of it all, and are just about ready to fall over," the bishop said. Bishop Blair sailed last night for his Geneva, Switzerland, headquarters.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Foundation Play Now in Rehearsal

JUDY SMALL

Woodstock, Aug 29—Al Bare, the artist, who plays the villain Burley Peabody in Bettina's Promise or the Broken Divining Rod, the new play which the Woodstock Foundation is presenting Sept. 14 and 15, at the Woodstock Playhouse, has in his spare moments been doing woodcut portraits of the leading members of the cast. He has recently completed a characteristic likeness of Judy Small, as Bettina, the terrified, beset horine of the opus.

Bare comes from a distinguished theatrical family. His granduncle, John Dyott, was a leading actor in the John Wilkes Booth company and was on the stage at the Ford Theatre, Washington, the night Booth shot and killed President Lincoln, who was viewing the play, Our American Cousin, from a box, Bare revealed.

Bare himself has had some theatrical experience, having played a small part with Katherine Cornell in the Barretts of Wimpole Street.

According to Fritzi Striebel, one of the co-authors of the play, Bare plays the role of the villain so convincingly in the vehicle that he is being hissed at rehearsals.

Virginia Hubbell and Fritzi Striebel, who are directing their new play, began night rehearsals at the Maverick Concert Hall this week to whip their offering into shape. They expect to have the first act set by the end of the week.

"The cast is wonderful," the authors declare. In playing out early scenes they have found that there are many more laughs than they had first expected.

The authors are also pleased with their latest coup which was to convince John Pike, the well-known artist, to take the role of Mr. McSweeney, the carnival owner, and to do a solo adagio dance in the second act. Pike will construct a female figure with which he will do the dance. It offers unlimited possibilities.

In addition to this activity, Pike is musical director and is supervising the design and construction of the sets. Richard Chambers, Dave Huffine and John Taylor, artists, will assist Pike with the sets.

Another first in connection with the play will be the appearance of John Striebel, noted creator of the Dixie Dugan cartoon strip, in an acting role. Striebel succumbed to the plea of Virginia Hubbell and his wife Fritzi.

Louis Lewis, presiding figure at local auctions, and a real-estate man, will play Uncle Rufus, the bold-brick salesman. Norbert Heerman, will have the part of Count Shashlik, the art patron. Carl Hubbell, the cartoonist, who plays the hero Horace, extended his theatrical experience last week by appearing at the Woodstock Playhouse as a sheriff in The Respectful Prostitute. Hubbell has had several previous goes at acting with the Island Players at Anna Amaria on the Gulf Coast of Florida, where he and his wife Virginia Hubbell, spend their winters.

The play is being presented by the Woodstock Foundation which makes awards to artists in all fields. It is the Foundation's fourth annual benefit show.

Kroll Featured In Mozart Works

Woodstock, Aug. 29—The loyal and growing audience of the Maverick Sunday concerts displayed its approval and support of the new piano last Sunday with an attendance of 189 at the benefit concert for the handsome new instrument which now graces the Maverick Hall stage. The large group of musicians, who have now become so much a part of the Maverick concert tradition, graciously gave fully and brilliantly of their talent and time for the success of the event. The participating artists were William Kroll, violinist and director of music for the Maverick concerts; Barbara Kroll, violist; Cynthia Eddy, cellist; Ilse Sass, pianist; Joseph Wolman, pianist, and Inez Carroll, pianist.

The concert opened with the Beethoven Sonata, opus 69, which was given in the initial passages a spirited interpretation by Miss Eddy and Miss Carroll. In the second movement the complex rhythms accelerated into rapid movement, to subside to the pensive mod of the Adagio cantabile, once more returning to the vivacious plane of the Allegro vivace. Both excellent phrasing and verve lent an especial air of distinction to the performance.

It has been realized by many who attend the Maverick concerts that this village is fortunate beyond comprehension in having in its midst, the musician who is perhaps the greatest living interpreter of the works of Mozart, the greatest musical genius of all time. When he played the violin sonata of Mozart a few weeks ago at Tanglewood, Kroll was given an ovation and the New York music critics joined in the acclaim. Unquestionably the highlight of this season, was the performance of Mozart's Quartet in G minor, with Kroll leading the brilliant ensemble, Barbara Kroll, viola; Cynthia Eddy, cello, and Ilse Sass, piano. So beautiful was the opening Allegro that it brought forth a spontaneous round of applause at the conclusion of the movement. In the Andante Kroll, and his daughter, Barbara, violist of the group, achieved an almost unearthly blending of instruments, with the sensitive support of Miss Sass and Miss Eddy. In the final Rondo all the forces of gaiety and triumph were released in the superb theme which brings the work to its spectacular conclusion. Mozart has been taken for granted for a long, long time but Kroll and his associates have brought the great composer to vibrant, pulsing life.

In direct contrast to the mature and intricate figures of Beethoven and Mozart, Kroll and Wolman, pianist, performed the spacious Strauss Sonata, opus 18. Strauss, the eternally youthful tone poet, wrote from the heart. Contained in the work are the sparkle of jewels, the glow of candlelight, romantic moods and quick young storms. Kroll and Wolman gave it everything and the music soared to the final glittering conclusion. It was in all, a superb afternoon of music.

Final Plans Mapped For St. John's Fair

Woodstock, Aug. 29—The final meeting for the annual fair sponsored by St. John's Parish, including St. John's Church, West Hurley, St. Augustine's Chapel, West Shokan, and St. Joan of Arc Chapel, Woodstock, was held at the rectory, the Rev. James L. Riordan, pastor, presiding, Wednesday.

The fair will be held Saturday, Sept. 1.

All committee chairmen were present and from reports heard, the public can expect to see the largest display of interesting items ever to have been on sale at this annual event.

Millman Will Be In Navy Exhibit

Woodstock, Aug. 29 — Edward Millman, USNR, of this village, will be represented in Operation Palette, the navy's widely-acclaimed exhibit of wartime art, which will form a major part of the armed forces exhibit at the National Business Show held during the week of October 22 to 27 at the Grand Central Palace in New York.

The exhibit consists of more than 100 selected original paintings and drawings by navy combat artists, many of them depicting actual battle scenes sketched on the spot under fire. Considered by many critics to be America's outstanding samples of wartime art, the pictures have been displayed at the National Gallery of Art in Washington and other cities in the United States as well as in England, Holland, France, Belgium and other European countries.

According to Rudolph Land, managing director of the National Business Show, there will be no charge for admission and tickets are available on request from any one of the 125 exhibitors.

Ceramic Exhibit

Woodstock, Aug. 29—Jessie Stagg's ceramic class will have a showing of recent work at her studio in Shady, Sunday, Sept. 2, from 4 to 7 p. m.

Legion Meeting

Woodstock, Aug. 29—A regular meeting of Woodstock Post 1026, American Legion, will be held at the club house tonight at 8 o'clock.

JUDY SMALL

Woodstock, Aug 29—Al Bare, the artist, who plays the villain Burley Peabody in Bettina's Promise or the Broken Divining Rod, the new play which the Woodstock Foundation is presenting Sept. 14 and 15, at the Woodstock Playhouse, has in his spare moments been doing woodcut portraits of the leading members of the cast. He has recently completed a characteristic likeness of Judy Small, as Bettina, the terrified, beset horine of the opus.

Bare comes from a distinguished theatrical family. His granduncle, John Dyott, was a leading actor in the John Wilkes Booth company and was on the stage at the Ford Theatre, Washington, the night Booth shot and killed President Lincoln, who was viewing the play, Our American Cousin, from a box, Bare revealed.

Bare himself has had some theatrical experience, having played a small part with Katherine Cornell in the Barretts of Wimpole Street.

According to Fritzi Striebel, one of the co-authors of the play, Bare plays the role of the villain so convincingly in the vehicle that he is being hissed at rehearsals.

Virginia Hubbell and Fritzi Striebel, who are directing their new play, began night rehearsals at the Maverick Concert Hall this week to whip their offering into shape. They expect to have the first act set by the end of the week.

"The cast is wonderful," the authors declare. In playing out early scenes they have found that there are many more laughs than they had first expected.

The authors are also pleased with their latest coup which was to convince John Pike, the well-known artist, to take the role of Mr. McSweeney, the carnival owner, and to do a solo adagio dance in the second act. Pike will construct a female figure with which he will do the dance. It offers unlimited possibilities.

In addition to this activity, Pike is musical director and is supervising the design and construction of the sets. Richard Chambers, Dave Huffine and John Taylor, artists, will assist Pike with the sets.

Another first in connection with the play will be the appearance of John Striebel, noted creator of the Dixie Dugan cartoon strip, in an acting role. Striebel succumbed to the plea of Virginia Hubbell and his wife Fritzi.

Louis Lewis, presiding figure at local auctions, and a real-estate man, will play Uncle Rufus, the bold-brick salesman. Norbert Heerman, will have the part of Count Shashlik, the art patron. Carl Hubbell, the cartoonist, who plays the hero Horace, extended his theatrical experience last week by appearing at the Woodstock Playhouse as a sheriff in The Respectful Prostitute. Hubbell has had several previous goes at acting with the Island Players at Anna Amaria on the Gulf Coast of Florida, where he and his wife Virginia Hubbell, spend their winters.

The play is being presented by the Woodstock Foundation which makes awards to artists in all fields. It is the Foundation's fourth annual benefit show.

Kroll Featured In Mozart Works

Woodstock, Aug. 29—The loyal and growing audience of the Maverick Sunday concerts displayed its approval and support of the new piano last Sunday with an attendance of 189 at the benefit concert for the handsome new instrument which now graces the Maverick Hall stage. The large group of musicians, who have now become so much a part of the Maverick concert tradition, graciously gave fully and brilliantly of their talent and time for the success of the event. The participating artists were William Kroll, violinist and director of music for the Maverick concerts; Barbara Kroll, violist; Cynthia Eddy, cellist; Ilse Sass, pianist; Joseph Wolman, pianist, and Inez Carroll, pianist.

The concert opened with the Beethoven Sonata, opus 69, which was given in the initial passages a spirited interpretation by Miss Eddy and Miss Carroll. In the second movement the complex rhythms accelerated into rapid movement, to subside to the pensive mod of the Adagio cantabile, once more returning to the vivacious plane of the Allegro vivace. Both excellent phrasing and verve lent an especial air of distinction to the performance.

It has been realized by many who attend the Maverick concerts that this village is fortunate beyond comprehension in having in its midst, the musician who is perhaps the greatest living interpreter of the works of Mozart, the greatest musical genius of all time. When he played the violin sonata of Mozart a few weeks ago at Tanglewood, Kroll was given an ovation and the New York music critics joined in the acclaim. Unquestionably the highlight of this season, was the performance of Mozart's Quartet in G minor, with Kroll leading the brilliant ensemble, Barbara Kroll, viola; Cynthia Eddy, cello, and Ilse Sass, piano. So beautiful was the opening Allegro that it brought forth a spontaneous round of applause at the conclusion of the movement. In the Andante Kroll, and his daughter, Barbara, violist of the group, achieved an almost unearthly blending of instruments, with the sensitive support of Miss Sass and Miss Eddy. In the final Rondo all the forces of gaiety and triumph were released in the superb theme which brings the work to its spectacular conclusion. Mozart has been taken for granted for a long, long time but Kroll and his associates have brought the great composer to vibrant, pulsing life.

In direct contrast to the mature and intricate figures of Beethoven and Mozart, Kroll and Wolman, pianist, performed the spacious Strauss Sonata, opus 18. Strauss, the eternally youthful tone poet, wrote from the heart. Contained in the work are the sparkle of jewels, the glow of candlelight, romantic moods and quick young storms. Kroll and Wolman gave it everything and the music soared to the final glittering conclusion. It was in all, a superb afternoon of music.

Final Plans Mapped For St. John's Fair

Woodstock, Aug. 29—The final meeting for the annual fair sponsored by St. John's Parish, including St. John's Church, West Hurley, St. Augustine's Chapel, West Shokan, and St. Joan of Arc Chapel, Woodstock, was held at the rectory, the Rev. James L. Riordan, pastor, presiding, Wednesday.

The fair will be held Saturday, Sept. 1.

Residents of Olive To Hold Labor Day Picnic and Reunion

Town of Olive residents together with former residents of the community who were scattered when the Ashokan Reservoir was built will meet again Labor Day for the annual Boiceville Labor Day picnic and reunion.

This year's affair will be held in Joseph Friedberg's Grove, formerly Lambert Grove, at Boiceville, where Dr. James T. Shotwell, a Woodstock resident for more than 40 years, will address the group. Dr. Shotwell is professor emeritus of history at Columbia University, advisor to the State Department, president of the Carnegie Foundation, and chairman of a United Nations committee. President Pratt Boice anticipates one of the largest gatherings in recent years.

Refreshments will be served by the Boy Scouts, and local talent will furnish music.

When New York built the Ashokan Reservoir on the site of many farms and villages, area residents were compelled to establish homes elsewhere. The Olive reunion was established to allow former and present residents to meet annually, renew old friendships, and talk over "old times."

Fair Workers Meet, Discuss Premium List

Mrs. Robert Compitello of Saugerties presided at a get-together in the Forsyth Park Pavilion Monday at 10:30 a. m. of women who assisted in the Home Department of the 1951 Ulster County Fair.

Those attending thoroughly discussed each department of the section. Recommendations for either increasing or decreasing the premium list were considered as well as the best way to show exhibits. These recommendations will be incorporated in next year's premium list after they are approved by the Ulster County Agricultural Society. Meanwhile, suggestions can still be sent to the fair's Home Department.

Attending the meeting were the Mmes. Paul Burton, George Saile, John Lasher, Harry Freligh, C. V. Gunther, Harry Vandemark, Alvin Stiller, Giles Randall, John Bordenstein, George Brown and Helena Olds.

CELEBRATING RE-MARRIAGE

A reader asks: "Just how much can we do in connection with our re-marriage? We have children seventeen and nineteen and have bene divorced five years. Everyone is rejoicing over the event and we'd like to know whether we may be married in church and have guests and give a reception and send invitations and announcements."

In your place I would avoid everything conspicuous! You can surely be re-married in church but I would certainly invite none but relatives and best friends.

Lace Table Cloth

Dear Mrs. Post: When may I use my lovely lace cloth? This is not entirely lace but some of it linen and embroidery. There are napkins to match. I'm told it is not suitable for a dinner and I wondered when then would I use it? We don't often invite people at lunch time.

Answer: Even though the napkins may be of lunch rather than of dinner size, you may certainly use it for dinner, as well as for supper or luncheon!

They Assume Expenses

Dear Mrs. Post: A good friend of mine, whom I date regularly, has invited me to go on a trip with him and his mother. We will be stopping off at various hotels and visiting, finally, his uncle and aunt. Please tell me what expenses I should assume and what my obligations will be to his relatives?

Answer: Considering you are going with him and his mother, they will assume the expenses, and nothing is expected of you further than being cooperative and courteous.

Introducing Oneself

Dear Mrs. Post: How should a wedding guest introduce herself (or himself) to strangers in the bridal receiving line? As Mrs. Brown or Jane Brown?

Answer: "Mrs. Henry Brown"—Never by first name!

Do you zigzag back and forth with your knife and fork when you cut meat? How to cut and eat meat is included in Mrs. Post's leaflet E-19. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. Residents of Olive To Hold Labor Day Picnic and Reunion

Town of Olive residents together with former residents of the community who were scattered when the Ashokan Reservoir was built will meet again Labor Day for the annual Boiceville Labor Day picnic and reunion.

This year's affair will be held in Joseph Friedberg's Grove, formerly Lambert Grove, at Boiceville, where Dr. James T. Shotwell, a Woodstock resident for more than 40 years, will address the group. Dr. Shotwell is professor emeritus of history at Columbia University, advisor to the State Department, president of the Carnegie Foundation, and chairman of a United Nations committee. President Pratt Boice anticipates one of the largest gatherings in recent years.

Refreshments will be served by the Boy Scouts, and local talent will furnish music.

When New York built the Ashokan Reservoir on the site of many farms and villages, area residents were compelled to establish homes elsewhere. The Olive reunion was established to allow former and present residents to meet annually, renew old friendships, and talk over "old times."

Officers of the organization in addition to Mr. Boice are Mrs. Lottie Hesley, vice-president, and Elwyn C. Davis, secretary-treasurer.

Former Resident Engaged to Wed

These Suits Can Lead Double Life

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Woman's Editor

New York—(NEA)—Looking pretty while she's waiting for the stork is not just a womanly whim. It's a pleasant duty. Going about in shapeless dresses, her hair hooked behind either ear with a bobby pin, is one way for a woman to get through the waiting time. But it isn't the way most attractive to her family and friends.

Surprisingly, fashions that make up a maternity wardrobe with a real flare are budget-priced. And, as Stork Styles design suits, they are planned to be interchangeable.

A black velveteen skirt, for instance, may be worn either with a silver lame jacket or a jacket in Black Watch plaid. Thus, two jackets plus one skirt make a wardrobe for both daytime and evening during the waiting days.

The jacket in silver lame has a cardigan neckline with stand-up collar and big patch pockets that have sparkling button trim. Its daytime counterpart, in the plaid, has black velveteen notched collar and cuffs, self-buttons and slanting, slit pockets.

Rounding out this trio, there's a dressy suit in charcoal ottoman that could see both daytime and evening wear by a mere switch of dickeys. The concealing middy top can be worn loose or belted. The dickey that comes with the suit is a soft pink ottoman studded with pearls and rhinestones. The three-quarter length sleeves may be worn pushed up; have smooth-fitting cuffs that close with jeweled buttons.

Spartansburg, S. C. (AP)—When you break a bill at a hotel here, your change looks like it's fresh from the mint. But the coins may be several years old, despite their shiny finish. The secret is an ingenious money-polishing machine that handles about $350 in coins at a time. A revolving cylinder is filled with change, water, cleaning and polishing powder, buckshot and small steel spikes. After the mixture agitates a few minutes the coins look and feel like new.

Week's Budget Style

Christmas Idea! Give your best friends the best gift—this gay apron! It's cut in ONE main part, so you can sew several in remarkably short order. 1,500 See Colonial Homes During New Paltz 'Open House'

New Paltz's historic Huguenot street with its two century-old stone houses was crowded with 1,500 visitors yesterday who traveled there from nearly all the eastern seaboard states and New England, according to the Rev. Gerret Wullsehleger, pastor of the New Paltz Reformed Church which planned the tour.

The original 600 tickets which church members felt was "an optimistic number" were sold out an hour after "Stone House Day" opened at 2 p. m.

"We kept having to run out and get more," The Rev. Mr. Wullschleger explained today.

Many visitors felt that the old homes in their original state were far more interesting than carefully planned restorations, as at Williamsburg, Va. Personnel attending from the National Broadcasting Company thought that networks should tell the public about New Paltz with its wealth of Americana, particularly as it is located so close to suburban and metropolitan areas.

Although a similar affair was held last year, this was the first time emphasis was placed on the village's old homes, built by French Huguenots who fled persecution at the hand of Louis XIV. The church, the Rev. Mr. Wullscheleger said, plans to make "Stone House Day" an annual affair.

These Suits Can Lead Double Life

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Woman's Editor

New York—(NEA)—Looking pretty while she's waiting for the stork is not just a womanly whim. It's a pleasant duty. Going about in shapeless dresses, her hair hooked behind either ear with a bobby pin, is one way for a woman to get through the waiting time. But it isn't the way most attractive to her family and friends.

Surprisingly, fashions that make up a maternity wardrobe with a real flare are budget-priced. And, as Stork Styles design suits, they are planned to be interchangeable.

A black velveteen skirt, for instance, may be worn either with a silver lame jacket or a jacket in Black Watch plaid. Thus, two jackets plus one skirt make a wardrobe for both daytime and evening during the waiting days.

The jacket in silver lame has a cardigan neckline with stand-up collar and big patch pockets that have sparkling button trim. Its daytime counterpart, in the plaid, has black velveteen notched collar and cuffs, self-buttons and slanting, slit pockets.

Rounding out this trio, there's a dressy suit in charcoal ottoman that could see both daytime and evening wear by a mere switch of dickeys. The concealing middy top can be worn loose or belted. The dickey that comes with the suit is a soft pink ottoman studded with pearls and rhinestones. The three-quarter length sleeves may be worn pushed up; have smooth-fitting cuffs that close with jeweled buttons.

Spartansburg, S. C. (AP)—When you break a bill at a hotel here, your change looks like it's fresh from the mint. But the coins may be several years old, despite their shiny finish. The secret is an ingenious money-polishing machine that handles about $350 in coins at a time. A revolving cylinder is filled with change, water, cleaning and polishing powder, buckshot and small steel spikes. After the mixture agitates a few minutes the coins look and feel like new.

1,500 See Colonial Homes During New Paltz 'Open House'

New Paltz's historic Huguenot street with its two century-old stone houses was crowded with 1,500 visitors yesterday who traveled there from nearly all the eastern seaboard states and New England, according to tne Rev. Gerret Wullsehleger, pastor of the New Paltz Reformed Church which planned the tour.

The original 600 tickets which church members felt was "an optimistic number" were sold out an hour after "Stone House Day" opened at 2 p. m.

"We kept having to run out and get more," The Rev. Mr. Wullschleger explained today.

Many visitors felt that the old homes in their original state were far more interesting than carefully planned restorations, as at Williamsburg, Va. Personnel attending from the National Broadcasting Company thought that networks should tell the public about New Paltz with its wealth of Americana, particularly as it is located so close to suburban and metropolitan areas.

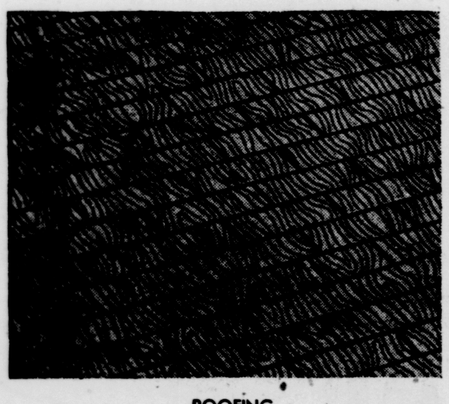

Although a similar affair was held last year, this was the first time emphasis was placed on the village's old homes, built by French Huguenots who fled persecution at the hand of Louis XIV. The church, the Rev. Mr. Wullscheleger said, plans to make "Stone House Day" an annual affair.

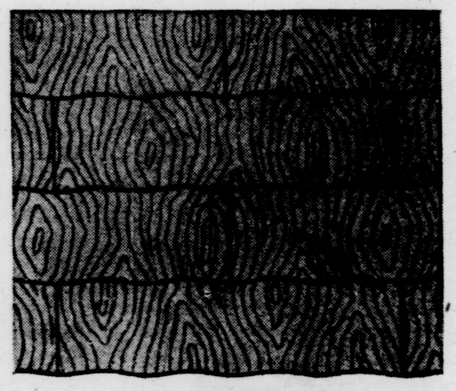

Here's relaxing ease for the busy foot in a charming wear-anywhere calfskin Broguette. Fetchingly styled, with Treadeasy's famous comfort features. Come in and try it on.

Newsmap above shows average per capita income for each state for 1950 as reported by the U. S. Department of Commerce. National per capita average was $1436, representing a gain of $116, or 9 per cent over 1949—making it the highest dollar total in history. The percentage increase per person was greater than average rise in prices, but extra taxes cut the consumer's margin of difference.

That family "nest egg," if you're an average family, should be about $4000 now, according to the Institute of Life Insurance, which supplied the data for the above Newschart. The chart compares average family savings now with those of ten years ago and 30 years ago. Noteworthy, according to the Institute's study, is the fact that accumulated savings have been growing at a far more rapid rate than consumer spending.

Seaweed Miracle Drugs

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—University of California researchers said today that California seaweeds may be the source of future anti-biotics, the so-called miracle drugs. The researchers found that some species of seaweed have the same effect against disease bearing micro-organisms as anti-biotics. The researchers were headed by Dr. Robertson Pratt at the University of California College of Pharmacy. Their findings were reported today at the annual convention of the American Pharmaceutical Association.

Monastery Beer

By A.D., the brewing of beer was thoroughly established as an essential activity of every well-provided monastery, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Hint to Motorists

For cars that have been in long service, preparations for winter should include changing to a lighter oil, adjustment of the carburetor to assure a rich mixture of fuel, adjustments to the ignition system, checking of the battery, brakes and tires, and cleansing of the cooling system before puting in anti-freeze.

IT'S A FIREBALL ENGINE

You never tried a fine car like This One

YOU'VE a right to set your sights higher when you buy a fine car.

You can rightly expect more room—more comfort—more performance—and a lordly smoothness in the way it carries you.

So we present these facts:

You'll find, in a ROADMASTER, more usable room than you'll find in any other six-passenger car in America.

You'll find the extra comfort of double-depth Foamtex cushions in ROADMASTER only.

You'll find that the ROADMASTER has a high-compression, valve-in-head power plant that is also Buick's own—a mighty Fireball Engine endowed with more performance than most owners will ever need.

And you'll find that a ROADMASTER rolls with unsurpassed levelness and poise, thanks to coil springs on all four wheels—which is still another feature found on no other car in the fine-car field.

But the thrill that is yours, when you get this willing beauty out on the open road, is something that can't be summed up in any listing of features, one by one.

It's a "feel" which, we honestly believe, no other car can approach.

It's the sure way this dazzling performer holds the road—the way it responds to your slightest wish—the quick answer you get when you nudge the throttle—the extra security you feel in the velvet grip of the brakes—the complete freedom from tension you find in Dynaflow Drive—the sense of mastery that makes every mile a joy.

And, confidentially, there's one more important way in which ROADMASTER stands alone, and that is in the modest cost of its pounds and performance.

Better come in soon and check for yourself what a great car and a great buy this one really is.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

The percentage increase per person was greater than average rise in prices, but extra taxes cut the consumer's margin of difference.

That family "nest egg," if you're an average family, should be about $4000 now, according to the Institute of Life Insurance, which supplied the data for the above Newschart. The chart compares average family savings now with those of ten years ago and 30 years ago. Noteworthy, according to the Institute's study, is the fact that accumulated savings have been growing at a far more rapid rate than consumer spending.

Hint to Motorists

For cars that have been in long service, preparations for winter should include changing to a lighter oil, adjustment of the carburetor to assure a rich mixture of fuel, adjustments to the ignition system, checking of the battery, brakes and tires, and cleansing of the cooling system before puting in anti-freeze.

Seaweed Miracle Drugs

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—University of California researchers said today that California seaweeds may be the source of future anti-biotics, the so-called miracle drugs. The researchers found that some species of seaweed have the same effect against disease bearing micro-organisms as anti-biotics. The researchers were headed by Dr. Robertson Pratt at the University of California College of Pharmacy. Their findings were reported today at the annual convention of the American Pharmaceutical Association.

IT'S A FIREBALL ENGINE

You never tried a fine car like This One

YOU'VE a right to set your sights higher when you buy a fine car.

You can rightly expect more room—more comfort—more performance—and a lordly smoothness in the way it carries you.

So we present these facts:

You'll find, in a ROADMASTER, more usable room than you'll find in any other six-passenger car in America.

You'll find the extra comfort of double-depth Foamtex cushions in ROADMASTER only.

You'll find that the ROADMASTER has a high-compression, valve-in-head power plant that is also Buick's own—a mighty Fireball Engine endowed with more performance than most owners will ever need.

And you'll find that a ROADMASTER rolls with unsurpassed levelness and poise, thanks to coil springs on all four wheels—which is still another feature found on no other car in the fine-car field.

But the thrill that is yours, when you get this willing beauty out on the open road, is something that can't be summed up in any listing of features, one by one.

It's a "feel" which, we honestly believe, no other car can approach.

It's the sure way this dazzling performer holds the road—the way it responds to your slightest wish—the quick answer you get when you nudge the throttle—the extra security you feel in the velvet grip of the brakes—the complete freedom from tension you find in Dynaflow Drive—the sense of mastery that makes every mile a joy.

And, confidentially, there's one more important way in which ROADMASTER stands alone, and that is in the modest cost of its pounds and performance.

Better come in soon and check for yourself what a great car and a great buy this one really is.

Theft of Watch Is Traced to 2 Boys

The theft of a watch and a key case from cars parked in the lot near the municipal auditorium has been traced to two young boys, Detective Clarence Brophy said today.

Robert Powell, R.D., Kingston reported the theft of a watch valued at $50 Saturday between 5 and 6 p. m., and around the same time Frank Fay, 153 Linderman avenue, reported that a glove compartment in his car had been rifled and the car keys taken.

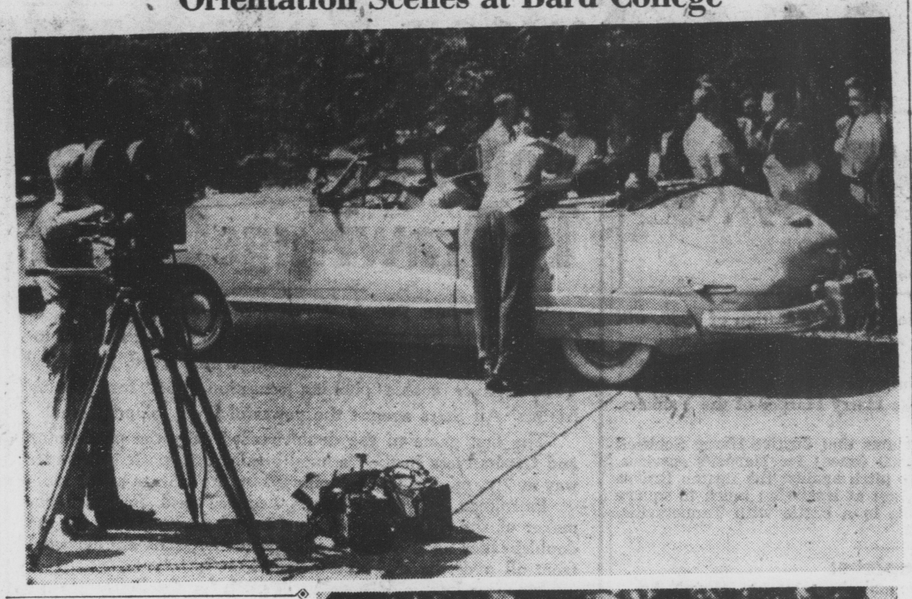

The boys, one 10 years old and the other nine, were not held for children's court, but the parents of one were asked to make restitution for damage to the watch, the detective said.

Nephew of Local People Says Korea Conflict Real War

Captain Herbert R. Greene, 30, of 270 Seaman avenue, New York city, a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Brenner, of 72 Clinton avenue, and a great nephew of Hyman Leventhal, of 288 Wall street, has described the Korean situation as a "real war."

Home on leave prior to assignment to jet plane training in South Carolina, the air force officer recently told a New York reporter "it's a real war, the hottest kind of war we're fighting in Korea. We're up against hordes, not troops, and we fly only 50 feet off the ground to pound them massing at night on the hillsides. It's like raking swarms of locusts."

Capt. Greene, a veteran World War 2 aviator, has been serving for eight months as a navigator and volunteer bombardier with the air force's Third Borbardment Group.

POW of Germans

Capt. Greene was shot down while flying over Madgeburg, Germany, May 28, 1944, and was a prisoner of war in Germany for almost a year. Prior to his capture, he had flown 25 missions. During his participation in the Korean conflict, he has flown 58 missions. He holds nine medals for gallantry in action, including the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Comparing the air strikes against the Germans in World War 2 and the Chinese in the present conflict, the New York aviator said "we used to fly five miles off the ground over Germany and there was a certain quality of sportsmanship to the air fighting. But in Korea," he added, "it's more like hunting animals than men. Most of the Communist pushes start at night and so most of our work is at night."

A member of the Air Force Reserve, Capt. Greene was recalled to duty in Korea July, 1950.

Foreign Students' Interests Touch Upon Vital Subjects

By PATRICIA BENSING

Annandale-on-Hudson, Aug. 22—Students from the other side of the earth, from Europe, South America, Asia and the Middle East caught their first glimpses of America this summer en route to Bard College. There, by the end of July, 43 students with names as foreign as their countries gathered for a five-week orientation program designed to give them the linguistic, social and informational tools required for a successful year's study in the United States.

The 43 at Bard are merely a fraction of 1,000 foreign students being sponsored by the Departments of State and Army for the '51-'52 academic year in American colleges and universities.

The students there, like their contemporaries in 19 other orientation centers, are young university graduates and professional people. They are literally the cream of their countries' youth . . . students of great intelligence, social usefulness and leadership potential. Ranging in age from the early twenties to the early thirties, their interests touch all branches of academic study, and all fields of government and private endeavor.

Cross-Section of World

Those at Bard represent a fairly complete cross-section of the world: Japan, Iceland, Finland, Jordan, Turkey, France, Germany, The Netherlands, Belgium, Brazil, India, Ceylon, Burma, Indonesia, and Pakistan. The highest percentage, however, hails from Japan. This fall, all of them will attend some eastern school of higher education, where they will concentrate in widely divergent fields ranging from library science and journalism, through pharmacy and international relations.

Since their arrival at Annandale at one time or another most of the 43 have turned actor or actress. In fact, they profess to be "fed up" and "bored" with cameras and photographers, emphasizing newly acquired slang with clipped, eastern accents. On location at the Hudson valley college are men from Warner Brothers Studios, Hollywood, who, in conjunction with the army, are making a film which will be shown to next year's America-bound students, before they leave their homes.

Women and Work

Harumani Sudirdjo, who will take an English course at Barnard College, flew here from her native Indonesia via Holand, and is particularly interested in American women and the methods they use to combine their home and professional lives.

She herself has acquired rapidly American habits, expressions and dress. Like college co-eds across the country she wears trim American clothes which she adopted because "they're so easy and informal," and likes to sit out on the campus under the cool shade of Bard's tall hemlock discussing any one of a 100 subjects with her colleagues.

Indonesia now boasts many professional women, she explained during a recent interview sandwiched between the cameramen's "takes."

"But the men," she sighed, "they're skeptical. They do not see how a woman could combine work, and a home life. Of course it would not be so simple in Indonesia as it is here. We do not have the modern conveniences. Gas and electricity, those we have, but most of the cooking, that is still done over coal, which must be fanned constantly."

Once she has returned to Indonesia, she will teach English at the primary level. At present, she is looking forward to seeing New York, and, more particularly, her sister, a United Nations delegate of a year's standing, who makes her home in Manhattan.

Hopes for Masters

Another student, Hiroshi Kitamura, a native of Osaka, Japan, who is bound for Tufts College's Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, sees in his American year the opportunity to further the dream of world peace.

"I would like to contribute as much as possible to world peace," he admits earnestly. "It will be difficult to achieve, but it is the best way."

He is of the new-generation Japanese who were too young for World War 2. When he was 17 he was sent to the ancient city of Kyoto where he attended the Third Higher School. He went on to Tokyo to study French, or Napoleonic, law. He hopes in Boston to earn his master's degree in international law. He is also looking forward to individual contact with his professors at Fletcher.

"In Tokyo," he explains "there were almost always 600 students to a class, like your mass production. We listened to lectures through microphones."

Sari and Sandals

A pretty young Indian girl, dressed in her native sari and sandals, Jamura Merani of Bombay, told of her trip to this country with sparkling eyes. She, another girl and a boy stopped off at Geneva, Lucerne and Paris, landing in London in time for the city's festival.

"Everybody is very envious. None of the others saw as much of the continent."

She will study welfare work at the New York School of Social Work, and hopes to extend her American visit until June of '53. Her face turned thoughtful when she spoke of her work.

"Our worst problem in India, you know, is one of over-population. I should like to be able to bring the principles of planned parenthood into the villages."

She is perfectly confident she will be able to find her way about New York.

"If you don't get lost in Bombay, you won't get lost anywhere. But I would rather be in the country. Your Hudson valley is the prettiest place I have ever seen. It reminds me of Kashmir, it is so green.

Asked what she thinks of American women, she shrugs and smiles.

"They are exactly the way we were told they would be—very open, very friendly, and very fond of superlatives."

At another village—St. Galmier—some 100 persons were reported ill after eating ice cream. One source said paratyphoid germs were found in the milk from which the ice cream was made.

Several score persons were reported ill in the region of Poitiers, where officials thought they had traced the cause to some meat sold in three villages of the department.

Ate Horse, Made Ill

In the region of Chateaudun another 100 persons were ill after eating the flesh of a horse which a farmer had slaughtered after it was injured.

At Pont St. Esprit, a man ran through the streets yesterday screaming "Help! Help! Arrest them. They want to kill me." Police took him to a psychiatric ward as he pointed to imaginary foes.

Among the dead in the town were a man, 70, and his wife. The woman died after jumping from the third floor of a hospital.

Guardsmen to Get West Point Chance

A special school to prepare National Guardsmen for entrance to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point will be conducted by the New York State Division of Military and Naval Affairs and the State University of New York.

Announcement of the plan has been made by Maj. Gen. Karl F. Hausauer, chief of staff to Governor Dewey and head of the Division of Military and Naval Affairs, in a communication to Lt. Col. Frank W. Harkins, commander of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion.

Col. Harkins said the school, first of its kind in the United States, is scheduled to open this fall at the State University's Institute of Applied Arts and Sciences in Brooklyn.

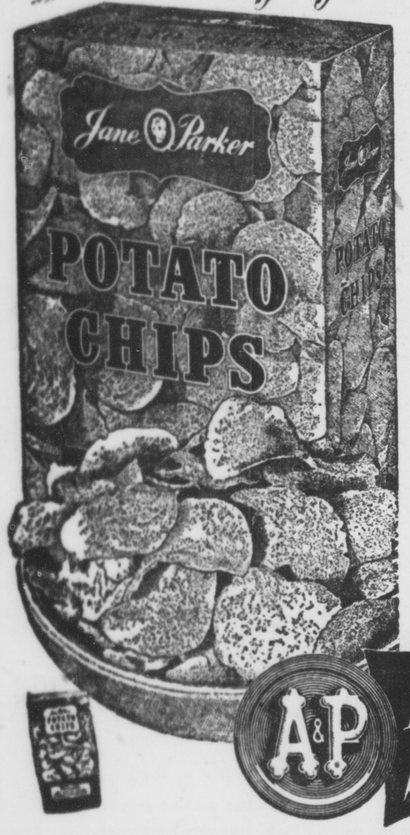

The dates for the school and the final curriculum now are being worked out in conference between officials of the Division of Military and Naval Affairs and the State University of New York.

Examinations will be open to all members of the National Guard and the Air National Guard for the four-month course, Col. Harkin said.

Child Hurt by Gun

Officers Harry Martin and Thomas Tomshaw were dispatched at 6:01 p. m., Tuesday to 43 Ravine street where, they reported, Patricia Ahrens, 8, sitting on a porch, "was struck in the face with a pellet from a BB gun." A search, made in the area, was without result, the report said.

At another village—St. Galmier—some 100 persons were reported ill after eating ice cream. One source said paratyphoid germs were found in the milk from which the ice cream was made.

Several score persons were reported ill in the region of Poitiers, where officials thought they had traced the cause to some meat sold in three villages of the department.

Ate Horse, Made Ill

In the region of Chateaudun another 100 persons were ill after eating the flesh of a horse which a farmer had slaughtered after it was injured.

At Pont St. Esprit, a man ran through the streets yesterday screaming "Help! Help! Arrest them. They want to kill me." Police took him to a psychiatric ward as he pointed to imaginary foes.

Among the dead in the town were a man, 70, and his wife. The woman died after jumping from the third floor of a hospital.

Guardsmen to Get West Point Chance

A special school to prepare National Guardsmen for entrance to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point will be conducted by the New York State Division of Military and Naval Affairs and the State University of New York.

Announcement of the plan has been made by Maj. Gen. Karl F. Hausauer, chief of staff to Governor Dewey and head of the Division of Military and Naval Affairs, in a communication to Lt. Col. Frank W. Harkins, commander of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion.

Col. Harkins said the school, first of its kind in the United States, is scheduled to open this fall at the State University's Institute of Applied Arts and Sciences in Brooklyn.

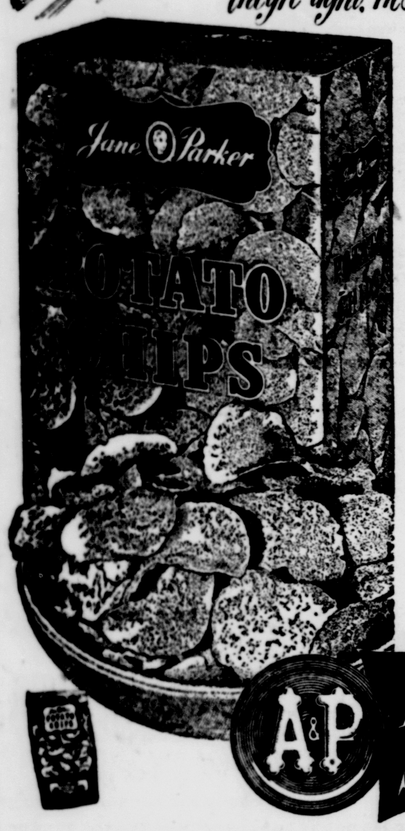

The dates for the school and the final curriculum now are being worked out in conference between officials of the Division of Military and Naval Affairs and the State University of New York.

Examinations will be open to all members of the National Guard and the Air National Guard for the four-month course, Col. Harkin said.

Child Hurt by Gun

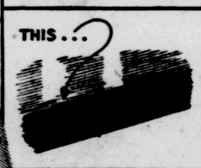

Officers Harry Martin and Thomas Tomshaw were dispatched at 6:01 p. m., Tuesday to 43 Ravine street where, they reported, Patricia Ahrens, 8, sitting on a porch, "was struck in the face with a pellet from a BB gun." A search, made in the area, was without result, the report said.

It's brought to you by the makers of Johnson's Wax . . . and it's called Johnson's Hard Gloss Glo-Coat!
This new kind of no-rubbing polish dries in a few minutes to leave a shine that is so remarkably hard it doesn't mark up or streak or get sticky!
THIS . . .  When shoes scuff over Johnson's Hard Gloss Glo-Coat the polish is so hard it stays flat and anchored down like this. The polish doesn't get a scuffed-up look.

Look for the GREEN BAND on the new Hard Gloss Glo-Coat can

Turck Reels Off Nine Straight Wins; Ashdown Tops BA With .596; 7 Homers

The high-flying Yankees completed a clean sweep of team, pitching and batting honors in the Little League Tuesday, when their decisive 9 to 1 conquest of the Dodgers enabled them to win both halves of the pennant race.

The Yankees were undefeated in the first half and then came from behind to edge past the Giants and Red Sox in the hot scramble for the second round bauble.

Tuesday's game marked the conclusion of Little League activity for the season. The small fry stars have two big dates ahead of them. On Friday, Sept. 7, they will be guests of the New York Yankees for the Yankee-Washington game at Yankee Stadium and the first annual post-season banquet will be held on Saturday, Sept. 29, at the high school gym.

Turck Stars

Moving to his ninth straight pitching victory without a setback, Turck restricted the Dodgers to singles by George Uhl and Charlie DeCicco, fanned seven and walked three. He also stroked a triple in his own behalf.

The Yankees collected eight hits off Glenn Newell and Ernie Madison, including two singles by Gene Nagele, and were aided and abetted by five Dodger miscues.

Three more wild pitches and an error by Bobby Pratt figured in two Yankee markers in the third and they completed their scoring chores with a cluster of four in the fifth.

Escape Shutout

Plans for the post-season banquet and details of the New York trip will be announced in the next few days by President Robert Umpleby of the Kingston Athletic Association.

Gavilan 3 to 1 Over Graham

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan, confident and at the peak of his form, was rated a hefty 13 to 5 favorite to whip Billy Graham of New York in their 15-round title bout at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Although he lost one split decision to Graham and won the same way in the return, the sleek, flashy Cuban has been made the big choice on the strength of his recent form.

The 25-year old Gavilan is riding a ten-fight win streak which began with his revenge victory over Graham on Nov. 17, 1950. The slick boxing New Yorker had edged the colorful Cuban nine months before.

Whitey Ford, the Yankee rookie pitching sensation of 1950, will be reimbursed handsomely for his appearance tonight at municipal stadium, but the soldier boy from Fort Monmouth, N. J., will not approach the princely sums the original Kingston Colonials used to dish out for ex-major leaguers like Harry Harper of the Yankees, Jack Warhop and Paul Schreiber.

An eminent Colonial historian relates that Justice Harry Schirick doled out "from $250 to at least $500 (once) for Harper's services. Warhop pulled down at least $250 to pitch against the Boston Braves and Paul Schreiber, of the Dodgers, got at least that much to square off against Jimmy Ring of the Phils in a battle with Tannersville. And those were pre-Truman dollars.

● A Match Between Champions:

The forthcoming 36-hole city golf championship playoff between Leon Randall of Wiltwyck and George Hughes of Twaalfskill will see the rival rooters divided strictly according to club lines, more so this year than ever before. Wiltwyck fans will be pulling for Leon to avenge the setback Hughes handed him in the Father Herdegen Memorial and Twaalfskill partisans will be rooting hard for Hughes to complete his "Little Grand Slam." The Labor Day playoff starts at 10 o'clock in the morning at Twaalfskill and concludes at 2 p. m. at Wiltwyck. From this corner it looks like even money, take your pick. Any other action would be based on sheer sentiment.

● Flotsam and Jetsam:

Tommy Maines' batting splurge in the City League one of the late season highlights in local sports. Ed "Chief" Leonard more excited about tonight's doubleheader at the stadium than anything since the old feud with the Newburgh cops. Harry Hohnhorst, of Woodstock Country Club, who was the oldest competitor in the Herdegen Memorial, penned a beautiful brochure with cartoons on the late unhappy experiences of the Woodstock swingers in the Herdegen tournament. Said Harry: "Woodstock golfers never win, they just fade away." Only until next year, Harry. Colonial faithful impressed by the great job young Dave Ocarr has accomplished at second base since the medicos ordered Dennis Healey to go easy for the remainder of the season. Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cooper of 40 Broadway have received word that their son-in-law, Donald Rasch of Monticello, recently exploded a sensational 255-yard hole-in-one on the Pine Knoll Golf Club near Monticello. Rasch used a full No. 1 wood to connect for the ace on a par-4 hole, first time the trick was ever achieved on that course. Few other golfers can make that claim. Aces are tough enough on par-3s.

The Port Ewen Fife and Drum Corps was more resplendent than ever in its drill Saturday night at municipal stadium. The boys from across the bridge always put on a good show, but this was one of their best. What a pity so few people availed themselves of the chance to see the 156th Field Artillery stage its simulated artillery attack on an enemy position Monday night. Col. Frank W. Harkin's crew staged a spectacular, educational demonstration. Leave it to the Colonials to stage their best ball games before the smallest crowds. Twice running, with 123 and 320 people in the stands, Vince Canepa and Rick Ostrander pitched two and three-hitters. Invariably, the club flopped before the few large gatherings this year. The windup of the 1951 season will be the final nail in the coffin for professional baseball in Kingston. The big guy, the man who has kept the game alive under discouraging circumstances, red ink baths and mounting public apathy, is finally fed up. And when he calls it quits, as he has promised, that's it, brother.

Johnny Gentile, Frankie Bambara, Steve Ristau. Ah, the good old days at the stadium. The late Paul Zucca, Jr., sitting below the press box with his cronies, Ken Hyatt, Tommy Bashall, and Charlie Brodhead over in a corner. Phil Corrado's stentorian voice booming over the stadium. Paul and those fellows represented the second golden era of local baseball. They kidded us a lot in the pressbox but it was a pleasure to cover baseball in those days. Backward, oh time in thy flight. Give me just one more season like that.

The Scoreboard

Look what happened yesterday. Early Wynn protected Cleveland's one-game lead over the New York Yankees in the American League by besting Philadelphia's Sam Zoldak in a 1-0 hurling duel. A home run by Bob Kennedy settled the issue.

Brooklyn increased its National League lead to six games as rookie Clem Labine outpitched Cincinnati's Howie Fox, 3-1, while Pittsburgh's Howie Pollet blanked Sheldon Jones and the runner-up New York Giants, 2-0, to end their 16-game winning streak .

Max Lanier of the St. Louis Cardinals shut out Bubba Church and the Philadelphia Phillies, 2-0, and Omar Lown of the Chicago Cubs whitewashed Chet Nichols and the Boston Braves, 1-0.

The highest run total was made by the Yankees, who defeated the St. Louis Browns, 7-5, in 10 innings and they needed 13 walks by Tommy Byrne. The Detroit Tigers nipped the third place Boston Red Sox, 5-4. Chicago's White Sox took a 4-3 decision from Washington in 10 innings.

Low Hitters

Not one of the 16 teams got as many as 10 hits. It was the same story on Monday when four shutouts including two three-hitters and a pair of two-hitters were pitched although six teams were idle.

Altogether 79 shutouts have been hurled thus far in the National to only 81 all last year. The American is only one short of last year's entire shutout output of 62.

A seventh inning home run by Kennedy gave Cleveland its 12th straight triumph over the Athletics. It was the second time the Indians have beaten Zoldak, a former teammate, 1-0.

A crowd of 23,573 watched Wynn register his 15th victory. That brought Cleveland's home attendance to 1,501,187, tops in the majors. Wynn gave up five hits to four for Zoldak.

Byrne's 13th walk, a pair of fielder's choices, a long fly by Joe DiMaggio and a single by Charlie Silvera furnished the winning Yankee runs in the 10th. Bob Kuzava, fourth Yankee hurler, was credited with the victory. The Browns rallied for three runs in the eighth to tie the score at 5-5. A two-run single by Matt Batts climaxed the rally.

Pollet Brilliant

The Pirates made only three hits off Jones. Only one of them figured in the scoring. That was an eighth inning leadoff single by rookie Frank Thomas. Jones then walked Ralph Kiner and ran the count to 3-1 on Gus Bell when Dave Koslo replaced him.

Jack Phillips came in to bat for Bell and grounded into a double play on the first pitch. The Giants appeared out of the woods when pinch hitter Clyde McCullough sent a routine grounder to second but Eddie Stanky bobbled the ball and Thomas scored. Then outfielder Don Mueller dropped a fly ball after an Alphonse-Gaston act with teammate Willie Mays and McCullough scored all the way from First.

Pollet, however, deserved the victory. He struck out four, walked none and retired 17 men in succession. He gave up six hits, three of them to Bobby Thomson.

Not since the Cubs won 21 in a row in '35 has a National League team racked up as many straight as the Giants. Baseball's modern record is 26 in a row, set by the Giants in 1916.

Police Doubleheader To Draw Huge Crowd

The Kingston Patrolmen's Association was prepared to handle one of the largest baseball crowds of recent years tonight at municipal stadium, when Ed Whitey Ford, 1950 New York Yankee rookie pitching sensation, goes for Tommy Maines' All Stars against the powerful Long Island Greys.

The first game of the doubleheader pairs the police nine and Cordts Hose in their annual grudge battle. It gets under way at 7 p. m. and will be followed by the feature attraction.

Patrolmen Edward "Chief" Leonard and Earl Schoonmaker of the K.P.A. announce a heavy advance sale for the doubleheader and, if the weather holds up, fans are expected from all over the mid-Hudson area.

Manager Lennie Ellsworth will pitch for the Police against Cordts' veteran Dewey Van Buren. Ken Pine is the Long Island Grey choice against Ford.

Maroon Gridders Get Uniforms

Football uniforms will be issued to varsity squad candidates at the high school on Saturday, Sept. 1, and Monday, Sept. 3 (Labor Day) from 9 a. m. to 12 noon and from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m., Coach Bill Burke announced today.

Shandaken Wins Seventh, 6-0

Bob Kelly and John Klosterman did the heavy duty for Shandaken, Kelly pounding four singles in five trips and Klosterman driving in three runs with a double and two singles.

It was Shandaken's seventh victory of the season.

Leonard Tops Qualifiers

Newton, Mass., Aug. 29 (AP)—Tommy Leonard, Jr., of Nashua, N. H., topped New England's seven sectional qualifiers for the national amateur golf championship with a 36-hole total of 145 yesterday at Brae Burn. Bobby Knowles of Brookline, the U. S. Walker Cup player and French champion, was one of a trio tied for second honors with 147 totals. The others were Henry J. Kowal of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and Francis McArdle of Wayland.

Deadlock Developing For Commissioner

Darkhorse Choice May Be Named

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—There were indications today that a deadlock is developing among the 16 major league baseball club owners over election of a new commissioner. This could pave the way for choice of a darkhorse candidate.

The owners meet in Chicago Sept. 20 legally empowered to elect a successor to A. B. Chandler in the game's top job, paying $65,000 or $75,000 yearly.

At the meeting in New York Aug. 21 the field was winnowed down to five men:

General Douglas MacArthur.
Milton Eisenhower, president of Pennsylvania State College.
Ford Frick, president of the National League.
Warren Giles, president of the Cincinnati Reds.
Frank J. Lausche, governor of Ohio.

It is beginning to look as if none of these, even if available, could command the 12 votes needed for election.

Farley Darkhorse

In the darkhorse field are two well known figures who for one reason or another were not included in the "famous five" that represented the considered choice of the baseball powers. These are James A. Farley, chairman of the Board of Coca-Cola Export, and George Trautman, the czar of the minor leagues.

Now a new name has cropped up. It is Benjamin H. Reese, who retired this year as managing editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. He is known to have support among the big league owners. Although not well known nationally, he is highly respected within the newspaper profession, and is a man of commanding physical presence and executive ability.

Some baseball owners feel that the game does not need a famous name—in fact, they believe the job will make the man.

There is precedent for selecting a darkhorse. Chandler himself was one when he was chosen in 1945 to succeed Judge K. M. Landis.

At any event there will be a grim, no-holds-barred session in Chicago Sept. 20. It is the first meeting since Chandler resigned that has been called with the required, legal 30-day notice that would empower it to select a boss for all baseball.

Yankees Trounce Dodgers, 9-1, to Sweep Both Halves of Little League

Turck Reels Off Nine Straight Wins; Ashdown Tops BA With .596; 7 Homers

The high-flying Yankees completed a clean sweep of team, pitching and batting honors in the Little League Tuesday, when their decisive 9 to 1 conquest of the Dodgers enabled them to win both halves of the pennant race.

Unbeaten Tony Turck reeled off his ninth consecutive pitching success and Ronnie Ashdown pounded a single and homer to boost his batting average to .596, tops in the league.

Ashdown's homer was his seventh of the campaign and tied him with Joe Hoffman for honors in that department.

The Yankees were undefeated in the first half and then came from behind to edge past the Giants and Red Sox in the hot scramble for the second round bauble.

Tuesday's game marked the conclusion of Little League activity for the season. The small fry stars have two big dates ahead of them. On Friday, Sept. 7, they will be guests of the New York Yankees for the Yankee-Washington game at Yankee Stadium and the first annual post-season banquet will be held on Saturday, Sept. 29, at the high school gym.

Turck Stars

Moving to his ninth straight pitching victory without a setback, Turck restricted the Dodgers to singles by George Uhl and Charlie DeCicco, fanned seven and walked three. He also stroked a triple in his own behalf.

Ashdown pounded a homer and single to boost his BA to .596. Willie Cragan wound up in second place with .541.

The Yankees collected eight hits off Glenn Newell and Ernie Madison, including two singles by Gene Nagele, and were aided and abetted by five Dodger miscues.

Three Yankee runs resulted in the second inning when Ronnie Ashdown led off with his 7th homer, Charlie Bishop and Gene Nagele were nicked by pitched balls and Madison uncorked a wild pitch.

Three more wild pitches and an error by Bobby Pratt figured in two Yankee markers in the third and they completed their scoring chores with a cluster of four in the fifth.

Donnie Ashdown was hit by a pitched ball and scored on Tony Turck's triple to center. Singles by Ronnie Ashdown, Gene Nagele, Duke Semilof and Ron Jones accounted for the other tallies.

Escape Shutout

The dodgers escaped the ignominy of a shutout on Charlie DeCicco's fifth inning single, a wild pitch and throwing error by Ronnie Ashdown.

Plans for the post-season banquet and details of the New York trip will be announced in the next few days by President Robert Umpleby of the Kingston Athletic Association.

Gavilan 3 to 1 Over Graham

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan, confident and at the peak of his form, was rated a hefty 13 to 5 favorite to whip Billy Graham of New York in their 15-round title bout at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Although he lost one split decision to Graham and won the same way in the return, the sleek, flashy Cuban has been made the big choice on the strength of his recent form.

The 25-year old Gavilan is riding a ten-fight win streak which began with his revenge victory over Graham on Nov. 17, 1950. The slick boxing New Yorker had edged the colorful Cuban nine months before.

Whitey Ford, the Yankee rookie pitching sensation of 1950, will be reimbursed handsomely for his appearance tonight at municipal stadium, but the soldier boy from Fort Monmouth, N. J., will not approach the princely sums the original Kingston Colonials used to dish out for ex-major leaguers like Harry Harper of the Yankees, Jack Warhop and Paul Schreiber.

An eminent Colonial historian relates that Justice Harry Schirick doled out "from $250 to at least $500 (once) for Harper's services. Warhop pulled down at least $250 to pitch against the Boston Braves and Paul Schreiber, of the Dodgers, got at least that much to square off against Jimmy Ring of the Phils in a battle with Tannersville. And those were pre-Truman dollars.

• A Match Between Champions:

The forthcoming 36-hole city golf championship playoff between Leon Randall of Wiltwyck and George Hughes of Twaalfskill will see the rival rooters divided strictly according to club lines, more so this year than ever before. Wiltwyck fans will be pulling for Leon to avenge the setback Hughes handed him in the Father Herdegen Memorial and Twaalfskill partisans will be rooting hard for Hughes to complete his "Little Grand Slam." The Labor Day playoff starts at 10 o'clock in the morning at Twaalfskill and concludes at 2 p. m. at Wiltwyck. From this corner it looks like even money, take your pick. Any other action would be based on sheer sentiment.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Tommy Maines' batting splurge in the City League one of the late season highlights in local sports. Ed "Chief" Leonard more excited about tonight's doubleheader at the stadium than anything since the old feud with the Newburgh cops. Harry Hohnhorst, of Woodstock Country Club, who was the oldest competitor in the Herdegen Memorial, penned a beautiful brochure with cartoons on the late unhappy experiences of the Woodstock swingers in the Herdegen tournament. Said Harry: "Woodstock golfers never win, they just fade away." Only until next year, Harry. Colonial faithful impressed by the great job young Dave Ocarr has accomplished at second base since the medicos ordered Dennis Healey to go easy for the remainder of the season. Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cooper of 40 Broadway have received word that their son-in-law, Donald Rasch of Monticello, recently exploded a sensational 255-yard hole-in-one on the Pine Knoll Golf Club near Monticello. Rasch used a full No. 1 wood to connect for the ace on a par-4 hole, first time the trick was ever achieved on that course. Few other golfers can make that claim. Aces are tough enough on par-3s.

The Port Ewen Fife and Drum Corps was more resplendent than ever in its drill Saturday night at municipal stadium. The boys from across the bridge always put on a good show, but this was one of their best. What a pity so few people availed themselves of the chance to see the 156th Field Artillery stage its simulated artillery attack on an enemy position Monday night. Col. Frank W. Harkin's crew staged a spectacular, educational demonstration. Leave it to the Colonials to stage their best ball games before the smallest crowds. Twice running, with 123 and 320 people in the stands, Vince Canepa and Rick Ostrander pitched two and three-hitters. Invariably, the club flopped before the few large gatherings this year. The windup of the 1951 season will be the final nail in the coffin for professional baseball in Kingston. The big guy, the man who has kept the game alive under discouraging circumstances, red ink baths and mounting public apathy, is finally fed up. And when he calls it quits, as he has promised, that's it, brother.

Johnny Gentile, Frankie Bambara, Steve Ristau. Ah, the good old days at the stadium. The late Paul Zucca, Jr., sitting below the press box with his cronies, Ken Hyatt, Tommy Bashall, and Charlie Brodhead over in a corner. Phil Corrado's stentorian voice booming over the stadium. Paul and those fellows represented the second golden era of local baseball. They kidded us a lot in the pressbox but it was a pleasure to cover baseball in those days. Backward, oh time in thy flight. Give me just one more season like that.

The Scoreboard

Is this a pitchers' year or does Ted Williams know something when he insists the ball is deader?

Look what happened yesterday. Early Wynn protected Cleveland's one-game lead over the New York Yankees in the American League by besting Philadelphia's Sam Zoldak in a 1-0 hurling duel. A home run by Bob Kennedy settled the issue.

Brooklyn increased its National League lead to six games as rookie Clem Labine outpitched Cincinnati's Howie Fox, 3-1, while Pittsburgh's Howie Pollet blanked Sheldon Jones and the runner-up New York Giants, 2-0, to end their 16-game winning streak .

Max Lanier of the St. Louis Cardinals shut out Bubba Church and the Philadelphia Phillies, 2-0, and Omar Lown of the Chicago Cubs whitewashed Chet Nichols and the Boston Braves, 1-0.

The highest run total was made by the Yankees, who defeated the St. Louis Browns, 7-5, in 10 innings and they needed 13 walks by Tommy Byrne. The Detroit Tigers nipped the third place Boston Red Sox, 5-4. Chicago's White Sox took a 4-3 decision from Washington in 10 innings.

Low Hitters

Not one of the 16 teams got as many as 10 hits. It was the same story on Monday when four shutouts including two three-hitters and a pair of two-hitters were pitched although six teams were idle.

Altogether 79 shutouts have been hurled thus far in the National to only 81 all last year. The American is only one short of last year's entire shutout output of 62.

A seventh inning home run by Kennedy gave Cleveland its 12th straight triumph over the Athletics. It was the second time the Indians have beaten Zoldak, a former teammate, 1-0.

A crowd of 23,573 watched Wynn register his 15th victory. That brought Cleveland's home attendance to 1,501,187, tops in the majors. Wynn gave up five hits to four for Zoldak.

Byrne's 13th walk, a pair of fielder's choices, a long fly by Joe DiMaggio and a single by Charlie Silvera furnished the winning Yankee runs in the 10th. Bob Kuzava, fourth Yankee hurler, was credited with the victory. The Browns rallied for three runs in the eighth to tie the score at 5-5. A two-run single by Matt Batts climaxed the rally.

Pollet Brilliant

A brilliant pitching exhibition by Pollet ended the Giants' 16-game winning streak, longest in the National League since 1935. It took two unearned Pittsburgh runs, however, to cool off the New Yorkers.

The Pirates made only three hits off Jones. Only one of them figured in the scoring. That was an eighth inning leadoff single by rookie Frank Thomas. Jones then walked Ralph Kiner and ran the count to 3-1 on Gus Bell when Dave Koslo replaced him.

Jack Phillips came in to bat for Bell and grounded into a double play on the first pitch. The Giants appeared out of the woods when pinch hitter Clyde McCullough sent a routine grounder to second but Eddie Stanky bobbled the ball and Thomas scored. Then outfielder Don Mueller dropped a fly ball after an Alphonse-Gaston act with teammate Willie Mays and McCullough scored all the way from First.

Pollet, however, deserved the victory. He struck out four, walked none and retired 17 men in succession. He gave up six hits, three of them to Bobby Thomson.

Not since the Cubs won 21 in a row in '35 has a National League team racked up as many straight as the Giants. Baseball's modern record is 26 in a row, set by the Giants in 1916.

Police Doubleheader To Draw Huge Crowd

The Kingston Patrolmen's Association was prepared to handle one of the largest baseball crowds of recent years tonight at municipal stadium, when Ed Whitey Ford, 1950 New York Yankee rookie pitching sensation, goes for Tommy Maines' All Stars against the powerful Long Island Greys.

The first game of the doubleheader pairs the police nine and Cordts Hose in their annual grudge battle. It gets under way at 7 p. m. and will be followed by the feature attraction.

Patrolmen Edward "Chief" Leonard and Earl Schoonmaker of the K.P.A. announce a heavy advance sale for the doubleheader and, if the weather holds up, fans are expected from all over the mid-Hudson area.

Manager Lennie Ellsworth will pitch for the Police against Cordts' veteran Dewey Van Buren. Ken Pine is the Long Island Grey choice against Ford.

Maroon Gridders Get Uniforms

Football uniforms will be issued to varsity squad candidates at the high school on Saturday, Sept. 1, and Monday, Sept. 3 (Labor Day) from 9 a. m. to 12 noon and from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m., Coach Bill Burke announced today.

All eligible players are requested to report at the high school during those hours.

Shandaken Wins Seventh, 6-0

Shandaken blanked Lanesville, 6 to 0, behind the three-hit pitching of Walt Carr, who fanned 10 batters.

Bud Smith was almost as effective, except for one bad inning when the winners scored five times. He yielded nine hits and struck out 13.

Bob Kelly and John Klosterman did the heavy duty for Shandaken, Kelly pounding four singles in five trips and Klosterman driving in three runs with a double and two singles.

It was Shandaken's seventh victory of the season.

Leonard Tops Qualifiers

Newton, Mass., Aug. 29 (AP)—Tommy Leonard, Jr., of Nashua, N. H., topped New England's seven sectional qualifiers for the national amateur golf championship with a 36-hole total of 145 yesterday at Brae Burn. Bobby Knowles of Brookline, the U. S. Walker Cup player and French champion, was one of a trio tied for second honors with 147 totals. The others were Henry J. Kowal of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and Francis McArdle of Wayland.

Deadlock Developing For Commissioner

Darkhorse Choice May Be Named

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—There were indications today that a deadlock is developing among the 16 major league baseball club owners over election of a new commissioner. This could pave the way for choice of a darkhorse candidate.

The owners meet in Chicago Sept. 20 legally empowered to elect a successor to A. B. Chandler in the game's top job, paying $65,000 or $75,000 yearly.

At the meeting in New York Aug. 21 the field was winnowed down to five men:

General Douglas MacArthur.

Ford Frick, president of the National League.

Warren Giles, president of the Cincinnati Reds.

Frank J. Lausche, governor of Ohio.

It is beginning to look as if none of these, even if available, could command the 12 votes needed for election.

Farley Darkhorse

In the darkhorse field are two well known figures who for one reason or another were not included in the "famous five" that represented the considered choice of the baseball powers. These are James A. Farley, chairman of the Board of Coca-Cola Export, and George Trautman, the czar of the minor leagues.

Now a new name has cropped up. It is Benjamin H. Reese, who retired this year as managing editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. He is known to have support among the big league owners. Although not well known nationally, he is highly respected within the newspaper profession, and is a man of commanding physical presence and executive ability.

Some baseball owners feel that the game does not need a famous name—in fact, they believe the job will make the man.

There is precedent for selecting a darkhorse. Chandler himself was one when he was chosen in 1945 to succeed Judge K. M. Landis.

At any event there will be a grim, no-holds-barred session in Chicago Sept. 20. It is the first meeting since Chandler resigned that has been called with the required, legal 30-day notice that would empower it to select a boss for all baseball.

Billows Fails to Qualify for Amateur; Shields and Hank Kowal in From Area

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—Many familiar faces will be missing when the pick of the nation's amateur golfers gather at beautiful Saucon Valley in Bethlehem, Pa., just 12 days hence to battle for the national championship.

Dawson Falls

Former Walker Cup star Johnny Dawson of Hollywood, Calif., suffered a similar fate at Long Beach, Calif., where he lost in a playoff for one of the five places allotted that area. He can compete only if one of the successful men fails to show up.

The major casualty of the 32 scattered sectional tests, which reduced an entry list of 1,425 to a round 200—including 11 exempt players—was Billows, who lost to Johnny Goodman in the finals at Portland, Ore., in 1937, to Bud Ward at Glenview, Ill., in 1939 and to Willie Turnesa in Memphis in 1948.

The swaggering Poughkeepsie campaigner chopped out an erratic 72-82—154 to miss out by two strokes. Frank Strafaci of Garden City, led the Metropolitan trials with 143 while a score of 152 was good enough to rate a playoff for five of the 21 places.

An Army Air Force officer, Capt. Fred Moseley, of San Antonio, Tex., and the captain of Notre Dame's golf team, Tommy Veech, of Milwaukee, led national qualifying with red-hot scores of 134.

Moseley bracketed a pair of 67's over the Bra Burn Country Club in Houston for a ten-under-par performance. Veech put together a 70-64 over the par 70 Blue Mound Country Club at Milwaukee, his last round setting a new course record.

Veech announced, however, he wouldn't play in the national because he had to return to school.

Defending champion Sam Urzetta of Rochester, N. Y., was exempt from qualifying along with Walker Cup captain Willie Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., and four other past champions.

Canepa Stops Gloversville, 3-2; Close Season Here Next Sunday

Road Trip Due With Rome and Pittsfield

With practically a private audience looking on, Vince Canepa and the locals responded with a brilliant 3-2 victory over the Gloversville Glovers to square the two-game set amid the echoes at municipal stadium.

For the second time running, Canepa was sturdy and resolute. Last time out it was a two-hitter; last night a three-hitter as he notched his eighth victory of the season.

Last Game Sunday

It was the final home game for the Colonials until the seasonal fadeout on Sunday, Sept. 2 against Pittsfield. They meet Rome and Pittsfield in series on the road this week.

Scotty Tortoriello, who had been slumping of late, collaborated with Canepa with two key triples. The first came in the third and set up the first Colonial run on a long fly by Manager John Sosh and the second drove in Johnny DiFresco in the fifth. An infield out with the bases loaded scored the final marker in the sixth.

Canepa issued four walks and struck out the same number. The Colonials picked up nine hits off Frank "Big Motion". Howlan, including a double and two singles by Johnny DiFresco. Dave Ocarr and Nick Marino also bagged a pair of safeties.

Grid Practice Starts at Point

West Point, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP) — Army football practice opens today, and Coach Earl (Red) Blaik's biggest immediate problem is to get acquainted with the young men who will block and carry the ball for him this fall.

Gone—wiped out by the recent exam-cribbing scandal—is the powerful squad that won No. 2 national ranking last year and that was figured to finish equally high this season.

Carter Upset In Coast Bout

Los Angeles, Aug. 29 (AP)—World lightweight champion Jimmy Carter of New York will take his slightly tarnished crown back east in a few days, swearing he will never defend it in California.

"We were robbed once. Never again."

So spoke his manager, Willie Ketchum, in a bitter aftermath of Carter's loss in a 10-round fight last night to Art Aragon, so-called "Golden Boy" of Los Angeles.

Cocky Aragon grabbed the split decision before a sellout crowd of 10,400 fans who paid $47,833 gross to witness the non-title match.

Referee Abe Roth gave Aragon the decision by six points, Judge Mushy Callahan awarded it to the local boy by eight, while Judge Joe Stone voted for the champion by two points. The Associated Press scorecard coincided with Stone's.

Can-Am Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

Byers was a hero in both roles last night when the Colonels swept a Canadian-American League doubleheader at Pittsfield, 2-0 and 9-7. He spun a two-hitter in the seven-inning opener, and saved the second game with a ninth-inning relief job.

Oneonta, first-half winner, moved nearer the second half title with a 3-1 victory at Amsterdam. Kingston edged Gloversville, 3-2.

In the nightcap at Pittsfield, Byers relieved Sal Arduini in the ninth with the bases loaded, two out and the Colonels leading 9-5. Pittsfield Tommy Caliento singled for two runs, but Byers got Bill Pope on a fly, ending the game.

Niro Homers

Joe Niro, Rome catcher, sparked a five-run attack on George McPhail in the first inning lacing a three-run homer. McPhail, trying for his 25th win, was lifted in the third inning.

Oneonta ended its 1951 dealings with Amsterdam by beating the Ruggers for the 19th time in 24 meetings. The Sox scored the winning runs off reliefer Tom Mollica when Johnny Minarcin drew a pass with the bases full and John Zizza singled.

Scotty Tortoriello's two triples were the key blows in the Colonials' win at Kingston. The southpaw centerfielder tripled in the third and scored on a fly by Manager John Sosh. In the fifth, Tortoriello's three-bagger drove home Johnny Di Fresco, who had singled.

Indians Rout Pine Hill, 13-1

George Jackson pitched three-hit ball and struck out 13 as the Ashokan Indians drubbed Pine Hill, 13 to 1, Sunday on the Pine Hill diamond.

The winners collected 13 hits off Thompson, including a trio of singles by Bud Scheffel and two hits each by Oakley, George Jackson and MacNamara. Thompson fanned eight.

Louis-Marciano Set October 11

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—An old story of the ring—the ambitious veteran—will be enacted again in the Polo Grounds on Oct. 11 when undefeated Rocky Marciano takes on Joe Louis in a ten round bout.

Promoter Jim Norris, who has been hot after this match for some time, finally clinched it yesterday when he got Marciano's handlers to agree to take 15 per cent of the net gate. The Wellis, Marty and Al, who direct the Brockton belter's business, had been holding out for 20. Louis will get 45 per cent.

Norris set a $25 top for the fight and said he expected it to gross over $250,000. The International Boxing Club president said it probably will not be televised. If that's the case, the show will be piped into theaters in a dozen or more cities.

Billows Fails to Qualify for Amateur; Shields and Hank Kowal in From Area

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—Many familiar faces will be missing when the pick of the nation's amateur golfers gather at beautiful Saucon Valley in Bethlehem, Pa., just 12 days hence to battle for the national championship.

Pipe-smoking Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., won't be there. The 37-year-old veteran who three times played in the finals of this blue ribbon event failed to qualify yesterday in the Metropolitan trials at Westbury, N. Y.

Dawson Fails

Former Walker Cup star Johnny Dawson of Hollywood, Calif., suffered a similar fate at Long Beach, Calif., where he lost in a playoff for one of the five places allotted that area. He can compete only if one of the successful men fails to show up.

The major casualty of the 32 scattered sectional tests, which reduced an entry list of 1,425 to a round 200—including 11 exempt players—was Billows, who lost to Johnny Goodman in the finals at Portland, Ore., in 1937, to Bud Ward at Glenview, Ill., in 1939 and to Willie Turnesa in Memphis in 1948.

The swaggering Poughkeepsie campaigner chopped out an erratic 72-82—154 to miss out by two strokes. Frank Strafaci of Garden City, led the Metropolitan trials with 143 while a score of 152 was good enough to rate a playoff for five of the 21 places.

Dawson shot himself a 74-77—151 at Long Beach where Jim Ferrier of that city was low with 142.

An Army Air Force officer, Capt. Fred Moseley, of San Antonio, Tex., and the captain of Notre Dame's golf team, Tommy Veech, of Milwaukee, led national qualifying with red-hot scores of 134.

Moseley bracketed a pair of 67's over the Bra Burn Country Club in Houston for a ten-under-par performance. Veech put together a 70-64 over the par 70 Blue Mound Country Club at Milwaukee, his last round setting a new course record.

Veech announced, however, he wouldn't play in the national because he had to return to school.

Defending champion Sam Urzetta of Rochester, N. Y., was exempt from qualifying along with Walker Cup captain Willie Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., and four other past champions.

Canepa Stops Gloversville, 3-2; Close Season Here Next Sunday

Road Trip Due With Rome and Pittsfield

The Colonials proved once again last night that big crowds scare them; small gatherings inspire them.

With practically a private audience looking on, Vince Canepa and the locals responded with a brilliant 3-2 victory over the Gloversville Glovers to square the two-game set amid the echoes at municipal stadium.

For the second time running, Canepa was sturdy and resolute. Last time out it was a two-hitter; last night a three-hitter as he notched his eighth victory of the season.

Last Game Sunday

It was the final home game for the Colonials until the seasonal fadeout on Sunday, Sept. 2 against Pittsfield. They meet Rome and Pittsfield in series on the road this week.

Scotty Tortoriello, who had been slumping of late, collaborated with Canepa with two key triples. The first came in the third and set up the first Colonial run on a long fly by Manager John Sosh and the second drove in Johnny DiFresco in the fifth. An infield out with the bases loaded scored the final marker in the sixth.

Canepa issued four walks and struck out the same number. The Colonials picked up nine hits off Frank "Big Motion" Howlan, including a double and two singles by Johnny DiFresco, Dave Ocarr and Nick Marino also bagged a pair of safeties.

Grid Practice Starts at Point

West Point, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP) — Army football practice opens today, and Coach Earl (Red) Blaik's biggest immediate problem is to get acquainted with the young men who will block and carry the ball for him this fall.

Gone—wiped out by the recent exam-cribbing scandal—is the powerful squad that won No. 2 national ranking last year and that was figured to finish equally high this season.

More than 2000 major earthquakes have been recorded in Japan since 746 A.D.

Carter Upset In Coast Bout

Los Angeles, Aug. 29 (AP)—World lightweight champion Jimmy Carter of New York will take his slightly tarnished crown back east in a few days, swearing he will never defend it in California.

"We were robbed once. Never again."

So spoke his manager, Willie Ketchum, in a bitter aftermath of Carter's loss in a 10-round fight last night to Art Aragon, so-called "Golden Boy" of Los Angeles.

Cocky Aragon grabbed the split decision before a sellout crowd of 10,400 fans who paid $47,833 gross to witness the non-title match.

Referee Abe Roth gave Aragon the decision by six points, Judge Mushy Callahan awarded it to the local boy by eight, while Judge Joe Stone voted for the champion by two points. The Associated Press scorecard coincided with Stone's.

Can-Am Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

Starter or reliefer—it's all in a night's work for Ollie Byers, Rome's veteran righthander.

Byers was a hero in both roles last night when the Colonels swept a Canadian-American League doubleheader at Pittsfield, 2-0 and 9-7. He spun a two-hitter in the seven-inning opener, and saved the second game with a ninth-inning relief job.

The losses virtually doomed Pittsfield's chance for the second half flag. The second-place Electrics trail Oneonta by seven and a half games and have six days left in the schedule.

Oneonta, first-half winner, moved nearer the second half title with a 3-1 victory at Amsterdam. Kingston edged Gloversville, 3-2.

In the nightcap at Pittsfield, Byers relieved Sal Arduini in the ninth with the bases loaded, two out and the Colonels leading 9-5. Pittsfield Tommy Caliento singled for two runs, but Byers got Bill Pope on a fly, ending the game.

Niro Homers

Joe Niro, Rome catcher, sparked a five-run attack on George McPhail in the first inning lacing a three-run homer. McPhail, trying for his 25th win, was lifted in the third inning.

Oneonta ended its 1951 dealings with Amsterdam by beating the Ruggers for the 19th time in 24 meetings. The Sox scored the winning runs off reliefer Tom Mollica when Johnny Minarcin drew a pass with the bases full and John Zizza singled.

Scotty Tortoriello's two triples were the key blows in the Colonials' win at Kingston. The southpaw centerfielder tripled in the third and scored on a fly by Manager John Sosh. In the fifth, Tortoriello's three-bagger drove home Johnny Di Fresco, who had singled.

Indians Rout Pine Hill, 13-1

George Jackson pitched three-hit ball and struck out 13 as the Ashokan Indians drubbed Pine Hill, 13 to 1, Sunday on the Pine Hill diamond.

The winners collected 13 hits off Thompson, including a trio of singles by Bud Scheffel and two hits each by Oakley, George Jackson and MacNamara. Thompson fanned eight.

Housewives! ARE YOU TIRED OF -Cold, Drafty Floors,
-Dirty Curtains, Walls, Woodwork
-Uneven Heat?

YOU CAN HAVE ALL THE COMFORTS OF WINTER AIR CONDITIONING with a Viking "Qui-ette" Blower

• Drafts are Eliminated
Stop catching colds from drafty rooms! The Viking Blower gives you "fireplace" snugness in all rooms even on the coldest days. The air is changed 72 times daily guaranteeing you the finest in health protection.

• Dirt is Filtered from Air
Like a gigantic vacuum cleaner the Viking Blower sucks and then filters all lint, dirt and dust from the air. You breathe clean, fresh air all winter long. And how it keeps your walls and furniture clean—it's a housewife's dream come true!

• Every Room Gets the Same Heat
Rooms too hot one minute and too cold the next are ended for all time. You now get uniform, even heat in every room every minute of the day. Just install the Viking Blower and learn what real comfort is like in the winter!

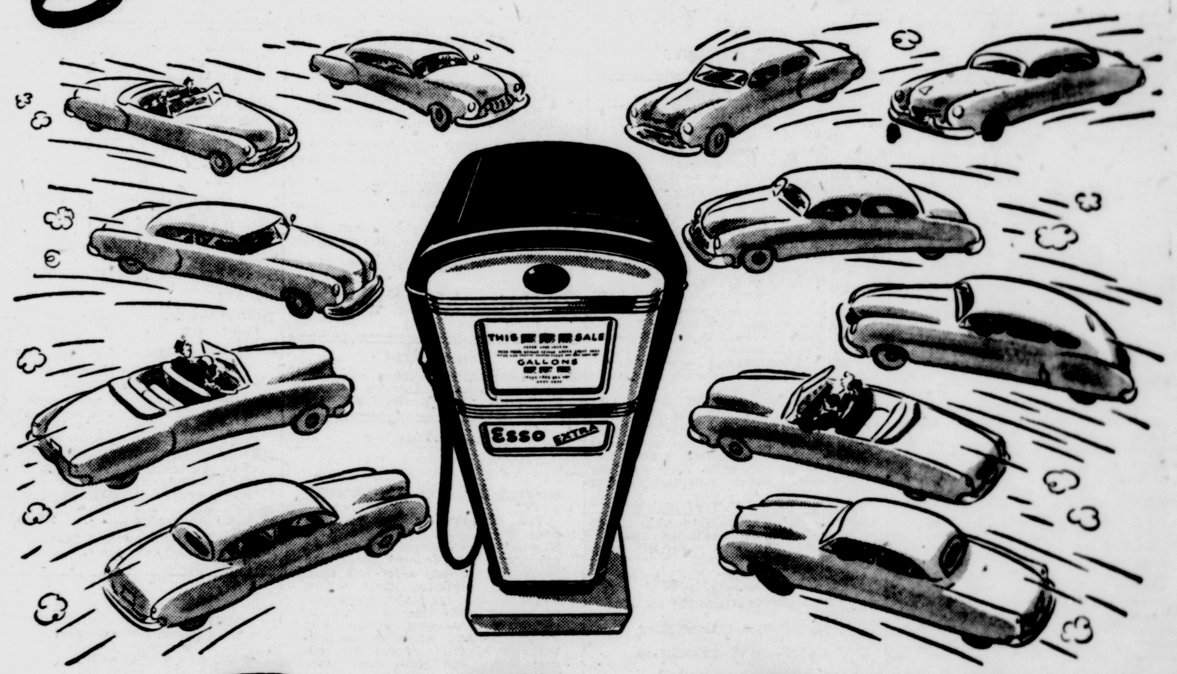

• ACT NOW!

Army Tries New Flying Saucers to Supply Soldiers

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—The army is experimenting with flying saucers—yes, flying saucers—to supply troops in the field with water, gasoline and other liquids.

It announced yesterday that disc-shaped containers made of synthetic rubber have been dropped from altitudes of 400 to 2,000 feet without bursting or spilling their five gallon contents of liquids.

When they hit the ground, the army said, they stretch to almost double their normal size, bounce back into the air and then settle down near the point of contact.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS
STATE DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS
ALBANY, N. Y.

Pursuant to the provisions of the Highway Law, and special provisions for projects financed with federal aid funds, sealed proposals will be received until ten-thirty o'clock a. m., advanced standard time, which is nine-thirty o'clock a. m., eastern standard time, on the 5th day of September, 1951, by Henry A. Cohen, Director, Bureau of Contracts & Accounts, 14th Floor, The Governor Alfred E. Smith State Office Building, Albany, N. Y., for the following project in Ulster County.

CONTRACT NO.—FA. RC 51-24
TYPE—Installation of 14 Automatic Recording Traffic Counters in DISTRICT #8
DEPOSIT FOR PLANS—$10.
BID DEPOSIT—$1000
DEPT. EST.—$18,550

Maps, plans, specifications, and estimates may be obtained at the office of the Department of Public Works, Bureau of Contracts and Accounts, Albany, N. Y., and at the office of the District Engineer, J. S. Bixby, Pleasant Valley Road, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and may be seen at the office of the State Department of Public Works, 270 Broadway, New York City.

The deposit for Plans and Proposal Forms for each contract is indicated. A refund will be made in full to bidders for return of one set, in good condition, within 30 days of award, or rejection of bids; refund for all other sets in good condition, similar period, will be 50% of deposit.

Special attention of bidders is called to "General Information for Bidders" in the proposal, specification, and contract agreement, and to the special provisions applying to projects financed with federal funds. Award of a contract is subject to the "Controlled Materials Plan" of the National Production Authority as well as to regulations issued thereunder.

Proposal for each contract must be submitted in a separate sealed envelope with the name and number of the contract plainly endorsed on the outside of the envelope. Each proposal must be accompanied by draft or certified check payable to the order of the "State of New York, Commissioner of Taxation and Finance" for the sum as specified in the advertisement and the proposal. The retention and disposal of the bidding check, the execution of the contract and bonds shall conform to the provisions of the Highway Law, as set forth in "Instructions to Bidders."

When optional types are permitted on contracts with federal funds, bidders must state in the space provided in the proposal the exact designation of the optional type upon which the proposal is predicated.

Ten Are Quizzed In Crime Probe of Columbia County

Catskill, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—Some public officials will be questioned in the state crime commission's investigation into crime and possible corruption in Columbia county, a commission official says.

Ten persons were quizzed yesterday when the commission opened its probe.

There were no public officials among them. However, H. Bartow Farr, Jr., assistant counsel to the commission, told newsmen later some officials would be called.

Three women who pleaded guilty last year to operating disorderly houses in Hudson and several businessmen were interrogated yesterday.

Hudson, across the Hudson river, is the Columbia seat.

The headquarters were set up in Catskill, the Greene county seat, as a matter of convenience. Greene county is not being investigated.

There is no indication whether the commission, created by Governor Dewey last spring to investigate crime and corruption in the state, would hold a full-dress public hearing, such as that conducted in Ogdensburgh recently.

The three women questioned here were identified as Daisy Rowley, Mary Thomas and Vera Faith. They were arrested June 24, 1950, by state police in raids at Hudson.

Fog Delays Sailing

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—A low-hanging fog today delayed the sailing of the 83,673-ton liner Queen Elizabeth and caused minor delays in ferryboat service. The world's largest liner will sail for Europe 12 hours late on the 3 p. m. (EST) tide. On her last visit here London-like weather delayed her arrival 13 hours and her departure for the same time. The sun burned out the haze after rush-hour Staten Island-Manhattan ferries were delayed five to seven minutes.

Divorce Final

Final decree of divorce in the case of Lettie Dismuke against Samuel Dismuke of Kingston was entered on August 8. Hearing in the action was held at Albany special term of Supreme Court before Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth. Custody of the child is granted to the plaintiff with permission to resume her maiden name of Lettie Ferguson. Joseph Avis, appeared as attorney for the plaintiff.

VFW Asks Release Of Pair by Czechs

New York, Aug. 29 (AP) — The Veterans of Foreign Wars today called on the United Nations to help free William N. Oatis, Associated Press correspondent, and a New Jersey "Forgotten Man" from prison in Czechoslovakia.

John Hveszda, of Hillside, N. J., was identified by Adrian Grobsmith, of Syracuse, chairman of the VFW national legislative committee, as the "Forgotten Man."

He said Hveszda has been held in Czechoslovakia since May, 1950, on charges of spying for a foreign government while studying in the Russian satellite country. Oatis also was jailed on spy charges.

Problem of Discrimination

Another "smudge" on democracy's armour, Tobin said, is the problem of racial and religious discrimination. "There is no more powerful weapon in the arsenal of Communist propaganda than the charges of discrimination in the United States," he continued.

Tobin said "tremendous progress" has been made, but "we must step up our efforts to eliminate the problem that has been the excuse for the lies" put out by the Reds to "impress" the world, particularly the African and Asiatic peoples.

While armaments will stop Communist agression, Tobin said, only the untarnished idea of democracy will defeat the idea of communism, which "you can't destroy * * * with guns."

"This is the great battle that cannot be fought on a battlefield," he added. "This is the battle that all of us must join in. We must conquer communism by showing the world that democracy is better."

Communists Build Up Their Strength

U. S. 8th Army Headquarters, Korea, Aug. 29 (AP)—Communist troops built up their strength along the Korean front today despite clearing weather which exposed them to Allied air and artillery attack.

A sudden break in the rainy spell also brought on a jet battle along the Korean-Manchurian border. Sixty Red and Allied jets swirled from 8 down to 2½ miles above the earth in a bloodless dogfight.

Red ground reinforcements were spotted moving up to the lines in the iron triangle sector of the central front and east of the Kaesong neutral area on the western front. They moved in groups of 100 to 200.

Red assault troops lashed out in a series of predawn attacks along the eastern front but pulled back to their own lines by daylight to escape the blasting fire of American artillery.

Hill 4s Attacked

On the extreme eastern flank South Koreans attacked a Communist hill position west of Kansong just before noon. The battle raged into mid-afternoon as the Reds rushed up reinforcements.

Only reported Red gain was north of Yanggu, 27 miles to the southwest. The Communists overran a South Korean command post, forcing the United Nations unit to pull back after an intense pitched battle.

Another battle broke out in the iron triangle, former Red troop assembly area. A strong UN patrol moved to within sight of Pyonggang, northern apex of the triangle.

The patrol fought two hours with Reds holding a hill overlooking the town. A strong UN patrol moved to within sight of Pyonggang, northern apex of the triangle.

stayed away from their jobs in 15 states. Pickets marched quietly in front of mines and processing plants, idling another 42,000 members of AFL craft unions and railroad brotherhoods who would not cross their lines.

The mine, mill union was kicked out of the CIO in 1950, along with ten other unions, on charges that its leadership was following the Communist party line rather than CIO policy. The union says its policy is that of its members.

While all the Washington negotiations involve the Kennecott Company, the strike hit scores of producers, including the other members of the "big four"—Anaconda, Phelps-Dodge, and American Smelting and Refining Co.

Army Tries New Flying Saucers to Supply Soldiers

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—The army is experimenting with flying saucers—yes, flying saucers—to supply troops in the field with water, gasoline and other liquids.

It announced yesterday that disc-shaped containers made of synthetic rubber have been dropped from altitudes of 400 to 2,000 feet without bursting or spilling their five gallon contents of liquids.

When they hit the ground, the army said, they stretch to almost double their normal size, bounce back into the air and then settle down near the point of contact.

Tests have shown the containers, made in cooperation with the General Tire and Rubber Co., may be dropped many times without damage.

The army described these honest-to-goodness, junior sized flying saucers as looking like inflated pancakes, about two feet across and weighing five pounds.

The answers to everyday insurance problems
By HERMAN J. EATON

QUESTION: We just bought a new auto insurance policy and now we've decided to sell our car. Is there any way of getting anything back on the insurance?

ANSWER: Yes, your agent will be glad to obtain a refund for you. If you are buying another car you can just have your policy changed to cover the new car but if not the refund will be made in cash.

•If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be NO CHARGE OR OBLIGATION OF ANY KIND.

Proclamation

Defense Bond Drive

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk in the following statement asks support of the Defense Bond Drive scheduled to start in the nation Sept. 3:

September 3 signals the start of America's first Defense Bond Drive across the nation.

Defense of our country is not just the job of our boys in battlegarb, who are risking and giving their lives in the cause of freedom. Defense of our country is everybody's job—mine and yours.

We can all help defend our country by buying Defense Bonds because, although Defense Bonds fight on the home front rather than the battlefront, they are weapons of defense just as surely as are tanks, planes and guns.

Just as our boys on the battlefront must be constantly on the job, we can not defend out country on the home front on at hit-or-miss basis. We must build up our defenses on the home front constantly and systematically. And we cannot afford to relax, no matter what the outcome of peace negotiations in Korea.

In defense of our country, I urge every one of you to give most serious thought to investing as much as you can regularly and systematically in Defense Bonds. You can buy bonds regularly and automatically through the payroll savings plan where you work, or through a Bond-A-Month plan or over the counter at your bank, or you can buy Defense Bonds and Stamps at your post office.

Share the responsibility for your country's defense by getting behind your country's first Defense Bond Drive. Invest in Defense Bonds regularly for your own and and your country's future. Back up our fighting men who stand ready to give their lives.

OSCAR V. NEWKIRK,
Mayor.

Winter Storage Space

A simple winter storage space for cabbage and other garden products may be made by burying large tiles upright. A cover may be made out of wood with adequate additional straw for frost insulation.

There are about 75 million telephones in the world.

Charge Against Litts Dismissed in Court

A charge of leaving the scene of an accident against Harry Litts, 45, of Ulster Park, was dismissed in city court today when the complainant failed to appear.

Litts was arrested Aug. 23 when it was alleged that a car he was driving struck one owned by Joseph P. J. Winter, of East Chester street, on Abeel street.

Authorities said Litts was pursued to Eddyville where he was stopped on the mountain road and arrested on a reckless driving charge on complaint of Rawlson DeLavan, 251 Abeel street, one of the men who had chased the car. He is scheduled for hearing on that charge before Peace Justice Percy Bush, town of Ulster, at 6:30 p. m. today.

Sgt. Arthur Reilly of the state police brought Litts before Bush and following arraignment there he was turned over to the local police and booked on the charge of leaving the scene of an accident. Litts was released under $50 bail on each charge.

Protect YOURSELF Against BLOWOUT ACCIDENTS!

LifeGuard Safety Tubes by GOODYEAR Make Blowouts Harmless

DON'T LET THIS HAPPEN

LifeGuards ARE SAFE
You can put LifeGuard Safety Tubes in your present tires whether they're new or used . . . are recapped or still have original treads . . . and drive with your mind free from fear of blowout accidents.

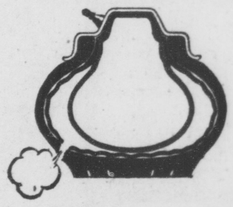

LifeGuards ARE SURE
LifeGuard Safety Tubes are still the best blowout-accident protection that you can buy for your car today. There is no such thing as a blowout-proof tire but LifeGuards make any blowout as harmless as a slow leak.

They're ECONOMICAL, too
LifeGuard Safety Tubes will usually outlast at least three sets of the same size tires besides helping you to get the last mile from your tires with safety. Proved blowout-accident protection for over 16 years.

Remember . . . there is no such thing as a blowout-proof tire!

ORDINARY TUBE HAS ONLY 1 AIR CHAMBER

LIFEGUARD SAFETY TUBE HAS 2 AIR CHAMBERS

When a tire with LifeGuard blows out, only the outer chamber gives way. The reserve cord fabric inner tire supports car — deflates slowly. You have ample time to bring car to safe, straightline stop.
